Village opposes promotion bill

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board voted unanimously to send a letter in opposition to Senate Bill 850. The bill would limit the ability of police and fire chiefs to use subjective criteria and judgment in promotions.

"It is a ridiculous bill," said Antioch Police Chief Chuck Miller. "Sometimes there are far more outstanding, less senior candidates."

In a nutshell, the bill would limit promotion criteria to a pass/fail test. Then, those who passed would be promoted based on seniority only.

Promotion tests would be multiple choice. No written essays or oral examinations would be permitted.

Miller said discipline records, honorable mentions and citations, and other non-measurable elements such as character and performance factors could not be considered if the bill were to pass. He told the board Fire Chief Carney was also opposed to the bill.

The problems with the Chicago lieutenants exam and merit promotions is believed to be the catalyst of this bill. The proposed Police and Fire Department Promotion Act would eliminate all local authority regarding promotions.

A legislative alert was sent to the members of the Lake County Municipal League. The Alert recommended contacting Senate members to stop this bill.

The bill is expected to be brought to the Illinois Senate floor in the next week or two. The board unanimously approved a measure opposing the bill.

Baxter seeks haz-mat location

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Antioch Village Board approved a request by Baxter International to send a letter to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, supporting Baxter's plan to hold a household hazardous waste collection in the fall.

"It is a great opportunity to get rid of those things," explained Mayor Marilyn Shineflug.

Apparently, a village resident called last year hoping to get rid of some DDT she found in her garage. She had wanted to dispose of the gallon of chemicals in a safe way.

"I told her it should be no problem," said Trustee Don Amundsen. "How wrong I was."

According to Amundsen, after numerous phone calls, the village learned there was no nearby site to dispose of hazardous waste.

Instead, sites are set up three or four times a year around the state, but not necessarily near Antioch. When the village called to arrange for a "special pick up," staff learned such collections are expensive.

"The state should have something within 50 miles of here," said Amundsen. "There is no way to dispose of this stuff. Frankly, I blame the state."

Shineflug told the board attempts are being made to establish two permanent locations to dispose of household hazardous waste. "This should help conscientious people get rid of this stuff," said Shineflug.

"I'm glad to see Baxter doing this," said Amundsen. The board unanimously agreed to send a letter of support for Baxter.

Membership drive seeks merchants

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Oakwood Knolls Property Owners Association, in an effort to increase membership, is going to Antioch business owners for some help. A letter will be sent out next week asking merchants for "incentives" to help with the spring membership drive.

"At least initially, the response is good," said Tom O'Malley, president of the association. O'Malley has also presented his idea to the Antioch Chamber of Commerce.

The association is asking merchants to offer incentives and special discounts to dues paying members of Oakwood Knolls. O'Malley feels this is a "win-win" situation.

"Perhaps the biggest benefit to you as a potential participant in the program is the fact that we, as an Association, are attempting to direct as much business into your establishment from the members of our Association..." O'Malley explains in his letter.

So far, two merchants have agreed to the program. A local bank agreed to offer low cost or free savings accounts for children. Also, a construction company indicated a willingness to join in the project.

Coop program to get assistance from Antioch

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

The Cooperative Extension program will be getting a boost from both Antioch Township and the Village of Antioch this year. This is the first time local contributions have been sought by the organization.

"They used to get funding elsewhere," Mayor Marilyn Shineflug explained to trustees. "But, this year, they are wholly reliant on local funding."

The organization offers the Master Gardener Program, educational programs, advice and technical assistance, as well as university research. Last year, Antioch residents used the service 438 times.

Local donations by municipalities would allow for matching funds from the state. The organization is hoping for a donation of $2,000 from the village. The township has already okayed a donation.

Because the village is in the budgeting process, the board approved a motion to refer the matter to the financial committee for review.

Cooperative Extension has offered to come before the village board for a presentation, which would include all the services available.

ACHS prom preparations begin

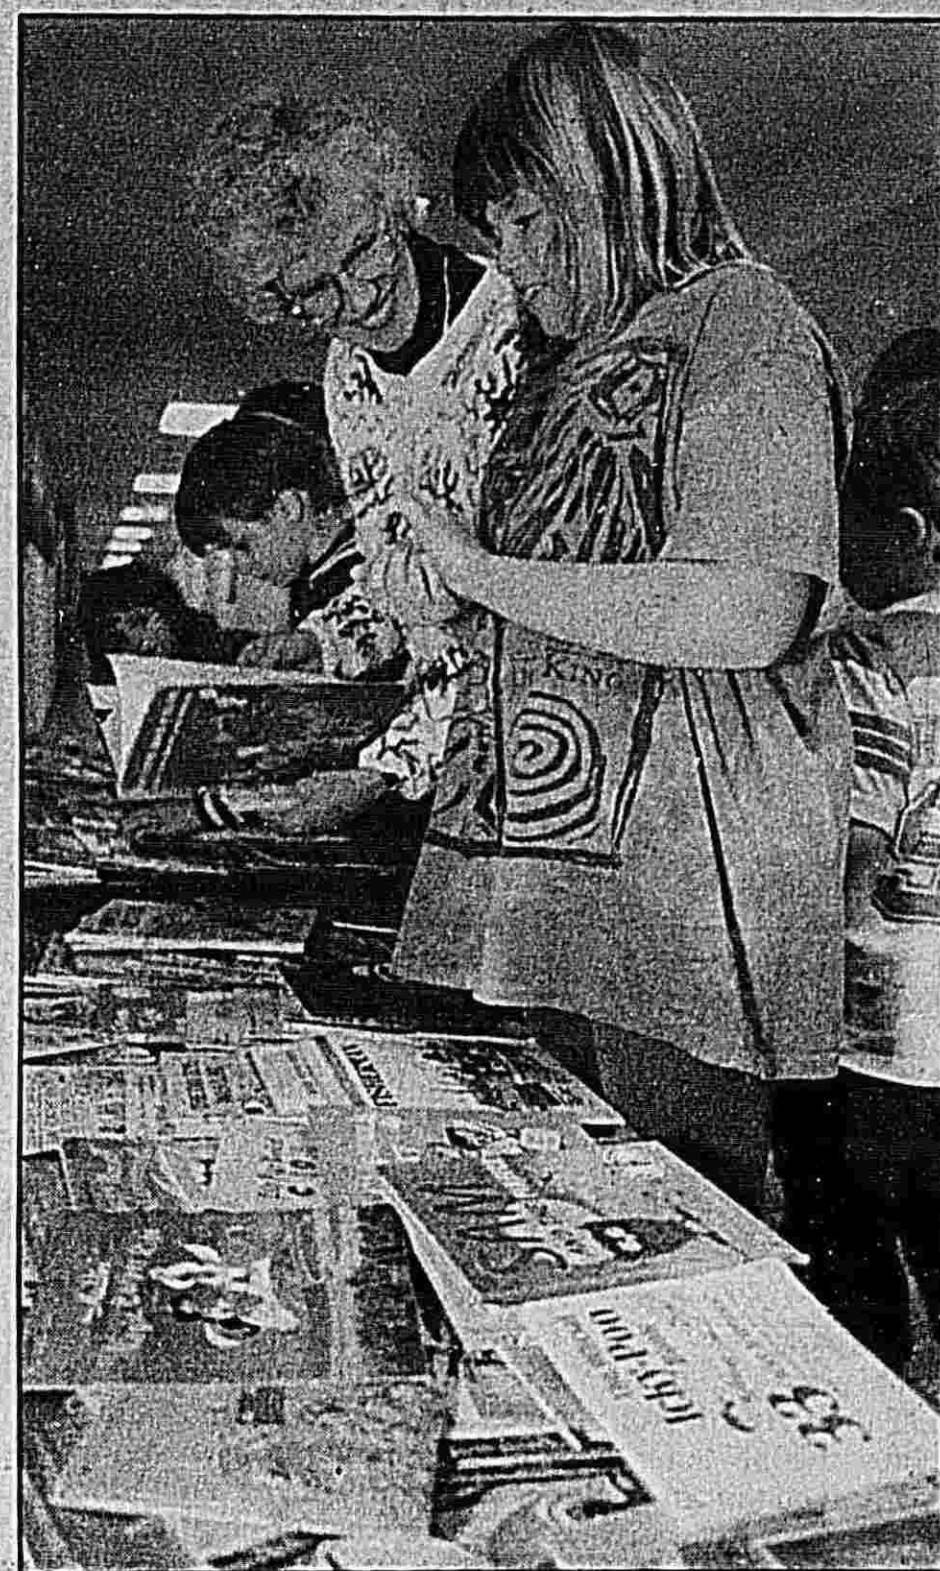

Antioch Community High School is gearing up once again for prom week. This year's prom will be held at the Hyatt Regency O'Hare.

The theme of this year's prom is "This Magic Moment." Dinner will be served and a free cola bar will be available. Music will be provided by ABC DJ.

Tickets to the prom went on sale April 17 and cost $40 per person and $75 for couples. No transportation to the prom will be offered, but a bus for parents will be offered. The bus will take parents from the school to the Hyatt so they may pick up the cars of students heading to the Post Prom party.

This year's Post Prom party, sponsored by the ALL parents group, will be held on the boat, The Odyssey. A charter bus will leave the prom at 11:30 p.m. heading to Navy Pier.

The cruise is two hours long (from 1 to 3 a.m.) and a charter bus will return students to the high school between 4:30 and 5:30 a.m. The cost to students is $15 and tickets for the event cost $15.

Art Show

The Antioch Woman's Club is sponsoring its 8th Annual Very Special Art Show. The show will be held on Saturday, April 29, and Sunday, April 30, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the commons area of Antioch Community High School. This year, the artistic talents of Antioch Upper Grade School and Antioch Community High School students will be exhibited. There is no charge for this event. Monetary awards will be given to the winners, who will be chosen by Robert Plossman from the College of Lake County as well as the "Visitor's Choice."

Generous donation

The Antioch Woman's Club has donated $400 to the PM&L Theater. The theater plans to apply the money towards the general building fund, which is used to make renovations and improvements in the theater. PM&L is currently in the process of building dressing room and costume storage facilities.

Community prayer

On May 4, National Day of Prayer, a non-denominational community prayer service will be at the pavilion at Williams Park. All area churches are participating. The Antioch service will be held from noon to 12:25 p.m. and everyone is encouraged to attend. The community prayer service is sponsored by the Antioch National Day of Prayer Committee.

Changes at pool

There will be several changes at the Antioch Aqua Center this season. A variety of swimming lessons will be offered including a 5-day a week series, a 3-day-a-week series, and Saturday lessons. Those interested may sign up through the mail or in person at the Antioch Village Hall. No registration applications will be accepted before May 1. Pool hours this year will be from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on weekends. A complete schedule can be picked up at the village hall. Season passes are available and the pool opens this year on Monday, May 29.

Dancing up a storm

In honor of National Dance Week, April 24-30, Antioch's own Studio One Dance Troupe will perform at Antioch Lower Grade School. The performances will be on April 26 at 9:30 and 10 a.m. On Friday, April 28, Studio One will offer free dance lessons. The schedule includes: Creative Dance from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.; Beginning Ballet/Tap/Jazz at 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.; and Intermediate and Advanced Ballet/Tap/Jazz from 5:30 to 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend and for more information call 395-2160.

Family Health Fair a hit with residents

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

There was a good turn-out at the Family Health Fair, sponsored by the St. Peter School Family Association in conjunction with Ms. Patti Cizowski, R.N. and her team of health care professionals from the community outreach program at St. Therese Medical Center.

Services at the fair included blood pressure screening, coronary risk profiles, nutrition information, adult glucose testing, adult cholesterol screening, information on stress management, height and weight, fingerprinting and identification kits for children, a health poster contest, safety, and water safety information from Hastings Lake YMCA.

Antioch Police Department officers were on hand to distribute information about safety issues. Antioch Rescue Squad, Antioch Fire Department, NICASA, and a host of others were available to help Antioch families keep safe and healthy.

A teddy bear clinic allowed children to learn basic first aid. Young people brought their sick and injured teddy bears which were bandaged, wrapped, and splinted. Children also seemed to really enjoy coloring the health posters.

Resolving Your Family-of-Origin Issues

Join us for the Life Skills Series of lectures on issues facing people in today's world. These educational lectures are free, and so is the parking! Refreshments provided.

Wednesday, April 26, 1995 7-8 p.m.

John Jochem, Psy.D., C.A.D.C.
Program Director, Adult Psychiatry
Saint Therese Medical Center

Early experiences within our family-of-origin may impact and define our current family roles, expectations of others, and ways in which we communicate and interact as adults. Self-esteem is greatly influenced by the experiences we had in our families as children. Sometimes these roles, or "scripts," lead to difficulties that contribute to marital conflicts, strained family communication and difficulty in managing periods of family transition.

This presentation will help participants gain an awareness of how one's early family experiences contribute to current problems and, how to break out of old patterns by learning new scripts and new communication skills.

Dr. Jochem is a clinical psychologist and certified substance abuse counselor. In addition to his position as program director of adult psychiatry at Saint Therese Medical Center, he is in practice with ABLC Behavioral Health Resources, with offices in Waukegan and Libertyville.

Police Beat

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Disorderly Conduct

Anthony Askew, 27, of Antioch, was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct on April 16. When policed arrived, they observed him "throwing a potted plant around." Askew appeared to be intoxicated and was angry about an earlier verbal argument. Askew was released on bond.

Battery

John R. Elko, 38, of Elgin was arrested on April 16 for battery after police received an anonymous 911 call. Apparently a witness observed Elko hitting a woman while inside his car. Police observed the victim had a swelling around her left eye and scratches to her neck. According to the police report, Elko admitted to "losing his temper." He was released on bond with a May court date.

Transportation of alcohol

Brent Hall, 19 of Bristol, Wisconsin and Ryan F. Bell, 19, of Salem were arrested and charged with illegal transportation of alcohol on April 13. The men had been observed pulling out of a car dealership at 11:30 p.m. and police stopped the car to investigate. The open cans of beer were in full view of the officers. The men were released on bond and told police they had been in the lot to consider the possible purchase of a car.

DUI

Robert D. Lindsay, 20, of Antioch, was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol on April 13. Lindsay was observed crossing the centerline on Main Street. He tested a .21 on the breathalyzer test. He was released on bond.

Groceries stolen

Leslie A. Short, 48, of Antioch was arrested and charged with retail theft on April 8. Short was observed pushing a cart full of groceries out of the Piggly Wiggly Store without paying for them. The total of the stolen groceries came to $121.36. Short told police she had taken the items because she had no money to pay for them. She was released on bond.

LAKE VILLA

Alluding police

Lake Villa police charged Kenneth R. Kuzmicki, 34, of Antioch with two counts of speeding, operating an uninsured motor vehicle, attempting to elude a police officer, driving while license revoked and improper use of registration, April 9 at 2:22 p.m. Kuzmicki was observed traveling 64 mph in a 45 mph zone while traveling northbound on Rte. 83 in the 700 block. His speed was recorded by a patrol officer using a stationary radar. When the officer attempted to apprehend Kuzmicki he refused to stop. He was finally stopped one-quarter mile north of the intersection of Grass Lake Road. He was released after posting $200 in cash on the traffic offenses and $300 in bond for a Lake County warrant on which he was being sought. He will appear in court May 10.

Drive-off

Stan's Citgo reported the theft of 9.28 gallons of gas, April 14 at 11:58 p.m. The offenders were driving a Red Ford Escort.

LINDENHURST

Possession

Lindenhurst Police charged Jason J. Medema, 23, of Antioch with driving under the influence of drugs, not wearing a safety belt and driving in the wrong lane following a traffic stop April 14 at 2:30 a.m. Medema was observed crossing the center line by an officer on routine patrol. A baggie found in his possession tested positive for cocaine. The amount was less than 30 grams. He was transported to Lake County Jail for a bond hearing.

Charged with DUI

Mary E. Dill-Lee, 41, of Antioch was charged with driving under the influence, driving in the wrong lane and driving an uninsured motor vehicle when stopped by police April 15 at 2:38 a.m. She was released after posting her Illinois driver's license and $100 cash as bond. She will appear in court May 16 in Waukegan.

Multiple violations

Police charged Roger L. Wennersten of Ingleside with driving while licensed suspended, improper registration and operation of an uninsured motor vehicle following a traffic stop for not displaying proper registration, April 15 at 5:20 p.m. He was released after posting an I-bond and will appear in court May 3.

Long sentences await robbers

While bank robberies continue at a rapid rate, law enforcement officials report the majority of suspects are caught in the first 18 months after the theft.

"We are satisfied that the bank robbers are being charged and convicted and receiving long sentences. We hope a message will come out of this," Robert Long, Federal Bureau of Investigation spokesperson, said.

Kathryn B. Lord was sentenced to 13 years in prison for bank robberies at Heritage Bank in Kenosha, Harris Bank of Libertyville's Gurnee branch and American National Bank in Waukegan. She was sentenced April 13 in the courtroom of Federal Court Judge Marvin Aspen.

John T. Hunter and his son were sentenced to 377 years and 317 years for their part in bank robberies in the Arlington Heights area.

The total of bank robberies in the Chicago area is 67. The record-setting year was 1991 with 91 bank robberies.

"We are having 2.5 times the number of bank robberies we usually have. The percentage of those being solved is way up, up to 40 percent and some 24-25 people have been arrested," Long said.

Three-quarters of bank robbery suspects are caught within 18 months of the hold-up.

"They are all anonymous at first, so we have to build an identity," Long said.

He said they are sometimes found after being caught for minor offenses such as traffic. In one case, a bank robbery suspect of a Lansing, Ill. hold-up was caught when police in a California town found a panhandler.

"It is usually just a matter of time," Long said.

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

In the wake of the attempted murder of a Grayslake woman in her home on Killarney Ct., Haryan Farms residents have taken solace in understanding the instance is a rare act for the neighborhood.

In the attack, a 28-year-old mother of one was stabbed and shot by two Evanston-area men who had been denied access to her home when they had earlier asked to use the phone. The two returned and smashed the rear sliding glass door, then attacked the woman while she was making a desperate 9-1-1 call to Grayslake police.

Soon after, the offenders were apprehended on Washington St. The woman survived the attack and was released from Condell Medical Center the following afternoon. The child was unharmed in the attack.

The Haryan Farms neighborhood was a bevy of activity just days after the attack with people going about their daily routines outdoors due to the upturn in the weather. People could be seen doing yard work, riding bikes, watching their children play, taking walks and just sitting on the front step taking in the sun. One woman sitting out front did not think the home invasion was great cause for concern in the upscale neighborhood where home prices begin at $200,000.

"We thought this is a safe place. We still feel it is," the two-year Grayslake resident said.

She did not wish to be identified because she did not want to answer calls about the subject. She said the neighborhood has an active community watch program and she knows all her neighbors, which helps her watch for irregularities.

Like most residents, she did not learn of the attack on her neighbor around the corner until the next day. She came home and noticed the back door was boarded up. Since the family had only been in the home roughly a month, not yet enough time to hang curtains, she thought they might be replacing the patio door with something else.

She did have some explaining to do to her guests from North Carolina as Grayslake Fire department divers searched in two subdivision ponds for the gun used in the attack. She assured them the neighborhood was secure and they were safe.

"I feel extremely safe here. I probably wouldn't be sitting out here on the front porch if I didn't feel safe," she said.

Another woman who lives within site of the home on Killarney Ct. was out front landscaping her lawn. She did not know where Killarney Ct., a cul-de-sac at the bend of a street, was until she read about the account in the newspaper and looked out the window. Since learning of the attack, learning the details has made her feel more at ease.

"The more we find out about the case, the better most people feel. I would worry more if it they were here for a burglary, but it sounds like they were here for her," she said.

Perna Stallone, who lives a block away from where the attack occurred, is in the process of selling her home and is concerned the incident will cast an unfair shadow on the quiet area. She says the streets are watched continually because nearly every other house has a stay at home mom and they each look out for the other's children.

"If we could take the community with us, we would," she said.

For more details on the crime and investigation see the story on page B 1.

Haryan Farms resident Perna Stallone, with 15-month old son Lucas, is concerned the upscale neighborhood will get a bad image from a home invasion and attempted murder. Grayslake residents are slightly comforted in knowing the attack was not a random act.—Photo by Todd F. Helsler

Grass Lake School presents a country hoedown

Grass Lake School is having a Country Hoedown on May 20 from 5 to 10 p.m. It screams "country" from the split-rail fenced ticket booth to the campfire complete with singalong. In between, there will be pony rides for the young at heart, food, games, line dancing, country music, a country store, hay rides, raffles and more.

Advanced tickets for adults are $2, $1 for seniors and kids. Children under four are admitted free of charge. Prices at the door will be $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for seniors and kids.

So get out your calendars and mark down that date. Then polish up your cowboy boots, dust off your cowboy hat and put on your fanciest fringed shirt. Or lace up your sneakers, don an old baseball cap, such in your stomach and zip up your jeans. Either way, turn off the TV, get up off the couch, rustle everyone into the car and come on down to the school for an evening of family-filled fun.

Organist needed

I have been singing with the St. Peter's Church Choir for about 12 years now. Some of you may be saying "whoopee," but there is a point to this story. The organist that has been accompanying the choir is going off to school so we have an empty organ bench that needs to be filled. Anybody out there who might be interested, please, please, oh please give us a holler.

We practice on Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9 p.m., and we sing on Sundays at the 9:30 a.m. Mass. We only sing from September until May, so you even get the summers off—what a deal! The pay isn't much, but the fringe benefits will pave your road to heaven.

We work pretty hard, most of the time anyway, but we also have a good chuckle or two. We do a wide variety of music. The altos and sopranos like upbeat light rock, even though most of them are of the big band era, while the tenors and basses are more partial to '50s and '60s. But most of the music is churchy and God-related.

Fr. Hanley, our pastor, is pretty open-minded about our music and generally gives our choir director a free hand in picking out the songs. He did, however, draw the line when she prepared a "stroll," accompanied by "shoobee-do-wah's," from the choir for his entrance into Mass one Sunday. He didn't think the church or parishioners were quite up for that kind of a modern opening to morning Mass.

So, if you think you would like to be part of this angelic team, call our choir director, Jeanine, at (414)728-4750. Now she lives way up in Hooterville (actually, it's Walworth, Wis., but it's pretty darn close to Hooterville), so if you would rather just call Betty at the church rectory at 395-0276 and give her your name and number and she will get that information to Jeanine. Just think how happy you will make us 35 choir members, and believe me, you will have one very ecstatic choir director.

It's a hit

Wow, this military preschool idea ideas I had has been very well received by many moms and dads in the Antioch area. I've had several calls from parents who are truly interested—heck, I even made "Lipservice" regarding this matter. Anybody with the know-how to start up such a school would have no problem filling up the classrooms, or cells, whichever they deem more practical.

I have even had a few requests from people to extend the school beyond preschool and up into the primary grades, as well.

To create such a school would probably be highly welcomed by the public schools. It would ease overcrowding and remove all those "special" kids from the regular classrooms so teachers could spend time teaching and not disciplining. It would free up time during school board meetings; no parents would be standing before the members pleading their child's case.

And if we carried this up through high school, with its rigid regulations and restrictions, the military school would make the students' transition into the penitentiary that much easier. Let's face it, that's where some of these kids are headed.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Now I don't want anyone taking offense to this. I am not picking on a select group here. Well, maybe I am, but believe me when I say I have a three-year-old who would be queen of such a school, so I speak from experience.

I love my daughter dearly. She makes me laugh and loves me with all her little heart, but I'm not an ostrich with my head in the sand—this one's gonna be trouble! So, to all the parents out there going through this, be assured you are not alone.

Perhaps we should form a support group, a kind of "play group" for the less disciplined. We could call it "Combat." Our only roadblock would be who in their right mind would want all these kids together in their house for even 20 minutes a week? Exactly at what age will the Army take them?

A plea for justice

I've heard there have been some rumblings between spouses regarding my column. Now

I'm not trying to toot my own horn here, but I've been told some people really look forward to reading this column every week. Thank you, thank you—but people, please, with all the family problems out there we don't need any more reasons to upset that marital bliss.

A certain couple residing in Antioch Twp. has practically declared war on each other. The wife is a stay-at-home mom who spends all week nurturing, finding lost toys, wiping runny noses and refereeing children. She leads a simple life, not a lot of fluff and frills, and all she asks of her husband is to, please, let her read "Jingle from Pringle" first on Fridays.

It bugs her to no end when hubby reads at the kitchen counter and chuckles, or tries to sneak out just the page the article is on and deliver the rest of the paper intact, or how he tries to interpret each blurb in his own words. That is kind of like telling a joke and goofing up the punch line—it loses that spontaneity.

And then there's that never-ending grin that spreads across hubby's face when he is triumphant in his ambush. Wifey would like to just slap that grin right into the next county. And if that's not enough to frost her cakes, there's this neighbor who buys the paper on Thursday at the newsstand and is forever hollering over the back fence what the article says. AAAAAH!

So please, hubby Bill and neighbor Marie, please let Cindy read the article on her own on Friday when the paper arrives. I promise your lives, especially yours, Bill, will be a lot more pleasant.

Belated greetings

I want to wish a belated happy birthday to little Kelsie Kolle, who turned the big No. 1 in April. Big sister Karissa was so upset that I missed the little one's birthday. Sorry, Karissa, and now make sure mom puts this in Kelsie's baby book so when you are older and moaning about your little sister, she can show you how concerned you used to be about her.

Easter's over—Yay!

I hope everyone had a good Easter. I myself am glad the Easter season is over. Being Catholic, there are three things about Easter I'm not really crazy about: Ash Wednesday, Good Friday and Lent.

Ash Wednesday and Good Friday we have to fast—that is the hardest thing in the world for me to do. Normally I can go three days without even thinking of food, but boy those two days when we can't eat I am obsessed with food—it's obscene.

Then there is Lent. Now usually I give up ice cream every year. That's like giving up my right arm. This year, I decided instead of making that sacrifice I would do something really hard and be nicer to people. Wow, what a glutton for punishment I am.

It's amazing now that Lent is over and I can go back to being my normal sarcastic self, how not a single ugly moment has reared its head. It just proves my theory that God does indeed have quite a sense of humor. I figure turn-about is fair play and I, hopefully, have a good many years to plan my attack before we meet at those pearly white gates!

What's around the corner? Mother's Day!

It's happened again. It seems like just yesterday that you looked at the calendar and it said March—but here you are with May just around the corner. And we know what May brings—Mother's Day.

What should you do? You can't forget again. You need the perfect gift that gives the impression of long-term planning and thoughtfulness.

Relax. Antioch has so many great gifts and thoughtful activities, that it'll be a piece of cake (Cake? What about a Baskin-Robbins ice cream cake!).

If clothing is the way to your mom's heart, it's time to stop by Jack's Four Squires for the latest in spring/summer apparel. Personalized service will make your gift selection easy and quick. Don't forget to stop by the Clothes Connection for an additional selection of women's wear in sizes ranging from petite through misses.

Or do flowers bring a smile to Mom's face? If so, Lasco's and Floral Acres both have large selections of fresh-cut flowers and arrangements available. Maybe a corsage for our favorite "date"? Or if silk floral arrangements would brighten Mom's day, stop by Kathy's Cottage.

Don't forget to treat Mom to brunch. Hogan's and the Waterfall will present a special brunch with lots of delicacies. Reservations are suggested. If Mom isn't the type to trot back and forth to the brunch tables, treat her to one of Antioch's fine restaurants.

Mom is usually a good sport. Always willing to shoot a few baskets or throw a few curve balls, so maybe it's time for some new sports equipment or shoes. BJ's Sports has a diverse selection of equipment and footwear, whether it's baseball, volleyball or badminton. If Mom's been wanting some exercise equipment, stop by and talk to the knowledgeable staff at Antioch Schwinn, they carry a wide range of exercise equipment and stationary bikes.

A day of beauty at any of Antioch's salons makes a wonderful gift for all moms and grandmas. It's a perfect gift that can fit any budget. Gift certificates help make your choice personal and special.

If Mom enjoys arts and crafts and is always whipping together floral baskets or craft items, stop by Ben Franklin's and look through their extensive selection of craft supplies and materials. Whether her interest is in flower arranging or sewing, the staff can help you select the right gift. If your mom couldn't arrange a bowl of Easter eggs, but still enjoys crafts, visit the Tulip Patch. They have a lovely selection of crafts perfect for Mom's home decor.

What about jewelry? A special piece of jewelry is a wonderful way to express your feelings. Talk to Johnson's Jewelers or Persins and Persins for thoughtful suggestions to fit your budget.

Don't forget your kids. Kids love to shop for gifts for their moms. Whether it's a fancy box of "designer" Kleenex or a two-carat diamond ring they bought at a fun fair at school, they are happy to pick out a special gift for Mom.

Make Mom's Mother's Day weekend complete by bringing her along to Antioch's "Go Fly a Kite" Day on Saturday, May 13. Mom can participate in a kite flying contest just for moms, and might even win a Mother's Day cup. It's a wonderful way to spend a day of quality time with Mom and the kids. Kids get free kits and ribbons.

Have a happy Mother's Day. Here's a tip for next year: Mother's Day is on May 12!

Everyone gets burned in arson

In the time it takes to read this article, more than $4,000 worth of property will be set on fire, making arson one of the costliest crimes facing the United States today.

But that's just part of the price that arson exacts. Each year more than 700 people die in arson fires. The National Arson Forum and Antioch Fire Prevention Bureau want to remind citizens that arson is a crime that burns everybody.

That's why the first week in May has been designated National Arson Awareness Week, to raise America's consciousness of this most costly of all fires and the steps that are being taken to combat it.

Motives for arson vary widely; they include vandalism, revenge and greed. But regardless of the motive, the results can be destructive and deadly.

According to the National Fire Protection Assn., each year at least 100,000 building fires are deliberately set. Thousands of autos and trucks also end up in the junk heap after being torched by an arsonist. Throw in the number of brush fires, rubbish fires and other fires that occur, and the total number of arson fires each year reaches more than 500,000.

The National Arson Forum says if anyone knows or suspects that an arson crime has been committed, they should contact their local fire department. Also, report suspicious activity near a house or other building to the local police and support neighborhood watch programs.

Other steps that can be taken include:

- Keep leaves, firewood or other combustibles away from buildings. A vandal may look at a stack of firewood against a house or garage as an invitation to start a fire.
- Keep doors and windows locked when a building is unoccupied.
- Take keys away from employees who leave the company. A disgruntled former worker with access to the building could destroy a business.
- Take safety measures such as installing a burglar and sprinkler systems.

Grayslake Park planning COURAGE event

The Grayslake Community Park Dist. will be hosting a COURAGE rollerblading special event on Sunday, May 21, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Grayslake High School parking lot.

Community Outreach Uniting Residents Against Gage Environment (COURAGE) is a partnership between the communities of Lindenhurst, Lake Villa, Antioch and Grayslake—organized to create a safe and healthy environment by taking a zero tolerance approach to street gangs using education, prevention and intervention.

The rollerblading event is being planned by students at Grayslake Middle School and representatives from Grayslake Park Dist., Dist. 46 and Grayslake Police Dept. Families are encouraged to come by the high school with roller-skates or rollerblades to participate in an afternoon of games, contests and just plain ole' fashioned fun. Food and beverages will be available during the event.

Local businesses who would like to contribute to this event may contact the park district at 223-4404.

4-H members qualify for competition

Eight Lake County 4-H members attended the 4-H Regional Horse Judging Competition at the Fox Valley Saddle Club Assn. in Elgin.

In attendance also were about 70 4-H members from several surrounding counties, including Kane, Cook, South Cook, DuPage and McHenry.

The 4-H members on the senior team representing Lake County were Lisa Hensley and Christie Otto from the Round Lake Explorers 4-H Club, Felice Kelly from Chain-o-Lakes Club, and Lauren Carlisle from the Grayslake Eager Beavers Club.

The 4-H members on the junior team from Lake County were Megan Gregory, Kate Davis and Bridget Engler from the Chain-o-Lakes Club and Jessica Broy from the Grayslake Eager Beavers Club.

Both teams qualified to represent Lake County at the 4-H State Horse Judging Competition which will take place in Champaign, Ill. at the end of June.

On the individual scoring part of the competition, Otto placed fifth in the senior division and Davis placed eighth in the junior division.

NEAL TUCKER
Staff Reporter

The Grayslake Grade School eighth-grade graduating class of 1937 was a close-knit group with 24 of the 25 class members going through the first eight grades together. The group is still close knit as they search for 'lost' classmates to join in a reunion this August.

Vir Jean Hook Halbrooks, now of Riverside, Calif., first got the idea to have a class reunion during centennial festivities, then mentioned the concept to Marjorie Rockenbach Rasmussen who said she had been thinking the same thing.

The two began contacting classmates from the most recent addresses they could find. Their success rate was high since they were able to find all but four of the surviving classmates. As classmates responded, it was interesting to Halbrooks to find they still share some common interests.

"When we come back for the reunion, I think we should hold a golf open. Almost everybody says they play golf regularly and just love it," she said.

Halbrooks is looking for readers' help to possibly locate the remaining classmates before the reunion.

Not found are: James Murrin, Jr., Lloyd Rider, Kenneth Rossdeutcher and Thomas 'Bud' Struthers.

Even though the close-knit group had gone through grade school together in a less transient society, not one of them graduated from Grayslake High School. The current high school facility was not built until 1947, so the class from Grayslake which went on to graduate high school in 1941, was split up in four different high schools.

Depending on where students lived in or around Grayslake, students went to high school at Grant, Antioch, Libertyville or Warren. Students such as Orlena Rich came from a farm where CLC stands and Rosa Harold came from a farm west of town on Rte. 120 where subdivisions now exist.

Anyone with information on the whereabouts of these individuals can contact Halbrooks at (909)686-4276 or classmate Wesley Druce at 223-4901.

Halbrooks said the class was spread to the ends of the earth after graduation with the advent of World War II. She married a young Antioch man who was killed while piloting his P-51 Mustang. Later, she married his best friend, Grover Travis Halbrooks, who was in Chuck Yeager's squadron. She said she visits with Yeager from time to time since he lives close by in Grass Valley.

She remembered some of her early days in Grayslake, including well known-resident Everett Hook and Mr. Schlottman, the publisher of the Grayslake Times. Hook, who said he had hoped to live to see the Grayslake centennial, was her second cousin twice removed. He was the one who taught her math when she came down to the lumber yard. And a strict teacher he was.

"Ev taught me how to add, subtract and divide. If I didn't get it right I heard about it. I think a lot of Ev," she said.

Halbrooks still subscribes to the Grayslake Times and recalls when she walked in front of the newspaper building at 30 South Whitney St. Schlottman would come out of the building and put a tiny smudge of printer's ink on her nose. She would be incensed.

"I didn't tease too well so of course they loved it," she said with a laugh.

Even though she has fled the winters of Northern Illinois for the mild climate of Southern California, Halbrooks still remembers and appreciates her roots.

"Grayslake was a wonderful place and I wouldn't trade growing up in small town for anything," she said.

Carmel travels the yellow brick road

Carmel High School's music department will be presenting three performances of the musical "The Wiz" on April 21, 22 and 23. Based on the story "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz" by Frank Baum and the book "The Wiz" by William F. Brown, this fast-paced and energetic musical provides a fresh interpretation of a classic tale. Featuring music and lyrics by Charles Small, this musical draws audiences into the magical world of Oz.

The plot is very similar to that of Frank Baum's story. young Dorothy, played by senior Charmaine Smith of Mundelein, is blown by a violent tornado from her native land of Kansas to the exciting land of Oz. There, the wreckage of her house squashes the evil witch Evvameene, making Dorothy a heroine among the tiny Munchkins who inhabit this land. Addaperle, the Good Witch of the North (played by senior Shannon Lundeen of Waukegan), advises Dorothy that in order to return to Kansas, she must consult the Wiz, a powerful being who lives in the Emerald City.

En route to this city, Dorothy encounters many confused beings, including a hip scarecrow (junior Pat Blake of Wauconda), a rusty tin man (senior Michael Shirley of Great Lakes), and a cowardly lion (senior Chris Rayner of Ingleside). Upon arrival in the Emerald City, the Wiz, played by junior Brian Nash of Barrington, sends the four adventurers on a mission to destroy Evillene, the Wicked Witch of the West (sophomore Devon Dudas of Lake Zurich).

In the process of accomplishing this task, the daring foursome is exposed to a whole new set of devious traps and tense moments. Eventually, Dorothy defeats the evil witch and the group returns to the Emerald City where they discover intriguing facts about the Wiz as well as about human nature. Glinda, the Good Witch of the South (Katie Hanson of Libertyville), appears and reveals to Dorothy the way to go home. Dorothy returns to Kansas, leaving the land of Oz in much better shape than it was when she arrived.

What sets "The Wiz" apart from other plays that dramatize "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz" is its modern, urban flair. Designed to be performed by an all-black cast, this musical's lively music, vibrant dancing and outrageous humor are bound to entertain.

Student directors Anne Dickinson of Hawthorn Woods, Natalie Mitchell of Lindenhurst and Jeff Schlessor of Mundelein will oversee the production of this musical with the aid of adults Kent R. Parry, music director; Fr. Jay Comerford, O. Carm., set director; Theresa Kaiser, creative consultant; Mary Solof, staging director; Ralph Kaiser, technical director; and Gail Wegener, costume designer.

Tickets for this exciting production are available through the Carmel Music Dept. at 566-3000, ext. 348. For the April 21 and 22 performances at 7:30 p.m., tickets will cost $5 for adults and $4 for students and senior citizens. For the 2 p.m. performance on Sunday, April 23, adults will be charged $5, students $4 and senior citizens $2.

McRae charged with battery on truck driver

Colin McRae, former Mundelein mayor and Lake County Forest Preserve District president, was arrested and charged with battery after an incident in the Hawley Commons parking lot around 11 a.m. April 11.

McRae, 51, was charged under a village ordinance last week after he was accused of shoving a truck driver during an argument.

According to reports and Police Commander Richard Beese, the driver of a large over-the-road truck pulled into the parking lot of the shopping center, which is posted for trucks weighing less than 8,000 pounds.

McRae was convinced the truck weighed more than the permitted limit. He confronted the driver and ordered him to leave. When the driver refused to leave McRae allegedly shoved him against the truck.

McRae posted $75 bond and was released to appear in court on May 25. He could not be reached for comment. The truck driver, a 45-year-old man from Ft. Wayne, Ind., was not injured during the incident.

Before losing his seat on the County Board in March 1994, McRae was involved in a dispute with fellow member Martha Marks during which he was reported to have shoved her. No charges were filed in that incident.

Lakes management workshop is coming

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

All the experts and information will be available for anyone who wants to know more about lakes at special meeting at the Lindenhurst Park District Community Center.

A Lakes Management Workshop is planned for April 29 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Many demonstrations and expert speakers will be on hand to answer any questions.

The Lindenhurst Lakes Management Commission and Illinois Lakes Management Association are co-sponsoring the seminar. Thanks to a grant from North American Lakes Management Society, ILMA has the resources to fund events such as these.

"Since my ILMA project involves the creation and coordination of one-day lake management workshops, I thought the best place for one to occur is in my home town, said Kathy Kuroski, project chairwoman and Lindenhurst resident. "It will target local grass roots associations, committees, boards, business leaders and all environmentally-oriented people."

The event will feature speakers who discuss issues such as fishing, weed chemical applications, sports recreation and how residents impact lake conditions. Residents can also tour the Lindenhurst waste water treatment plant to see how it works as well.

A box lunch is available for $3.50 per person. Those who intend to purchase the box lunch should call Lesley Banckek at 356-6648.

There will be door prizes and give-aways. For more information call the village hall at 356-8252.

Antioch woman honored for outstanding service

The American Association of Retired Persons has honored member Clara Haling of the Antioch Area Chapter 387. Haling was cited for her outstanding service to the community.

"Your deeds have given life to our motto, 'To Serve, Not To Be Served,' and have brought us closer to realizing our vision, 'Bringing lifetimes of experience and leadership to serve all generations,'" Lovola Burgess, president of AARP said in a letter to Haling. "You have enriched the lives of your friends and neighbors and have made your community a better place in which to live."

Haling has been a member of the Antioch AARP for over 20 years. She was presented with her award by Genevieve Horsch, president of the local chapter, at a special ceremony on April 11 at the Antioch Senior Center.

National-Louis Univ. offers MAT program

National-Louis Univ. will host a meeting May 8 to discuss its master of arts in teaching program, which will be offered in Lake County in the fall.

The meeting begins at 5:30 p.m. in the multipurpose room at Woodland Middle School, 17371 Gages Lake Rd., Gages Lake. The MAT program is designed for those individuals who hold an undergraduate degree in a field other than education and wish to enter the teaching profession.

It is offered through the university's National College of Education. The location of the Lake County program will be announced at a later date.

The program follows a cluster format in which a small group of students progress through the curriculum together. For further information, call 465-0575, ext. 5027.

Lake Villa AARP to hold card party

The ninth annual Luncheon and Card Party, sponsored by the Lake Villa Twp. AARP Chapter 3978, will be held at noon on April 27 at the VFW Hall on Grand Ave. in Lake Villa. There will be door prizes and a raffle. Donation of $4 at the door; all profits to be returned to the community.

community wants. He said the district will be in communication with other districts regarding possible referendums.

"There are other proposals out there and they should be considered," Simon said.

Other proposals include one by Grayslake which proposes a combination of Antioch and Grayslake high schools to create a high school in Lake Villa Township. However, no decisions have been made at this time.

The Lake Villa unit plan would have created a separate high school district for most of Lake Villa Township. The plan affected five other districts and was met with opposition in all of them except Lake Villa Elementary District. A main source of the friction was the division of assets issue, or the amount the existing district would pay the unit for the unit's share of that district's assets.

While the unit plan was soundly defeated in most areas, it was narrowly upended in Lake Villa Township. In the township, 46 percent of the voters supported the unit plan.

"With 46 percent of the vote and strong showing that we ought to have more discussion," Simon said.

Board President Craig Kressner will be surveying community members. He also will be in contact with other boards of education.

"We left with the intent to identify a meeting date for the school boards to meet again," said Dahl of the feeder school dinner. "Before we do anything, we need to know what kind of support there would be. We are open to other boards to see what they are looking at."

At this time, ACHS is not planning any type of referendum effort.

place there between 10 a.m. and noon. Hot dogs and pop will be available for planters. The committee's planting plan for this year is to put in 105 trees in the parks.

"We will have 16 large trees to be planted," said Al Little of the Arbor Day Committee. "And, we will be giving away 1,000 seedlings."

One of the bonuses of this rigorous planting schedule, besides the shade and oxygen these trees will someday provide, is Antioch's designation of Tree City USA. Antioch has received this award for three straight years.

"It's really fantastic," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, "the large turnout was had."

Last year, 1,500 trees were distributed. Little said trees are still available for this year and hopes everyone will stop by the park.

In the afternoon, a celebration of Earth Day will be held at Gander Mountain Forest Preserve, which is located off Wilmot Road near the state line.

The event will include a walk to Lake County's highest point, for a stunning view of the Fox River Valley. The walk will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. and participants must be 10 years of age or older.

Cost to participate is $2 for residents and $3 for non residents. Reservations are required and those interested should call 948-7750.

"Gander Mountain is one of Antioch's best kept secrets," said Judy Martini, Antioch's Lake County Board member. "It's just beautiful up there."

Antioch AARP chapter finds a president

Just a short time ago, Antioch Area Chapter 387 of the American Assn. of Retired Persons was in danger of closing forever because the Nominating Committee was unable to find a candidate for president. Chairman Marge LaParr told members at the meeting on April 11 that her committee now has a full slate of officers to present to them at the meeting on May 9. Election of officers will take place June 13 and the new officers will be installed at a luncheon on June 27.

Members celebrated Easter at the April 11 meeting with an Easter Hat Parade. Prizes were awarded to Florence Heimbrodt, LaParr and Stella Wiczorek. Wiczorek also won a prize in the colored egg contest.

The next meeting will be held April 25. Lunch will be served by the Senior Center.

Soccer invite features 16 travel teams

Carmel High School, the Mundelein Traveling Soccer Association and the Midwest Regional Medical Center have teamed up together to sponsor the first annual "Corsairs Spring Soccer Invitation."

First rounds of the 16-team, single elimination tournament will kick off at Carmel High School April 23 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Second rounds will be played on Monday and Tuesday at 5 and 7 p.m. The semifinals and championship games will be held on Thursday and Friday.

The 13- to 14-year-old traveling teams will represent several Lake County communities including Mundelein, Libertyville, Gurnee, Lindenhurst, Lake Zurich, Buffalo Grove and Lincolnshire.

Concessions will be available during the games, and a variety of exhibits will be offered including soccer skill stations and booths on sports medicine.

Turbos indoor season ends

The Lindenhurst U-12 Turbos ended its indoor season in Highland Park with a disappointing 5-2 loss to the Mite Select.

The Turbos' Jason Adams, Danny Blagojevic and Jeff Prorok played a strong offensive game, but the combination of a tough opposing goalkeeper and a struggling defense brought them up short.

The Mite Select scored first early in the game. The Turbos' Prorok tied the score at 1-1 with a goal off a pass from Blagojevic. The opponents struck again before the half, leaving the Turbos trailing by one goal.

The Turbos allowed two more goals in the second half before Prorok scored again, picking up a rebound off a shot by Justen Kent, putting the Turbos within striking range.

The momentum was with the Mite Select, however, as they knocked in another one with two minutes remaining to cap the win.

Coach: Cheerleaders merit prep sport recognition

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Although male cheerleading coaches are more common in other parts of the country, Antioch's Bill Goetzelman stands out in the North Suburban Conference as the sole male cheerleading coach.

A cheerleading coach for the past six years, Goetzelman has led champion squads at the regional and state level, and he said there is no magic secret to success other than treating cheerleaders like any other prep male or female athlete.

"I don't know if there is anything different between male and female cheerleading coaches," Goetzelman said. "My difference is I have treated them like any other athletic organization, and I have treated them like players. They're treated like the football team."

The problem is the state of Illinois does not recognize cheerleading as a legitimate high school sport. Although the state rescinded its restriction on basket tosses during cheerleading routines, the state is still quick to point out and regulate other potentially dangerous acts, yet it won't recognize cheerleading as a sport.

Cheerleading is no longer a popularity contest of eras past. It requires intense training and practice. Antioch cheerleaders, for example, practice year-round from the middle of August through the football and basketball seasons in preparation for spring competition. They could also be found performing for other special events such as village parades.

"They work as hard as any other athlete," Goetzelman said. "There's only a period of about 8 weeks out of the year when they don't practice."

In addition to their rigorous practice schedules, the truly competitive cheerleaders also are taking gymnastics and dance classes outside of school. The summer months are also filled with attending or directing cheerleading camps.

"Cheerleading is becoming and evolving so fast at the high school level that they're doing what college-level cheerleaders do," Goetzelman said. He also credits competitive cheerleading programs at the junior high school level and the Viking football cheerleading program for producing skilled cheerleaders for high school.

In the past year, the Antioch cheerleading team has fared well. They took first at the Palatine regional and second at the Stevenson regional before advancing to the state competition where they finished 14th.

"The skill level is outstanding, but I think my biggest role is to get 14 girls to act as one and to work as a single unit," Goetzelman said. "If they can act as one and perform as one, they have the chance to be in the top two or three in the state (next year)."

Sequoits look to erase 6-game baseball skid

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

A lack of consistency seems to be the blame for Antioch's six-game baseball skid.

Following a 5-4 loss to Round Lake, the Sequoits dropped the conference opener to Libertyville, fell twice to Grayslake in non-conference action and lost another conference game to Libertyville.

"We are not beating the teams we should be beating," said Coach Paul Petty. "It seems we're playing the tougher teams tougher, but we need to play all teams tough."

Against state-ranked Libertyville (15-1), Antioch (2-8) lost 5-1 and 9-4. Early-game errors proved costly for the Sequoits as the Wildcats capitalized in the first two innings during game one.

"We held them to five runs and five hits, but you can't make mistakes playing a team like Libertyville," Petty said after the 5-1 loss. "Walks become runs, and errors become runs."

Kevin Eckenstahler was credited with the RBI after Justin McRae doubled.

Grayslake put the better team on the field in a non-conference doubleheader as the Rams posted 13-4 and 5-2 victories over Antioch.

"We're just on a downhill run. We have a lot of potential. I just don't know where the inconsistency is coming from," Petty said.

In the second Libertyville contest, the Wildcats jumped out to a 9-0 advantage forcing Antioch to battle back. But the Sequoits could only manage 4 runs in their final at bat.

Craig Curtis tripled and Jim Groth doubled for the Sequoits. Antioch also scattered four singles in the game.

"We're not hitting consistent enough to bring some runs together," Petty said. "I think we need a little more discipline at the plate."

During the six-game setback, Petty said he has seen some positive play out of Stuart Johnson, a sophomore. "He's been consistent at the plate and plays a solid third base," Petty said.

Eckenstahler has also been putting the ball in play for the Sequoits. Number one pitcher Eric Eckenstahler has been battling an illness and has been sidelined during the dismal stretch. "That's 50 percent of our pitching staff right there," Petty noted. Eric Eckenstahler is expected back within the week.

Kevin Arft and Chris Pasarella have been pulling double time on the mound.

The coach still feels he may have to change the lineup to stir up some victories.

"We won't make too many wholesale changes, but I might have to break some hearts in the process," Petty said.

The Sequoits host Fenton Thursday before traveling to North Chicago Saturday for a twinbill. Antioch hosts Stevenson Tuesday.

"We have to win a couple of ball games to get some steam rolling," Petty said.

Lady Sequoits keep positive despite tough losses

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Scores may be deceiving, just ask the Lady Sequoits.

On paper, 19-9 and 11-1 losses look disheartening, but in reality the games were closer than they appear.

The Antioch softball team (4-3, 0-2) suffered its first two conference losses at the hands of the Libertyville Wildcats (4-4, 2-0).

In the first game, both teams connected for 14 hits a piece, but seven Antioch errors were the difference in the game. Libertyville led by as much as 9-1 before Antioch whittled the score down to 11-9 in the fourth inning. Libertyville poured on 8 runs in the final two innings to put the game away.

"Libertyville is a good team, but Antioch is as good as they are," said Antioch Coach Judy Smithheiser.

In the rematch, Libertyville threw its state-ranked pitcher Katie Kapfer at the Sequoits. On the mound for Antioch was first-year pitcher Stephanie Haenchen, a sophomore. The Sequoits held onto a 1-0 lead going into the fifth inning when the Wildcats unloaded with 10 runs.

"Libertyville just got hit after hit after hit. They were legitimate hits, and there's not much that we could have done," Smithheiser said.

With the exception of Katie Fetting, Antioch features a young pitching staff with Haenchen and Jamie Silarski, another sophomore. For both, this is their first year of pitching. To add to Antioch's misfortune, the Lady Sequoits have lost Silarski for the next two weeks due to a pulled muscle injury.

"I've got young pitching, and with Jamie Silarski out, we're in a tough spot right now," Smithheiser said.

Courtney Konrath scored on a Libertyville error. She singled before advancing to second on a bunt.

"We scored on every opportunity we had. Unfortunately for us, we only had the one opportunity," said Smithheiser, complimenting Kapfer's tough pitching. The Sequoits could only muster three hits against Kapfer.

She added, "We did things right, and we are there. We're just not able to complete the game."

Smithheiser has high hopes in Haenchen, Christa Badame and Erin O'Connell in coming through with bats as the Sequoits continue their conference schedule. The coach still might alter the outfield lineup.

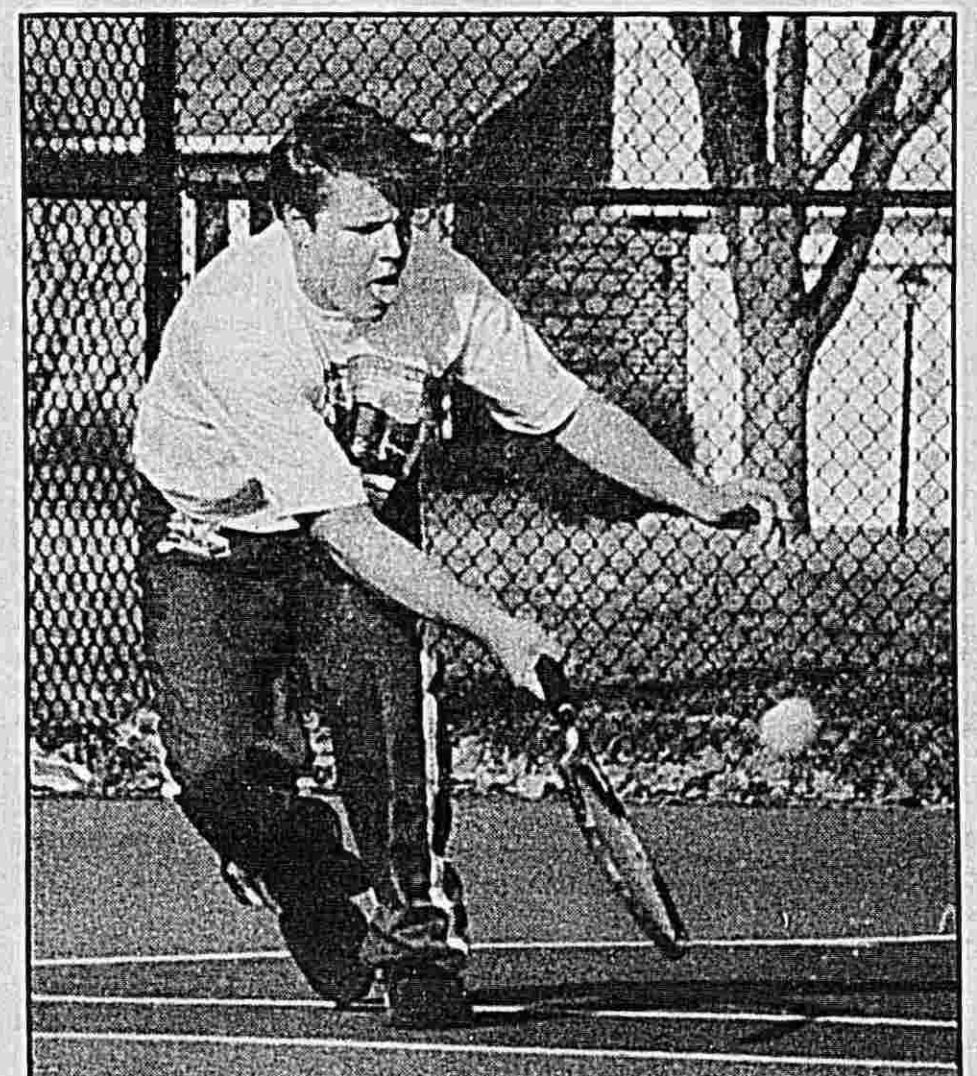

Antioch's three losses thus far have been against Libertyville, who is defending last year's North Suburban Conference crown, and Lake Zurich, conference champions in the Fox Valley Conference.

Antioch plays Fenton Thursday and Friday before hosting North Chicago for a double-header Saturday.

"All the kids still have a positive attitude," Smithheiser said. As does the coach.

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Showing depth of talent in nearly every event, Warren High had a chance to learn a certain chant Blue Devils tracksters like to use after winning a meet.

The girls team finished with 150 points, besting Grayslake by 20 points in winning the Rams relays title. Grayslake used a strong finish to top third-place Highland Park's 111 points.

"I felt it was a total team win in every way," Warren Coach Julie Cadieux said.

Warren High had strong relay efforts, a champ in the long jump and a couple of surprises for the other seven teams at the Grayslake invite.

In the surprise category, Tania Wright finished second ahead of Melissa Hyson in the 300 yard dash. Sarah Thorson won the event for Grayslake in 51.7.

"She had never gotten close to Melissa. Afterward, Melissa congratulated her. That says a lot," Cadieux said.

Mo Daniels won the long jump for Warren with a 15 foot, 7 inch effort, registering her best effort this spring.

"I just jump and try to win," Daniels said.

She was in serious preparation for the season when she injured a hip. "I found out I could compete last week and finished third (in a triangular run in the rain). My goal is to get to 16-2 and break the school record," Daniels said.

Daniels said the team has taken the loss of transfer state champ Shakedia Jones as a motivator. "We want to beat Waukegan," she said of Jones' new school.

Warren's 800 medley relay team captured first-place honors as did the 400 relay team. The 800 contingent of Robyn Presley, Shaneka Williams, Jenny O'Hara and Heidi Balmes's effort of 1:58.0 beat Grayslake's 1:59.7.

The 400 relay was Hyson, Williams, Nik Daniels and Presley. The 3,200 meter relay team gained a fourth-place finish.

Williams won the 100 in a blazing speed of 12.8. Robyn Boydston, a freshman, was second for Grayslake and Thorson of the Rams was third. Presley of Warren was fourth.

Nik Daniels won the 200 in 28.1, edging teammate O'Hara's 28.6.

"It just felt good to win something as an individual because I usually run in relays," O'Hara said.

Balmes took a second place in the 400 yard dash while Raegan Taylor was fourth in the high jump and Liz Bonner third in the 3,200.

Grayslake won the 4x400 relay with a 4:24.6 as the Rams highlight came well after the lights were turned on at GCHS field.

"The kids run hard. We knew that we were fighting for second place, but our goal was to finish as high as we can. We have a great group of kids. The best group that ever has been at Grayslake is here now," Rams Coach Joel Peebles said.

The Rams changed their lineup to edged Warren in the final event. Becky Eiden started because she was the fastest 400 runner, followed by Molly Randall, Boydston and Thorson. A pre-meet pep talk by assistant Brad Larson may have inspired the Rams this breezy spring evening.

"I was so nervous, but I told myself that it is up to me," Thorson said.

"I knew we needed it. I felt I passed her at the 200 meters," Randall said.

Other area entries, Carmel and Round Lake, were not factors in the team scores but did have some bright spots.

Carmel finished with 24 points including a fifth-place finish by the 400 dash team of junior Gloria Patterson, sophomore April Amyant, senior Jaison Jackson and freshman Moniques Perkins.

"We made some great strides for only our second meet. Our technical work and passing speed is paying off at the end," Carmel assistant coach Jo Gerardi said.

Dianne Clark was fifth in the shot put.

"We have a real young team. We have three seniors, no juniors and 18 freshmen or sophomores," Round Lake Coach Kathy Kohn said.

Heather Olson, a senior, was second in the 800 in 2:35.9. "That was the first time she ran the event," the coach said.

Round Lake was 0-2 in duals and started the week with Johnsbury and Grayslake, conference favorites. The Panthers had 10 points at the Grayslake meet.

The Rams were third midway through the race but caught the Giants of Highland Park.

"We are one of the smallest schools here, but we consider ourselves the Giant killers," Peebles said.

But this night belonged to the Blue Devils.

Lady JV softball squad falls to Libertyville

The ACHS J.V. softball team traveled to Libertyville on Thursday and were greeted with a 13-3 thrashing at the hands of the Lady Wildcats.

The Sequoias managed only four hits in the game, and defensively had an equal number of errors in the field.

Laura Deutsch had the big hit of the game for Antioch, scoring on a home run to lead off the third inning. Kristin Lynch then walked and Sarah Rockow's single moved Lynch to third base. Linda DeSalvo walked on four pitches.

After Liz Koeck was safe on a fielder's choice, Lisa Murphy drove in the second run of the inning with a sacrifice fly. The two-run inning closed the score to 6-3, and that was as close as the Sequoias would get.

Lynch and DeAnne Dalgaard had the other two hits for Antioch in the game. Defensively, Deutsch led the Lady Sequoias with two put-outs and two assists in the game. Murphy pitched the entire game, allowing 10 hits with four strike-outs and two walks. Antioch's current record is 3-3.

Scheduled games this week include: April 24, Waukegan at home, 4:30 p.m.; April 25, Stevenson away, 4:30 p.m.; April 27, Stevenson at home, 4:30 p.m.; and April 29, Warren at home, 10:30 a.m.

NCAA coach leads camp

A soccer summer camp at Camp Moyoca in Antioch will be sponsored by Moody Church. The junior camp for ages 8 to 12 will be held June 25-30. The senior camp for ages 13 through high school will be held July 23-28.

Cost for junior camp with meals and lodging is $125. Senior camp is $200. Coach Joe Harding, NCAA Coach of the Year, and his championship team will be the camp instructors. For more information, call 395-9890.

Warren relay off to successful start

It was with definite purpose that Darnell Smith began the anchor leg of the 1,600 meter run.

Smith extended a lead for Warren High's boys relay team over Zion-Benton as the Blue Devils concluded a meet with the Zee-Bees and Mundelein with a victory.

Warren won the final meet of this wind-swept day at Mundelein with a time of 3:44.58 to Zion's 3:46.22.

"I had followed Chuck Patton's times in the paper. He won the 100 meter hurdles, but I wanted to beat him in the relay," Smith said.

Zion had too much for other NSC teams. Zion beat Warren 82-53 but the win in the final meet made WTHS feel confident.

"I think we did pretty good. With these wind conditions, it was tough to run out there. But we were motivated. Our goal was to beat Zion-Benton," Smith said.

Smith continued a lead held by Mike Summer, Ray and Jason Smith.

"I thought we ran pretty well - the times do not reflect it, but we ran well. Our goals are state qualifying in every event," Warren Coach Bill Dawson said. "Darnell has a lot of natural ability."

Warren's other winners Tuesday over Zion included Julius Mays in the triple jump with a 44 feet, 10 and one-half inch effort; Darnell Smith in the 400 meter dash in 58.3; Stacie Boye in the 100 meter dash in 10:36 and Mike Ray in the 3,200 in 10:24.4.

The relays times also stood up against Mundelein as Warren cruised in that dual 106-30.

Both teams are at the Round Lake Invite April 21. Warren, 1-1 in NSC duals, hosts Fenton and Libertyville April 24.

The 400 meter relay featured a combination of Stacie Boye, Mays, Brian Kuhar, and Jeremy Hagstrom. Its time of 45.3 was good enough to beat Mundelein but was second against Zion-Benton.

Ray continued his strong distance races, first in the 3,200 meters and second in the 1,600 meters. "I will try and make it downstate in the two-mile. Right now, the best event is the mile. We have a really good relay teams. We will get a two-mile relay team and that will be strong," Ray said.

Ray is in the 1,600 meter relay team that won at Stevenson relays, off the meet record by three seconds. "We all had our personal bests there. We had good handoffs and everything," Ray said.

Earning seconds against Zion were Jeremy Hagstrom in the long jump; Summer in the 800 meters; and the 400 and 3,200 meter relay teams.

Hagstrom won the long jump against MHS with a 19 feet, one and one-half inch effort while Sommer won the 800 meters.

Mundelein did have its bright spots on a day which featured rain, lots of wind, some hail and even a rainbow.

Matt Cocoran won the shot put against Warren with a 43-6 effort.

Eric Daluga was second in the 400 meters and is in the mile relay as well.

"I look for him to be a strong runner. He is a football player and gets a lot of strength and stamina from that," MHS Coach Eric Sunder said.

Freshman Ryan Barry was second in the 100 hurdles in 17.19 and the 300 meter hurdles in 49.0 against Warren. He earned Mundelein's only two points at a meet in Geneva. "We are looking for him to develop," he said.

"This is a developing year for us," Sunder said.

"There have been so many track coaches here. I ran at Bradley University on scholarship and coached college teams as well as high school. Eric has a good chance to do well at sectional."

Rams girls pull away from JHS, topple Panthers

With a couple of hours of hard work, Grayslake High took a big step in defending its girls track and field conference title.

The Rams downed chief rival Johnsbury and Round Lake as well in a triple dual Monday at Johnsbury. The Rams downed Johnsbury 74-59, Round Lake 106-23 while Johnsbury had no trouble with Round Lake either, 110.5 - 22.5.

"We got the 67 points we needed against Johnsbury in the 200 meters. Before that, it was a very close race," Rams Coach Joel Peebles said.

Julie Thorson won the 200 meters in 28.7 while Danielle Francas was second in 29.4.

The 1,600 meter relay team beat

JHS with a time of 4:27. Senior Becky Eiden, who won the 400, started the race followed by Molly Rundle, freshman Robyn Boydston and Sarah Thorson.

"We started the season with Sarah leading, but the girls are comfortable with Thorson as the anchor and she enjoys it," Peebles said.

Jessica Kos, a sophomore, won the discus in 89 feet, 7.5 inches. "She is coming right along. She works with assistant coach Eric Skoog. She is tall, but she can spin quite nicely and has a nice release," Peebles said.

Sarah Thorson won two individual events, the 100 in 143.7 and the 300 hurdles in 51.6.

She was the anchor in another relay, the 800 with Shanda Johnson, Lisa Titus and sister Julie Thorson.

Eiden won the 40 yard dash in 103.8.

Freshman Michele Tessman won a hotly contested 3,200 meters in 13:15.8.

"They go out very hard. They know they will burn out, but Tessman has the most guts of all and went for broke. She is improving. When we run against Johnsbury, it is like an assault team against us, especially in the distance events," Peebles said.

The Rams host Wauconda in the final home meet April 25 at 4:30 p.m. Lake Zurich was a non-conference foe April 20.

"We look to the non-conference meets as meets to experiment at," Peebles said.

Rams track and field team continues plan

Jeff Hagen does not waste any time when it comes to making an impact on the track and field scene.

The Grayslake High freshman anchored two of the Rams winning relay teams as Grayslake easily bested Mundelein and Lake Zurich.

The Rams had 98 points to Mundelein's 43 and 34 for the Bears in the meet at Mundelein.

Hagen finishes the 800 meter relay team of Neil Schroeder, Rich Mikel and Rusty Shadron with a time of 1:46.5.

He also ends the race for the 1,600 meter relay team of Ed Beck, Dan Bureau and Steve Rezemer.

He does not stop there.

He won the triple jump in 37.2 and was second in the long jump.

"He is an extremely talented and is an excellent jumper," Rams Coach Joel Peebles said of Hagen.

The Rams win improved them to 3-0. "We are vastly improved over last year," Peebles said.

The Rams are preparing for the Round Lake Invite April 21 and a conference meet at Wauconda April 25.

Helping to add to that feeling of improvement at Mundelein:

Chris Persson won the 3,200 meters in 10:52 and Jeff Neutzmann, winner of the 100 yard dash in 11:18, the 400 yard dash in 43.7 and the 200 in 23.9.

Jason Gannt won the 1,600 in 4:52.4.

The 400 meter relay team also won.

New life jacket could be life-saver

A new U.S. Coast Guard regulation requiring that wearable life jackets be provided for people on boats less than 16 feet long could save many lives each year, according to BOAT/U.S., the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters.

Federal law requires recreational boats to carry one coast guard-approved flotation device for each person on board. Beginning May 1, the rules will no longer permit the substitution of "throwable" flotation devices—such as a cushion or ring buoy—for wearable life jackets on boats under 16 feet.

Tourney will benefit CLC basketball

College of Lake County will be hosting a Three-on-Three basketball tournament to benefit the men's basketball team.

Events begin at 6 p.m. Friday, May 5 and continue at 9 a.m. May 6 at the CLC gym in Grayslake.

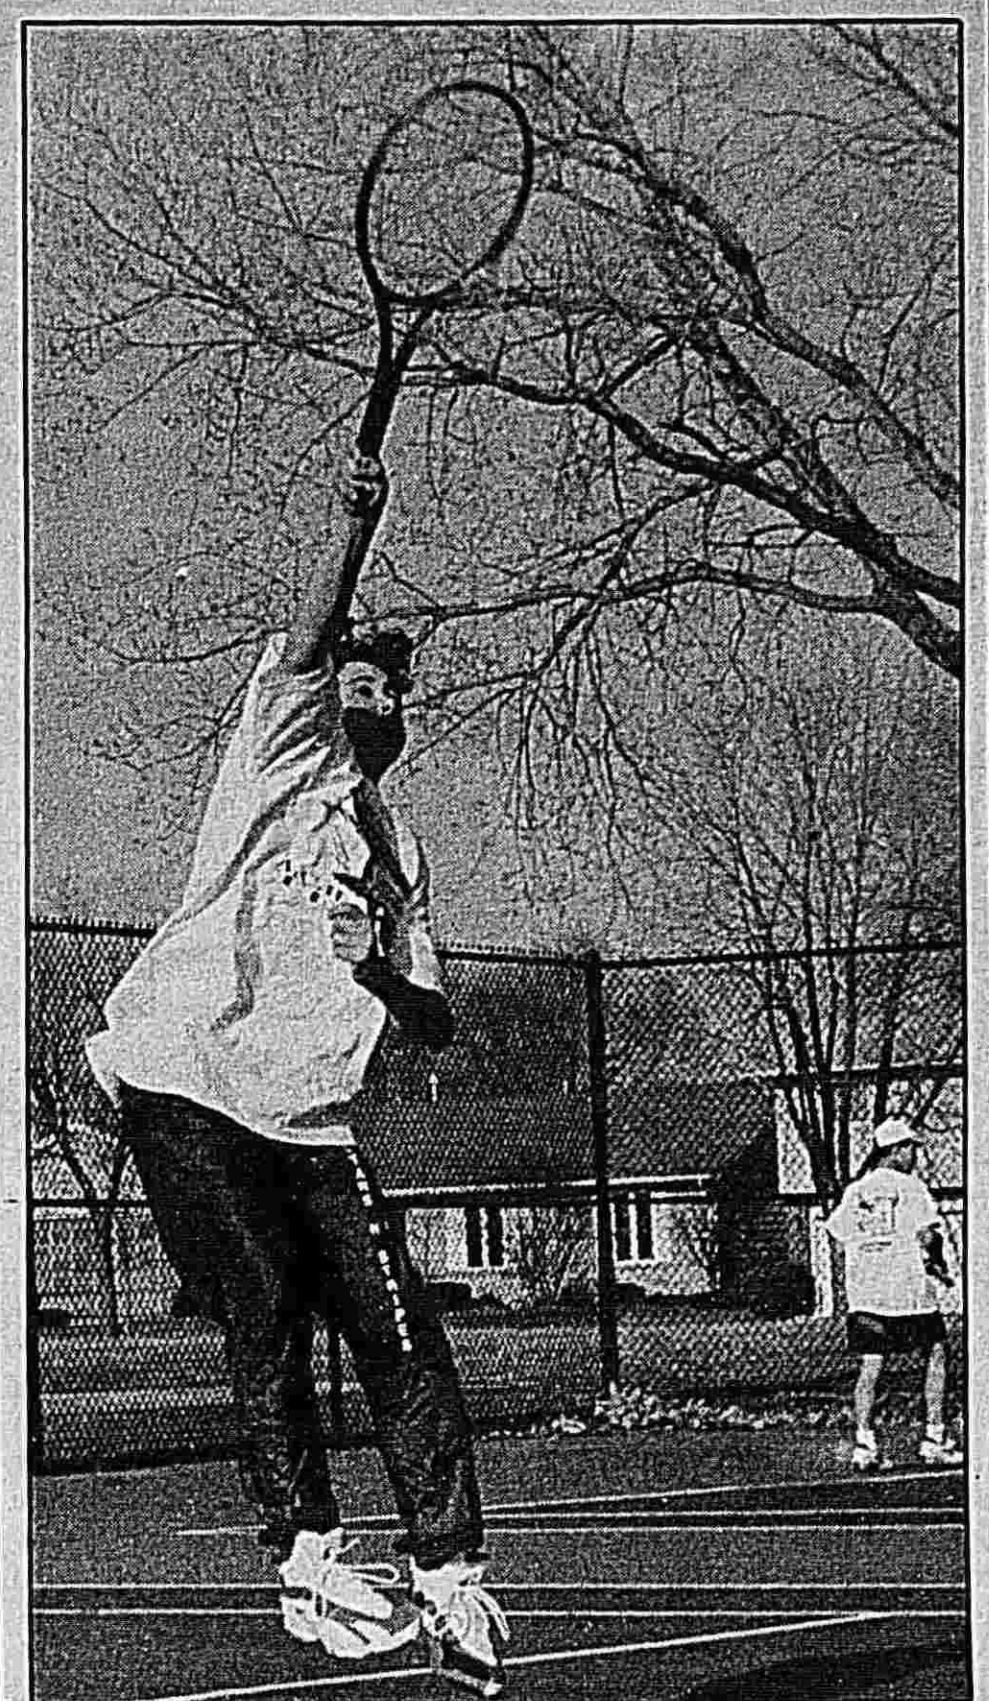

Special events will take place May 5 including a three-point contest for high school players and free-throw shooting contests for sixth through eighth grade.

Early deadlines for the teams will be May 1 and those who sign up by then receive t-shirts. Teams may continue to register after May 1, but members of those teams who sign up later will not receive t-shirts.

The tourney is double elimination and all first-place team members will receive individual trophies.

Entry fee is $40 per team and $5 for those competing in special events.

For more information, call CLC men's basketball Coach Bruce Smith at 223-6601; ext. 2478.

Singles sweep paces Rams

Sweeping the singles matches paced Grayslake High's boys tennis team to a win over Wauconda.

The Rams won 4-1, improving to 3-0 in Northwest Suburban Conference duals.

"Our singles players are pretty tough and played well," Coach Paul Keller said.

The Rams singles players did not lose a set against the Bulldogs as the team improved to 3-1 overall.

Carey Radebaugh took the first singles match in a 6-4, 6-2 decision over Dave Stevig. Pete Neuberger won by the same score over Jim Jabcon and Ryan Bartz also won at third singles by the same tally as he downed Devon Tershel.

The first doubles team of Josh Shipley and Jason Wirsing downed Justin Thiel and Corey Wilson 6-2, 6-1.

Josh Williamson and Tony Heffner downed the Rams' Jerry Hagen and Tony Heffner 7-6, 2-6, 6-2.

"They lost a tiebreak in the first set 7-1. It boiled down to who made the least errors," Keller said.

Wauconda then did the Rams a favor by knocking off Johnsbury 3-2. The Skyhawks were considered the Rams toughest challenge to their crown.

Grayslake hosts Zion-Benton in non-conference action April 21 before battling at Grant April 25. The Rams were expected to continue a match which saw them ahead 4-0.

Warren's tennis team was shutout of play this week, as weather canceled meets against Stevenson and Mundelein. Warren is at the Tremper Invite April 22.

Tom Longlay gained a win in a 4-6, 6-2, 6-4 win over Doug Schaefer as Round Lake lost to Johnsbury 4-1 in NWSC match.

Rams add soph to varsity

Grayslake High is continuing its emphasis on youth when it comes to softball talent.

The Rams have called up a sophomore as the search for the first win of the season continues. Soph Emily Frank joined the varsity this week.

"Like her sister Hanna, she can play anywhere. But we will use her as a catcher," Rams Coach Carla Carmody said.

The Rams' news on the field was bad to worse as the team slipped to 0-5 with a loss to Crystal Lake Central.

"We were right with them until they scored 10 runs in the sixth," Carmody said of the Tigers game.

The Rams did not play scheduled games against Carmel or Libertyville this week due to weather.

"I am starting to find out where to play everyone," Carmody said. Also rained out Tuesday was Warren High's clash with Niles North.

Warren (4-1) faced Grayslake away April 20. Grayslake hosts Grant April 21 and Johnsbury April 24 in Northwest Suburban Conference games.

Fojtik to give Grom nod for term on sanitary district

County Board Rep. Ed Fojtik (R-Ingleside) said he intends to recommend the reappointment of Terrence L. Grom as a Lakes Region Sanitary Dist. Trustee over the objection of a citizens' watchdog group.

Grom, assistant superintendent of the Fox Lake Regional Sanitary Works, is rounding out a two-year term. He resides on Wilson Rd., Ingleside.

Suzanne Harris and Kim Eudy, co-chair of the South Grant Coalition, said Grom's service represents a conflict of interest.

"How can Grom oversee the management of the treatment works when he is employed there?" Harris and Eudy asked.

Grom became a trustee in what Fojtik described as a "general housecleaning" two years ago.

The Fox Lake employee replaced Walter Uhwat, one of the organizers of the sanitary district serving the unincorporated area between Fox Lake and Round Lake.

Since then William Axelsen of Long Lake, an original trustee, and Karl Raasch, who resigned earlier this year, were replaced by Bruce Schrage, a registered professional engineer, and Robert (Bob) Johnson, who is employed by the County of Lake in lakes management.

Fojtik reported that County Board Chairman Robert "Bob" Depke, who has the statutory authority to appoint sanitary district trustees, wanted "new blood" on the Lakes Region Board because Uhwat, Axelsen and Raasch had been servicing "too long."

Fojtik said he disagrees with Harris and Eudy. "Who's more qualified to be a sanitary district trustee than someone who is an expert at treating sewage?"

The county board representative, who has announced his intentions to run for a second term in 1995, said the conflict of interest charge was raised with State's Atty. Michael Waller. "He found no problem with Grom," Fojtik related.

The Lakes Region Sanitary Dist. was organized to provide residents of an area beset with pollution problems effective septic tanks approximately 20 years ago.

The district contracts with Fox Lake and the Lake County Public Works Dept. in a system of inter-governmental agreements to provide for sewage treatment service.

Pritzker property plans concern many people

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Residents surrounding the large Pritzker development parcel will want to attend the Round Lake Zoning Board meeting on April 25 to find out more details about the proposed site.

The proposed 1,800- to 2,100-unit development has many questions, especially relating to wetland protection, flooding and sewers. Among the expected attendees are residents from South Grant Township which borders the development.

Suzanne Harris, co-chair of the South Grant Coalition, is seeking current floodplain and flood-way maps. They also are contacting state officials to pursue up-to-date hydrology studies.

The coalition hopes more current information will provide them with the necessary data to insure the village of Round Lake and Pritzker are complying with flood control and water quality guidelines.

Also at issue is how the development will be provided with sewer. The Pritzkers were going to ask for sewer service from the Lake Region Sanitary District.

However, an angry group of residents approached the meeting from Lake Villa area subdivisions which have yet to receive sewer service promised to them 10 years ago. They are upset because they are still paying for this service and having sewer hook-ups.

Part of the 875-acre parcel is Lake Lure, where the rain water collects and drains to Long Lake. Long Lake residents are fearful this development could aggravate flooding problems in the area.

The development is to be supervised by the Penguin Group, a subsidiary of Pritzker family. The plan is to sell off pods of homes to home builders. The development must be approved by the Round Lake Village Board.

The parcel runs from Rte. 134 to the southern boundary of the village and west to Wilson Road. The site is planned for residential development with a small commercial portion.

The property is in the Big Hollow, Gavin, Round Lake Unit and Grant High School districts. The most significant impact is in Big Hollow where the bulk of the development is located and is in a district with only 400 students.

The meeting is planned for 7 p.m. at the Round Lake Area Park District Community Center.

'Oklahoma' playing at Grant High

Grant Community High School's Performing Arts Society announces the performance dates for this year's spring musical production. Performances of "Oklahoma" will be on April 22 and 29 at 8 p.m. and April 23 and 30 at 2:30 p.m. An additional matinee for area school children will be on April 21 at 11:30 a.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. Tickets may be purchased from any cast member or at the door. For further information contact Christopher Buti at Grant High School at 587-2561, ext. 38.

The musical "Oklahoma" is based on the story "Green Grow the Lilacs" by Lynn Riggs. The musical was composed by Richard Rogers and Oscar Hammerstein. This heart warming story takes place just after the turn of the century on a farm in Indian territory that is now the state of Oklahoma. The musical contains numerous popular songs, including "Oh What a Beautiful Morning," "The Surrey with the Fringe on Top," "Many a New Day," "People Will Say We're in Love" and "Oklahoma." Along with the songs are a great number of dances and ballets.

This is the fifth production at Grant under the directing team of Mandel and Buti. Mickey Mandel is the staging director and Buti is the chorus and pit orchestra director. The intricate choreography is being done by the mother-daughter team of Linda and Margie Hackmeister. The accompanist is Kathy Miller.

The cast includes the following students: Krista Koske, Chuck Bosworth, Anne Sayles, Todd Mendoza, Jon Roquet, Jesse Anderson, Andy Wojta, Keith Mansfield, Becky Andrews, Eric Schnoor, Brian Naydol, Sara Story, Lisa Rahlke, Jackie Bigalke, Kelli Gratz, Tiffany Weir, Michael Hannemann, Amy Sosnowski, Jason Thompson, Alan Brown, Amy Biastock, Kelly Barry, Sara Stanley, Mary Beth Sand and Missy Dolan.

Members of the pit orchestra include: Bernadine Dietz, Tina Sosnowski, Amber Tripp, Erin Poliakov, Kim Villiger, Katy Barry, Kim Erdmann, Ann Villiger, Dave Pederson, Joe Ornelas, Jeremy Davidson, Joe Bigalke, Sara Skala, Amie Shak, Sarah Pederson, Ryan Benson, Peder Weeg and Marie Down.

Grant spellers top in class

The best spellers from Grant Community High School participated in an old-fashioned spell down.

Trophy winner Jim Dobosiewicz won the event with the word "carburetor" at the event at Grant held in March.

This was Dobosiewicz's second year involved in spelling bees at Grant. He is the son of Chuck and Cheryl Dobosiewicz of Fox Lake.

Five of the winning spellers from Grant sharpened up their skills to compete in a contest at Johnsbury High School on Wednesday. There were also two alternates at the annual event.—by TINA SWIECH

FDR and polio anniversary's irrevocably tied

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Two significant events in United States history - the 50th anniversary of the death of Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the 40th anniversary of the life saving vaccine for polio— were marked April 12. The two milestones will be forever irrevocably tied.

"He will surely be recalled by many as a master politician; an energetic and inspiring leader during the dark days of the depression; a tough, single-minded Commander in Chief during World War II; and a statesman," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole when he addressed the Senate on April 5. "No doubt about it, he was all of these things. But, he was also the first elected leader in history with a disability and he was a disability hero."

in Georgia for the treatment and rehabilitation of people with polio. He also founded the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and helped raise millions of dollars to find a cure for polio.

Ten years to the day after the death of FDR, the March of Dimes announced the release of a vaccine to combat polio. The vaccine was created by Dr. Jonas Salk, although, the fight against polio was truly a global effort. In 1949, researchers were finally able to grow the polio virus in a test tube. One of the big problems, however, was the inability of Salk to grow enough of the virus to make a vaccine.

In 1952, Salk learned of a substance called Medium 199, which was developed by Dr. Joseph F. Morgan at Connaught Medical Research Laboratories at the University of Toronto. Using this medium Salk was ready to test his vaccine. On April 26, 1954 the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis (now called the March of Dimes), pronounced the vaccine ready for use.

Today, polio is nearly non-existent. However, according to the National Health Interview Study, done in 1987, there were 1.63 million American polio survivors. And, while the final tally is not done, 50 percent of these survivors have some degree of Post Polio Syndrome (PPS).

PPS is a set of symptoms in which the polio survivor re-experiences some or all of the polio symptoms from which they have recovered. Some PPS sufferers go on to experience polio-like problems in areas not affected earlier. Other survivors report extreme fatigue.

Cindy Ciansio, CEO of the Fox River Valley Center for Independent Living and resident of Round Lake is both a polio survivor and a sufferer of PPS. Ciansio first contracted polio in 1950, when she was 18 months old. It is believed Ciansio and her sister, who was 4 at the time, contracted the disease from a swimming pool.

After surgeries, physical therapy, and double leg braces, Ciansio was able to walk. She raised her three children and was a "typical homemaker."

"I could do anything I wanted to do," said Ciansio. "Then, I was hit by a bomb-shell in 1985."

Ciansio said she awoke one morning, unable to move her legs. "I was lucky I could prepare a meal," she explained.

While the vaccine for polio helped saved millions of lives, researchers are back in the labs in an effort to understand PPS. At this time, there is no known diagnostic test for PPS and doctors can only treat the problem symptomatically, often by having patients change and adapt their lifestyles.

This is often a bitter pill for those who "slayed the dragon of polio" so many years ago.

Schindler's List survivors teach through story

CLAUDIA M. LENART
Regional Editor

Krakow, Poland, 1943 — It's a scene of bedlam and terror in the Jewish ghetto. Families are running, scrambling for their lives. Children hide under the floorboards. But in the end they are found, sent off to the camps or executed in the street. Those who saw the movie "Schindler's List" will remember that scene.

Those who actually experienced that horror will never forget it.

"It was horrible. Believe me, it was even much worse than Spielberg could show in the movie. If Spielberg could show you everything, you wouldn't want to see the movie," said Kuba Beck.

Kuba and his wife, Helen, were two of the Holocaust survivors saved by Oskar Schindler. They brought their stories to the College of Lake County in the hopes that the world will remember, and therefore not repeat, the horror.

Helen and Kuba were torn from their families in Krakow as teenagers and both were sent to the Plazow concentration camp which was built on a Jewish cemetery.

"How barbaric it was to build roads on the graves of our people," said Helen. "The conditions were unbelievable. There is no word in any dictionary to describe the conditions."

The guards at Plazow were former German prisoners — thieves and murderers. "They would shoot children in front of their mother. The most innocent people were the blood thirsty man," said Kuba.

Neither of the Becks know how they got on Schindler's list. Kuba was sent to the police and he thought for sure this was the day he would be executed. Helen was rounded up. See SURVIVORS page B6

Neighbors in the Hayran Farms subdivision are taking comfort in the fact that an attack on a 28-year-old woman in her home appears not to have been a random act of violence. Two individuals are being held in connection with the attack in Lake County Jail.

Following the home invasion and attempted murder in Grayslake, everything seems to be getting back to where it should be in the upscale neighborhood on the village's northwest side. Neighbors are going about their daily lives, the victim has been released from the hospital and the perpetrators are behind bars.

Things were not so over a week ago when two men smashed the back sliding glass door to gain entry into a house on the 200 block of Killarney court at 10:40 a.m., April 12. Roughly a half hour earlier, the two 18-year-old Evanston men had come to the front door, asking Angela Litvak, if they could use her phone because they were interested in buying some real estate in the subdivision where home prices begin in the $200,000 range. When she denied them access, they returned and created an entrance of their own.

At home alone with her 2-year-old son, the woman rushed upstairs to make a frantic 9-1-1 call, telling the dispatcher someone was in her house trying to kill her. While she was on the telephone, the line went dead. The two men, identified as Lamar Jones and Leroy Solti, had rushed upstairs and ripped the phone cord from the wall.

Because the Grayslake Police Department has an enhanced 9-1-1 system, the address where the attack was occurring flashed on the screen immediately. A squad car within one-half mile of the scene responded immediately with lights and siren. Grayslake Police Chief Dennis Koletsos believes the siren coupled with the phone call forced the two to commit the crime hastily and therefore less severely.

Litvak had been shot in the neck area with a .32 caliber hand gun, stabbed multiple times and slashed in the neck with a knife. The toddler was unharmed.

Despite her injuries and a slight language barrier, police were able to get a partial description of the two offenders. Minutes See ATTACK page B2

Child support group heads to Springfield

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

The Lake County group, Parents United for Child Support (PUC) went to Springfield this week to lobby for Senate Bill 464. The bill, is chock full of measures to insure custodial parents receive court ordered child support.

"We are going to lobby for this bill hard," said Francine Jones, founder of PUC. Jones and other organization leaders including Marisa Polkey, private investigator Nanci Lewis, and Mary Gowrylow left Round Lake for Springfield on Tuesday.

The bill would require employment applications to local government to include a statement regarding the applicant's child support obligations. This statement would then be released to the Department of Public Aid.

If the bill is passed, drivers licenses of non-paying parents could be in jeopardy if child support is not paid. In addition, child support could be paid by credit card. The new law would require a responsible person to seek employment and establish an interstate network to locate absent parents.

"This is a step forward in changing the current child support enforcement laws," said Jones.

At this time, over 150 separate child support bills have been introduced this year. PUC, which has its roots in Round Lake, has been working with the legislature to reform current child support laws.

Bill 464 will help locate missing parents. PUC has been working with custodial parents in an effort to locating parents who leave the state. Through the volunteer help of Lewis, parents involved with PUC have seen some results.

PUC meets on a monthly basis and provides support for custodial parents seeking assistance with non-paying parents. For more information about the group, or to get help, call 546-8440.

Road widening brings out county officials

County and township officials gather at the corner of Wilson and Rollins roads Tuesday to break ground for a $1.3 million road project. After Depke thanked everyone for their help in getting the long-awaited project going, the county chairman said, "It's going to be a major improvement for Lake County." —Photo by Tina Swlech later, a car occupied with two men matching the victims description was seen leaving the subdivision. Apparently the offenders were still in the vicinity because they took the long way out of the winding streets of the limited-access Haryan Farms subdivision.

The car, which had its license plates partially covered, was forced off of Washington St. just east of Lake St. by three police vehicles. Solti and Jones were arrested without incident. Koletsos said two knives were found on the scene and the handgun was thrown from the car. The grounds of the subdivision as well as two ponds were searched for the gun, which was found the following day.

Residents of the subdivision took solace in the fact the attack did not appear to be a random act. Koletsos confirmed the notion.

"We can't release a motive at this time but we are very certain this was not a random act," Koletsos said.

Koletsos could not confirm if Litvak's husband had been questioned regarding the crime. He did say it is unfortunate he cannot release more details because the information could jeopardize the ongoing investigation. Koletsos confirmed Litvak is staying with family members.

Solti and Jones are each being held in Lake County Jail on $1 million bond. They are charged with home invasion and attempted murder, class X felonies which carry a six to 30-year prison sentence.

County property assessment factor remains steady for '94

Lake County has been issued a final property assessment equalization factor of 1.0000, according to Raymond T. Wagner, Jr., director of the Illinois Dept. of Revenue.

The property assessment equalization factor, often called the "multiplier," is the method used to achieve uniform property assessments among counties, as required by law. This equalization is particularly important because some of the state's 6,600 local taxing districts overlap into two or more counties (e.g., school districts, junior college districts, fire protection districts). If there was no equalization among counties, substantial inequities among taxpayers with comparable properties would result.

Under a law passed in 1975, property in Illinois should be assessed at one-third of its market value. Farm property is assessed differently, with farm homesites and dwellings subject to regular assessing and equalization procedures, but with farmland assessed at one-third of its agriculture economic value. Farm land is not subject to the state equalization factor.

Assessments in Lake County are at 33.64 percent of market value, based on sales of properties in 1991, 1992 and 1993.

The equalization factor currently being assigned is for 1994 taxes, payable in 1995. Last year's equalization factor for the county was 1.0000.

The final assessment equalization factor was issued after a public hearing on the tentative factor. The tentative factor issued in January 1995 was 1.0000.

The equalization factor is determined annually for each county by comparing the price of individual properties sold over the past three years to the assessed value placed on those properties by the county supervisor of assessments/county assessor.

If this three-year average level of assessment is one-third of the market value, the equalization factor will be one. And, if the average level of assessment is less than one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be greater than one.

The assessed value of an individual property determines what portion of the tax burden a specific taxpayer will assume. That individual's portion of tax responsibility is not changed by the multiplier.

CLC recognizing community college month

The College of Lake County will join Illinois community, junior and technical colleges in observing Community College Month in April. The Illinois celebration is part of a national observance recognizing the contributions of the more than 1,200 two-year colleges across the U.S.

"More students are choosing community colleges for their educational needs because our role has changed in the past 50 years to keep up with the nation's changing needs," said CLC President Daniel J. LaVista. "We provide diverse programs and specialized services which make community colleges an affordable option for everyone," he said.

Nationally, more than 5.5 million students took credit classes at community colleges last year. Nearly one million students attend Illinois community colleges each year. Of these students, more than 15,000 were enrolled at CLC during the fall and spring semester, including nearly one in four Lake County high school graduates.

"Research shows that our students who transfer to four-year institutions do as well or better than students who start at larger institutions," LaVista said.

AT A GLANCE

Bell's Apple Orchard to close

LAKE ZURICH—The manager of Bell's Apple Orchard has given up his fight to continue his business and bid village officials a fond farewell to the community both he and the business have called home for many, many years. John Bell III, grandson of the orchard founder, said he was no longer going to struggle with them to release the property from all restrictions and is looking forward to the development of a retirement community on the 44-acre estate on Route 22, east of Route 12. A landmark for the past 56 years, Bell said he is negotiating to move the orchard to other property within Lake County.

Districts address growth

ANTIOCH—Area school districts met and are working on solutions that address the issues of growth and education. Lake Villa Elementary District is considering creating a unit district within its boundaries, Grayslake High School District is considering a consolidation proposal with Antioch High School District. While discussion is ongoing, nothing formal has been presented.

Man arrested after threats

ROUND LAKE BEACH—Joseph Anderson, 506 Highland Terrace, was arrested after making repeated threats to police officers and the fire chief of the Round Lake Fire Protection District. Police obtained a warrant and entered his home and arrested him. He was transported to Elgin Mental Health Clinic for treatment.

Village rejects possible hotel

VERNON HILLS—Vernon Hills trustees rejected a request by a property owner to annex a 10-acre parcel, known as the Bavaro property, into the village. Unincorporated residents living in the nearby Woodbine Circle neighborhood packed the village board room when they learned the property owners had thoughts of introducing a 100-room hotel and restaurant near the upscale housing community. In addition to the resident uproar, trustees argued the petitioner had asked for too many variances including waiving any hotel/motel taxes and asking for setbacks along Milwaukee Avenue that fall short of village ordinance. The County has the area zoned residential estate, while the village's comprehensive plan also deems the area residential.

Charged with filing false taxes

MUNDELEIN—Robert A. Langer, 52, 343 Banbury, Mundelein, has been charged in a three count indictment for filing false individual income tax returns for 1988 and 1989. Langer is a sport photographer for a local newspaper and an independent businessman. Count Three charges that Langer corruptly endeavored to impede the Internal Revenue Service in carrying out its lawful functions by making a series of false statements to IRS auditors regarding his sale of his business, Sweats N Stuff, by denying sales of rental property and by postdating invoices and work orders to make it appear that expenses had occurred in the tax year being audited. Maximum penalties include three years incarceration and $250,000 fine on each count, together with mandatory assessment for costs of prosecution.

Police searching for suspect

WAUCONDA—Police are on the look-out for a man they believe may have duped an elderly woman into withdrawing nearly $300 from her bank account which he is alleged to have later stolen. The man had apparently met the 83-year-old woman one year before at her bank, and came by her home earlier this month asking if she needed to go back to the bank. Later in the day the woman could not find the money she withdrew and contacted police, who are continuing to investigate the case and are looking for the suspect.

Teacher dismissal upheld

GRAYSLAKE—Things were orderly and cordial at the first Grayslake High School Board of Education meeting held since nearly 300 students walked out of class in March protesting a teacher's dismissal. Only a handful of the 30 students gathered spoke to the board, asking it to reconsider its decision not to rehire English teacher Jim Newcombe. After a 20-minute closed session, the board announced it had not reversed its decision. Students reacted calmly to the news and after the meeting politely thanked the school board for listening to their concerns.

Baxter seeking collection event

ROUND LAKE—Baxter International is seeking approval by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to hold a household hazardous material collection. The event, if approved, would be held in the fall. Baxter is approaching area municipalities requesting a letter of support.

Park District gets grant

GRAYSLAKE—The Grayslake Park District will have a busy construction season this year after receiving a $168,000 grant for park development. With matching funds from developer donations, the $336,000 will be used to develop five parks in Grayslake with playground facilities, picnic equipment, improved greenway corridors with bike trails and some parking lots.

County BPW garners three awards

TINA L. SWIECH

The Lake County branch of the Business and Professional Women organization came away winners at the annual awards dinner—five times over.

Headed by President Trudy Hellos of Fox Lake, the BPW of Lake County received one of the highest awards possible at the District III dinner held in Glenview at the Double Tree banquet hall.

The 1994-95 Local Organization of the Year award was presented to the Lake County group by Cara Geils, BPW associate director for the district. "It put a real feather in our cap," said Hellos.

Another impressive honor was an award for recruiting new members. The membership for the Lake County group has gone up 165 percent within the last few years, and it has doubled in the past nine months, making new membership the highest in the state.

The IDC (Individual Development Courses) Award was presented for the Lake County group. IDC is implemented to assist women in public speaking, said Hellos.

The other two awards received by the Lake County BPW were for their first and very successful Gala Diamond Dinner Dance fundraiser held in November and the Young Careerist Participation award.

The BPW works to promote full participation, equity and economic self-sufficiency for United States women.

Total membership of BPW is 100,000 and women are 100 percent employed.

The organization has a strong legislative presence in Washington D.C., and sponsors skill-building programs.

Abbott scientists identify new hepatitis viruses

Abbott Laboratories announced researchers in its diagnostics division have discovered a group of viruses associated with one or more types of hepatitis that have not been previously identified in humans. These new viruses, known as GB viruses, may cause hepatitis not attributed to previously identified hepatitis viruses (A, B, C, D and E).

"While the clinical significance of these viruses is currently under intensive study, the likelihood that people may unknowingly be carriers suggests there may be an eventual need for a diagnostic test," said James Koziarz, Ph.D., vice president of research and development for Abbott's diagnostics division.

"This is particularly important since at least one of these viruses has been detected in hepatitis patients on the east and west coasts of the United States as well as in Canada, Peru, Egypt and other parts of Africa, suggesting that it may possibly be present worldwide," he added.

Using state-of-the-art techniques in gene amplification and molecular biology, the Abbott scientists were able to isolate two of three new strains in a sample from a patient who contracted hepatitis from an unknown source.

"The Cloning of Two Flavivirus-like Sequences in the GB Hepatitis Agent," is published in the April 11 issue of the "Proceedings of the National Academy of Science."

Parents education network offers parents support

Family Counseling Clinic of Grayslake has announced the establishment of the Parents Education Network, a therapeutic support group open to all parents seeking solutions to parenting problems. PEN will meet from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month in the meeting room of Family Counseling Clinic, 19300 W. Hwy. 120, Grayslake. There is a $10-per-person fee for each group meeting. The next meeting is April 26. The topic will be "Helping Your Child Build Self-esteem."

Each session will be directed by a licensed family therapist who will present a 30-minute topic, followed by an hour problem-solving group which will allow parents to ask questions and trouble-shoot specific problems they are facing. Throughout the year, PEN will present experts, educators, books, publications and video tapes on topics which focus on improving parenting skills.

-PET OF THE WEEK- Jesse needs a friend

"Jesse" is a mid-size mixed collie. This seven-month-old neutered male has a silky, shiny black, wavy coat that begs to be touched. Jesse has a heart that needs to be touched, as well. A victim of circumstance, Jesse was sadly undersocialized as a tiny pup. He broke out of his cage while being transferred to Orphans and fled, terrified, into the woods where he languished for weeks. When finally rescued, Jesse was desperate for food, shelter and friendship. A dedicated volunteer has worked hard with him and he is now able to accept and give affection. Late arrivals raise priority questions

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Call it lousy timing. Call it a fortunate coincidence. Call it a good omen. It's all a matter of viewpoint.

Whatever, two representatives of the wealthy beyond description Pritzker family are fuming because a group of citizens demanding sewer service got to a meeting of the Lake Region Sanitary Dist. before they did.

Atty. Paul Chervin and Steve Fennell, president of the Penguin Group spearheading development of 875 acres in west Lake County, had a quizzical look on their faces when they arrived with plans and charts at the Lake Region meeting already packed with citizens who said they have been paying taxes for 20 years without receiving sewer service.

At about the time the two Pritzker aides arrived, Bruce Schrage, one of three district trustees, was telling the packed room that the district has not been contacted by the developers planning one of the largest home building projects in west Lake County history.

Schrage, a registered professional engineer, and the other trustees, Terry Grom, employed in the Fox Lake regional sanitary treatment works, and Bob Johnson, who works for the county in lakes management, demurred when questioned by the citizens about the origin of references in Pritzker literature to a "consortium" of agencies working together to provide sewer service.

"Not us," the trio retorted. Suzanne Harris, co-chair of the South Grant Coalition, a citizen watchdog group monitoring flooding, water quality and environmental standards, had another slant on the appearance of the Pritzker representatives.

"Either they're taking a lot for granted or someone is lying," Harris observed after the meeting. Kim Eudy, the other coalition co-chair, said citizens are determined to get to the bottom of district priorities. Who should get sewer service first? Citizens paying taxes after 20 years of waiting or deep-pocketed big shots out to fast-shuffle local officials?

"Put Pritzker last on the list," Harris remarked.

Prominent Waukegan attorney Bill Rosing, who is counsel for the sanitary district, made the understatement of the evening, when bystanders heard him tell Chervin and Fennell, "This is not a good time to talk about your project."

Chervin and Fennell weren't the only ones disappointed by the large citizen turnout, some of whom took up sitting positions on the floor due to the lack of seating. A representative of Jack Pease, a McHenry County developer, also wanted to talk about sewers, only to leave in a hurry.

All of a sudden, the unheralded sanitary district serving mostly unincorporated areas in west Lake County, is thrust into the bright light of public scrutiny. A lot of public officials hate bright lights—the kind that illuminates citizens.

Johnson didn't gain any points with visiting taxpayers or his fellow trustees, when he grumbled at one point in the meeting about the Illinois Open Meeting Law "hamstringing" the trustees in doing their duty. Oh?

As Harris said, "Pritzker's guys are taking a lot for granted or someone is lying!"

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Mom instituted a new family tradition that went over big Easter Sunday—an Easter egg hunt. Twenty-two adults gathered on great-grandma's lawn to cheer on four young egg hunters. Great-nephew Stephan Kalina of Lindenhurst, 5, came armed with a basket and won first prize. He also had the foresight of scouting the grounds before his sister and cousins arrived.

Stormwater work fitting for builders

Opening up the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission to seats representing the building and development industry is like inviting the fox into the hen coop. Looking at things another way, since the builders and developers question just about everything SMC does, it will save time, money and jangled nerves to have potential critics on the inside looking in rather than the outside.

Taking the long view, there's no doubt that building industry representatives have both a vested interest in and can have a great deal of positive influence on solving the county's flooding problems.

The builders and developers are in a tizzy over SMC plans to implement service charges as an alternative to real estate taxes to fund efforts to control flooding and modernize storm drainage.

As explained by the chairman of SMC, Mayor Richard A. Welton of Gurnee, the service charge plan, which could underwrite significant bonding, provides for a "fair share" of the cost of the development and maintenance of adequate stormwater systems. The service charge is the lynch-pin of local control as opposed to federal and state involvement.

Lake County isn't inventing the wheel for funding stormwater management with service charges. More than 200 programs in 18 states starting in the mid-seventies have been put into place. The theory is to attack stormwater problems on a watershed basis with charges being assessed against properties that are benefitted. To soften the blow on builders and developers, plans provide for a system of credits based on services provided by users such as detention ponds and floodplain land donations.

Builders and developers made their pitch for commission representation. Now it's up to the Lake County Board for final decision. The building industry is a major shaper of our future. By participating in the solving of stormwater problems, builders also will be helping in the fine-tuning process.

Call stormwater eradication putting the finishing touches on a new home development.

Third airport needs local flyer backing

For regular air travelers who cuss Friday evening and Sunday afternoon crunch time at O'Hare or mid-Lake County householders who grumble about holding pattern jets circling overhead, there has always been an irresistible appeal to the notion of a third Chicago airport.

Studies keep popping up that bolster the plan to relieve congestion at O'Hare International and improve safety. Findings in the latest survey, a study by Tams Consultants Inc. initiated by the State of Illinois substantiate, substantiate a third airport site at south suburban Peotone, a location continually supported by Gov. Jim Edgar.

While Springfield politicians talk about safety, more than likely in the back of their heads are visions of the 535,000 jobs that would be created in the next 25 years and the benefits of shifting control of O'Hare from the City of Chicago to a state-controlled regional commission.

If political leaders can assure Lake County's frequent flyers that their needs can be filled at a less congested O'Hare, add more north suburban third airport support. Local travelers can't be blamed for putting a premium on convenience so Peotone is a viable option. Count on political leaders relying on this kind of support when the cards are played out for building another major air facility.

How press reports differed on school conduct complaint

KATHY MYREN

I am a Woodland parent who spoke out at a school board meeting regarding the overall discipline problem at Woodland.

After reading the account in the News-Sun, I regret that the reporter only reported about gangs in the school, a complaint not one parent out of the dozen or so who spoke ever mentioned! I only speak for myself, but I never thought for a minute the discipline problems were gang related.

I do resent Mr. Bradley's quote, "these parents have concerns. The way they handled them were totally inappropriate." How dare he make a statement like that. My husband and I on many occasions in the last couple years have gone "up the chain of command."

On most every occasion our singular situation was dealt with, but the overall problems of discipline were not.

The Chicago Tribune's account was a little more accurate. I especially liked Dr. Conti's statement "that the parents would be encouraged to provide specific information about problem students." As long as he doesn't have to be the one to listen.

Tell your concerns to all who command under him. The office is already aware of the real problem students. After working our way up the chain to the district office, and after four phone calls to the superintendent, we were not allowed to talk to or meet with the "man in charge." We have to talk to the final link, the assistant superintendent. The man is too busy to speak with the parents who pay his salary and whose kids should be his main concern.

Lakeland Newspapers had an excellent account of what happened. It seems they got the message we as parents were trying to relay, even though the administration did not. The general reaction of the administration after the meeting was that we parents were "beating them up," and I'm sorry for them if that's all they got out of the meeting. That was not the intent, at all. We parents came out in numbers, each giving their own account of a specific incident, not to get retribution for the past, but to let the powers-to-be know there is a safety problem where our children are concerned.

I don't know what the solution is! Maybe Woodland could hire someone from out-of-state to do a seminar or a study at a high price tag like they have done in the past.

Maybe they can hire four new assistant principals at another high price tag, adding to our current staff totaling 10 top administrators for three schools and then find offices for them after they take away the lunch room to make classroom space for the children. That's more than one administrator per grade level.

I don't feel these children are mature enough to handle this high school setting. Quite honestly, I think the children have too much free time during

Turncoats break faith

Editor:

The National Democratic chairman should look into the legal aspect or legality of cross-over Democrats elected by the Democratic voters and then switch over to the Republican Party.

It seems to me they have a contract for the length of their elected term when they were voted into office by Democratic voters. They all took an oath when they were sworn into office as Democrats.

My belief is, they should be removed from their elected positions for breach of contract.

PARTY LINES

Crane makes visit, hammers environmentalists

Congressman Phil Crane made a whirlwind tour of the county last Thursday keeping in touch with his constituent base.

He began his day by visiting Gavin North School where he addressed students. He then traveled to Grayslake to talk with Farm Bureau members about the Farm Bill and then met with constituents in his Lake Villa office.

Crane talked at length with members of the Farm Bureau and was frank as usual in his criticism of federal government's involvement in farming programs and environmentalist melding.

"If the Spotted Owl becomes extinct so be it," Crane said. "It's the process of evolution. Species have been becoming extinct since the beginning of time."

Guv likes gaming—It was a cold winter afternoon. To escape the ice and snow of Madison, Wis., Gov. Tommy Thompson headed south—to Elgin and one of Illinois' slick new floating casinos. When a Racine resident recognized the Guv, a Thompson aide explained, "It's Saturday afternoon and the governor is on personal time." So there.

Tit for tat—Libertyville voters didn't prefer anti-tax leader Jack Martin for a village board seat, but fellow retailers like Jack. They elected him president of the Western-English Retailers of America, suppliers for riding fans.

Log rolling days—New riverboat licenses are a key part of the tussle between suburban Republican forces seeking control of O'Hare and Chicago school reform. "There might be an airport authority trade for school control," reports House Majority Leader Bob Churchill (R-Lake Villa). That means the Repubs and the suburbs would wind up with the airports and the Democrats would have the schools—and a few riverboat casinos. Churchill spoke before Mayor Daley dropped his bombshell deal with Gary.

Pappas poltic-free—Successful Fox Lake trustee candidate, Jim Pappas showed up at the village board meeting Monday night and announced to the press he'd just left his very last school board meeting. Pappas has been on the board of education for District 38 Big Hollow Schools for the past four years. His term would have expired in November, but since he trounced incumbent Trustee Greg Murrey in the election April 4, with a total of 441 votes to Murrey's 261, Pappas resigned his position on the school board due to a possible conflict of interest. Pappas, proprietor of Country Companies Insurance on Rte. 12 quipped, "For two weeks I'm resigned from politics." He won't be officially on the Fox Lake Village board until his swearing in May 1.

Rocky start—Lake Zurich Trustee

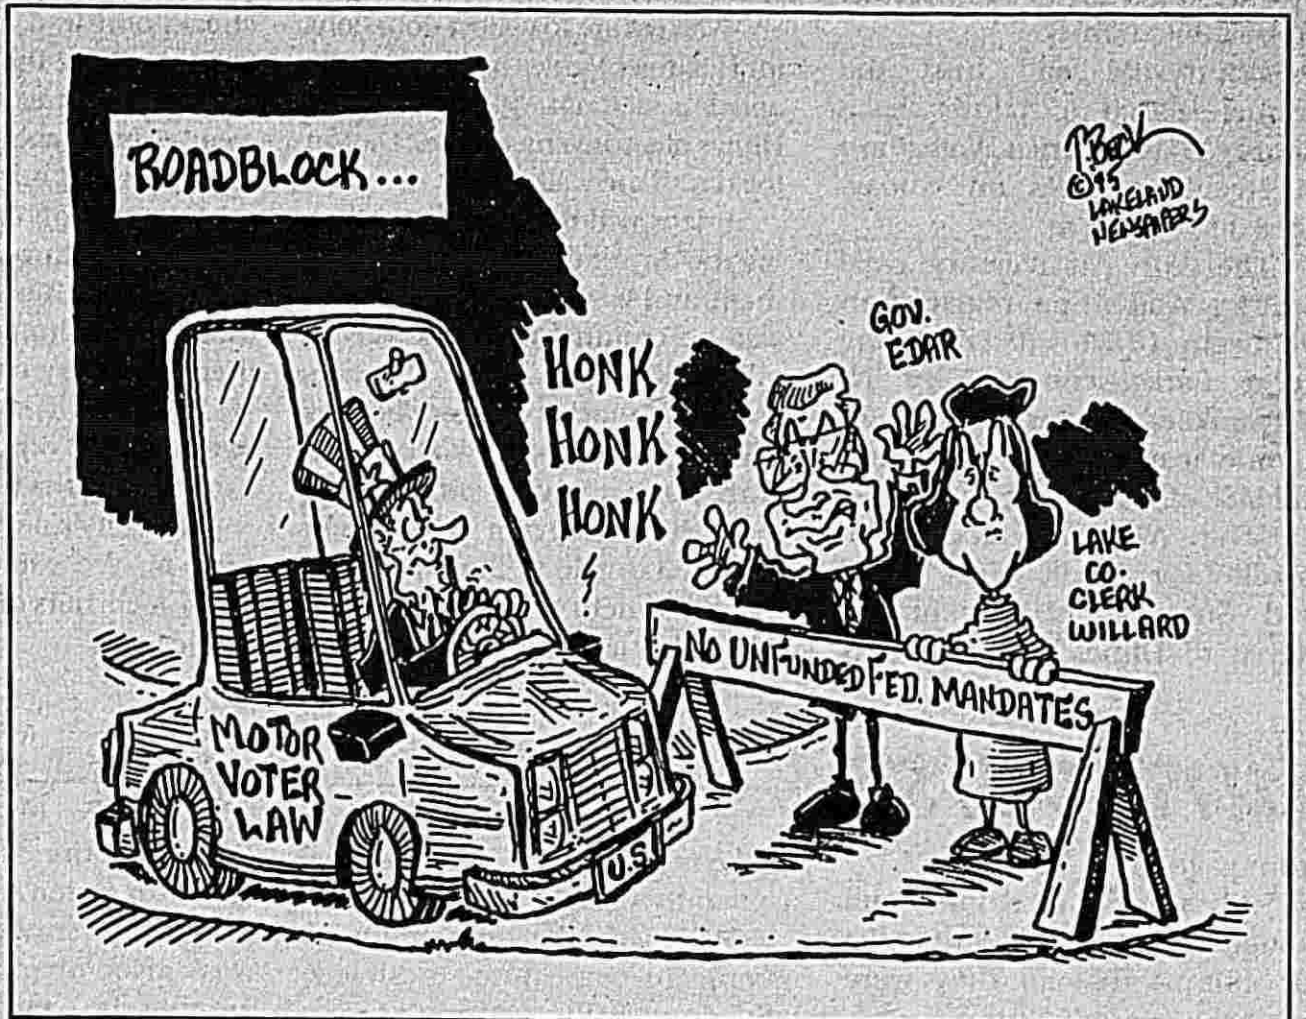

Charles Crawford is upset with the way the board committee assignments were handled. Mayor Deborah A. Vasels made her appointments, with a concurrence of the board, two weeks before the three new trustees take office. Crawford

"I think in the interest of working together for the village's future, this should be deferred until the new board is seated," Crawford said. "Instead of reaching out with an olive branch, I think she threw down a gauntlet," said Trustee-elect Jim Weakly. Incumbent trustees were made chairs of the higher profile community development, public works and public safety committees, while the trustees-elect were made chairmen of parks and recreation, finance and legal and legislative. Vasels said she could make her appointments at any time and had asked the new board members for their input. "This is not a very auspicious start to a new term," said Crawford, who voted against the assignments.

Retirement party—There was quite a turn out for the Antioch Village hosted party for retiring Trustee Don Amundsen. The party included former Antioch Mayor Mike Haley, District 34's Business Manager Don Skidmore, and many other well-wishers. The party was held after the regular board meeting, in which Amundsen got to vote "nay" one last time.

Freedom of speech—Grayslake High School Superintendent Ray Novak applauded students for their orderly conduct in protesting a teacher's dismissal this week. "It means we are teaching them something," said Novak, who says he believes you cannot teach freedoms without giving students an outlet to exercise them.

Close examination—Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton is assuring residents that a proposed convention center effort will not be entered into lightly. "It may very well never happen if a market study says it is not feasible. The public-private center will be studied very carefully. There are many facilities that are successful, but a whole lot that are not," he said. Gurnee is expecting to approve a $50,000 study in next fiscal year's budget. The $12.6 million budget is expected to be adopted May 1 board meeting.

Dew-business—State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-61st) says Mountain Dew is a staple in Springfield. "Everyone drinks it," said the lawmaker. "Up here it is sometimes hard to find it in the store but in Springfield it is prominently displayed."

played. She says legislators do alternate the Dew with bottled water. "You can't drink this stuff all day," she quipped.

Rain or shine—

Regardless of the wet conditions Tuesday, officials Moore for District 37 Gavin Central School set their shovels to the mud and broke ground right on schedule. Central School Principal Diane Thompson said the administration didn't want to wait any longer for the groundbreaking of the new school and demolition of the old one on Grand Ave. and Rollins Rd. "The construction crews are ready to begin," said Thompson. She added that with the building of the new facility, and the road construction just to the east, it "will be truck city around here for a while."

Great save—In reviewing a contract with Lake County, Lindenhurst Village Attorney Paul Phillips found an easement would expire in 99 years. "The board 99 years from now would be very upset with us," joked Village Administrator James Stevens.

Corporate responsibility

A recent study involving 250 high school students representing 16 states reports that 84.2 percent of students agreed with the following statement: "In social, economic, cultural and political affairs, people should have equal rights. Social reform should, therefore, be designed to correct existing inequalities and to equalize the conditions of nurture, schooling, residence, employment recreation and income that produce them."

It is no accident that students take such a view. After all, these values have been planted by liberal educators through indoctrination at many of the nation's public and private schools, and reinforced by the liberal arm of the media.

Social elitists have been able to present their viewpoint virtually unchallenged in nearly every textbook that is published for use in the American classroom. As these socialist views have taken root, it only follows that the American population embrace an ever-expanding role of government in nearly all aspects of our culture, from family life (child protection services) to business practices (mandatory hiring quotas, regardless of qualification).

Now, apply this alarming trend to the latest Wall Street Journal report which shows corporate CEOs receiving upwards of 190 percent increase in compensation while at the same time laying off tens of thousands of their employees. This most recent Wall Street report does not bode well for the future of free enterprise. In light of what is being taught in school these days, it will only be a matter of time before corporate America finds itself under the scrutiny of government regulators.

Unfortunately, government solutions to social injustices have historically been overreaching. The long arm of government will not only regulate CEO compensation, but will exert control over all wages. If we are to remain a free society, corporate America had better act more responsibly or free enterprise, as we know it, will be just a memory in the pages of history.

'Terrorism' questioned

Editor:
I am responding to articles concerning allegations of political terrorism by firefighters. I am gravely concerned and disappointed about the attitude displayed by the "Trust-Me-Trustee" Mark Ratfelders.

He spouts the political rhetoric of Thomas Jefferson while his own standard of proof is suspect and far from that of our founding fathers. During his campaign he repeatedly stated "I'll do whatever it takes to win." Well, Mr. Ratfelders, I hope it was worth it.

I issue a challenge to Mark Ratfelders' integrity.

I challenge Mark Ratfelders and the entire Village Board because they have a tremendous responsibility. How these problems are approached will influence the level of service in our community for many years to come.

Effective management requires treating people decently while at the same time successfully motivating them toward high performance to be on a winning team, but never at the expense of injury to their self-worth or self-respect. If we focus on what is best for the village, we all win!

the day with the passing in halls between each class. They get would up and it takes valuable class time to settle everyone down again every period. One solution might be to go back to 25 kids in a class all day, same teacher, teaching all subjects.

Most parents' comments are how discipline has deteriorated in the past three or four years. Two major changes have taken place in that time—the middle school concept was adopted and a new superintendent in command.

One of the concerns of parents is the punishment of all for the sins of the few. One week after our meeting, my seventh grader reports her whole team is being punished because a group of goof-offs can't control themselves during the passing period. This is business as usual again. The parents wanted fairness in the discipline, and are genuinely concerned about discipline in general. That was the message to the board.

Did they really listen? Did they hear?

JENNIFER WHISENAND

Staff Reporter

Put on those comfortable clothes, lace up those walking shoes and get involved in a walk for healthier babies.

Libertyville will host the annual March of Dimes Lake County Walk America Walkathon for Healthier Babies, on Sunday, April 30 at 8:30 a.m.

The 25th Anniversary Lake County Walkathon registration will begin at 7:30-8:30 a.m., at the Adler Park School, 1740 N. Milwaukee Ave., and the 20 Kilometer or 12 mile Walkathon will kick off at 8:30 a.m.

"The Walk in Libertyville raised over $50,000 last year," said Suzanne M. Balchunas, March of Dimes special events coordinator. "Libertyville is one of eight walksights in the Greater Chicago area and one of over 1,500 communities in the country to host WalkAmerica.

Walkers are to collect donations for Healthier Babies before the walk and deposit them with the March of Dimes at a convenient Bank Day on the day of the walk.

Prizes will be given away during the day of the walk, entertainment and warm up exercises will also be conducted before the 12 mile walk begins.

WalkAmerica water bottles will be given to all walkers on Walk Day. A graduated prize incentive program has been designed to add to the fun and to the excitement of WalkAmerica, if the walker is eligible for the prize, they will receive the prize at the Walk.

Walkers are encouraged to bring a sack lunch. Supplement snacks will be provided at each checkpoint and a hot dog lunch will be held at the finish line.

Participating walkers should wear comfortable clothing, walking shoes and bring extra socks.

Groups of individuals are encouraged to get involved such as families, offices and businesses. Groups should plan to wear their company colors or logo on Walk Day. T-shirts, balloons, banners and other items can be used during the walk.

The only rules for the walk are walk on the sidewalks only and cross at corners or with a guard or traffic light.

up with a group of women and thought she was being sent to the gas camps. Instead they were sent to Schindler's factory.

"I became a believer in miracles. I don't know how I was put on Schindler's list... He truly was risking his life. By risking his life, he was determined to save the people," said Helen.

Helen recalls when she was walking through the gates at Schindler's factory. She didn't know who Schindler was at the time. Yet, he stood out as different from the Nazi guards.

"This man was absolutely beautiful. He was a very unique man. His eyes were very charming. When he looked at us, we felt something unusual," said Helen.

Helen and Kuba said conditions were much better at Schindler's factory. With his considerable influence, he was able to buy extra food for his workers on the black market.

The Becks said the Nazis were always trying to take away the individual identity of the Jewish people. "They were trying to humiliate us, to degrade us," said Helen.

One Sunday, there was no work and the Nazis brought in uniforms, one size fits all. Helen was very petite and the uniform fit like a tent. She obtained a pair of scissors and a needle and quickly went about mending the uniform.

"Little did I know at roll call, out of 300 women, I was the only one who was different," said Helen. The female Nazi guard hit Helen on both sides of the face and sent her to isolation and she was to be executed. However, Schindler heard about the incident and was able to bribe the guard to get her out.

"This proves that Oskar saved my life from certain death," said Helen.

For a short time in 1944, Helen was sent back to Plazow where the Nazis were trying to hide what was happening. They had Jewish prisoners digging up the corpses in the mass grave so they could be cremated.

"No one forgets this kind of nightmare. Who knows, maybe in this mass grave was one of my parents," said Helen.

However, Helen and one of her sisters were on Schindler's list and they were among the 300 women put on a train to be sent to Schindler's new factory in Czechoslovakia.

This is the train, as portrayed in the movie, that was mistakenly routed to Auschwitz.

"We were the only group of people to come into Auschwitz with names and even birthdays," said Helen. The Nazis didn't know what to do with the group. They ordered them to undress completely and they were shaved everywhere hair grows. In the movie, women did the shaving. In reality, it was a group of Nazi men.

"They were not too kind. We had no tears in our eyes. No voices in our throats," recalled Helen. The women were then sprayed with disinfectant and sent to the shower room.

"I only remember the sound we heard when the steel doors closed. We were looking at the ceiling expecting gas to come down. Instead of gas, water came down. We thought maybe another day we will live," she said.

Eventually they were put back on the train and sent to Czechoslovakia. When Schindler saw the women, he said, "You don't have to worry anymore, you are with me again."

"We really thought we are with somebody who cares," said Helen.

In 1945, the Russians freed the Jews. The Becks recalled Schindler telling them not to take revenge on others.

"Liberation did not come easy. We were weak, tired, we didn't have a country to go to," said Kuba.

The priority after the war was to find their families. Kuba found out his entire family had been killed. In Helen's family, three of her sisters survived. One sister was also on Schindler's list, another hid out with a Polish family. The youngest sister was discovered by Helen at the train station in Krakow, sleeping under a bench.

When Helen returned to her old neighborhood, there were no welcoming parades. Her neighbors greeted her with "Are you still alive?" The Jews were not welcome in Poland.

"After years of surviving one day at a time, we came out of the death camps with the hope and determination to start a new life. We thought the world would welcome us with compassion. Nobody came forward," said Helen. "Only through very hard work, we managed, we succeeded. Our children were born to us and they have been our justification, our greatest triumph."

Helen and Kuba formally met after the war and moved to Germany. In 1949 they emigrated to the United States and settled in Poughkeepsie, New York. They have two sons and four grandchildren.

"The Holocaust can never be forgotten," said Helen. "For we who were there, it is our duty and obligation to keep reminding people of what happened. We hope and pray the younger generation can learn from the past. They are our future leaders. I would hope they become people who have compassion."

Early origin of problems

The next presentation in the ongoing "Life Skills Series" at Saint Therese Medical Center is titled, "Resolving Your Family-of-Origin Issues." John Jochem, Psy.D., CADC, adult program director of behavioral medicine at Saint Therese Medical Center, will present this program April 26, 7 to 8 p.m.

Early experiences within our family-of-origin may impact and define our current family roles, expectations of others, and ways in which we communicate and interact as adults. Self-esteem is greatly influenced by the experiences we had in our families as children. Sometimes these roles, or "scripts," lead to difficulties that contribute to marital conflicts, strained family communication and difficulty in managing periods of transition.

This presentation will help participants gain an awareness of how one's early family experiences contribute to current problems and, how to break out of old patterns by learning new scripts and new communication skills.

The program, as well as the parking, are free of charge. For more information on this lecture, call Saint Therese Ask-A-Nurse at 244-5900.

Free screening for anxiety disorders offered

You're walking down a familiar street. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, your heart starts to pound, you feel dizzy, out of control and terribly frightened. You have an overwhelming sense of panic and an unrelenting feeling that the only safe place is your home. Or, maybe you find yourself constantly redoing the same task just to be certain you did it right, endlessly checking and rechecking to make sure the door is locked, the stove is off, or the windows are closed.

"Symptoms such as these may be signs of anxiety disorders," says Linda Hale, R.N., patient care director of Mental Health Services at Victory Memorial Hospital. "Anxiety disorders are the nation's number one mental health problem."

Anxiety disorders affect more than 28 million Americans each year. The disorders are characterized by fear and anxiety that appear for no apparent reason, inexplicably reaching overwhelming levels, dramatically reducing or eliminating the ability of the sufferer to take part in daily activities.

The Mental Health Services Dept. at Victory Memorial will provide free screenings for anxiety at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. on Wednesday, May 3, National Anxiety Disorders Screening Day.

"At the screening, individuals will have the opportunity to receive information about various anxiety disorders, complete a written self-test for symptoms of the disorders and discuss the test results with a mental health professional in a confidential setting," says Hale.

While anxiety disorders are treatable, only a fraction of those suffering from them seek help.

"We want people to know that they are not alone and that treatment is available if they suffer from anxiety disorders," says Hale. "And we hope families and friends will encourage individuals to take part in this screening and, if necessary, support them by accompanying them to the screening."

For more information or to register for a free, confidential anxiety screening, call 1-800-THE-CHOICE, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cancer Month activities scheduled in Zion

Cancer used to be one of the scariest words in the English language. But today, more people than ever before are living well following a cancer diagnosis.

The cancer care specialists at Midwestern Regional Medical Center in Zion, care for more than 400 new cancer patients every year. Managed by Cancer Treatment Centers of America™, the cancer program at Midwestern is approved by the American College of Surgeons Commission on Cancer—a designation which demonstrates to patients that total cancer care is available locally and that a commitment of high quality care exists.

In addition to comprehensive cancer treatment, Midwestern is also committed to cancer prevention and early detection. During National Cancer Control Month in April, Midwestern will offer several screenings and programs designed to help people learn about cancer's early warning signs and detect cancer early, when it is most treatable and curable.

Women's Comprehensive Cancer Risk Exam—A comprehensive examination by a physician includes tests to detect cancer early. Tests include mammogram, blood and urine analysis and a computerized cancer risk profile. Call any one of the following physicians for an appointment: Dr. Glynis Vashi, Park City, 263-9900; Dr. Semyon Maslovsky, Lindenhurst, 356-6131; and Dr. Pedro Palu-ay, Zion, 872-4558.

Men's Comprehensive Cancer Risk Exam—A comprehensive examination by a physician including blood and urine analysis, digital exam of the prostate and PSA, and a computerized cancer risk profile. Call any one of the following physicians for an appointment: Dr. Glynis Vashi, Park City, 263-9900; Dr. Semyon Maslovsky, Lindenhurst, 356-6131; and Dr. Pedro Palu-ay, Zion, 872-4558.

Mammogram—This safe, low-dosage X-ray can detect a tumor in the breast long before you can see or feel it. Your mammogram will be performed by a conscientious technologist who is an expert in mammography and breast examination. A radiologist examines and interprets the X-rays at no additional cost. Call 731-4100 to schedule an appointment.

Test Your Cancer IQ Workshop; Saturday, April 22, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.—A free workshop on cancer prevention, early detection and treatment featuring presentations by Midwestern physicians and other health care professionals who specialize in cancer care. Seating is limited.

Call 731-4109 for reservations.

Mind-Body Medicine and Cancer Care: Wednesday, April 26, 6 to 7 p.m.—Learn about mind-body medicine techniques developed by national experts and used by cancer patients at Midwestern. This free one-hour program will include information and demonstrations on meditation and imagery, Oriental medicine techniques, hypnosis and biofeedback. Call 731-4100 for reservations.

Innovations in cosmetic surgery presented in women's health series

Every woman wants to age gracefully. It's how we define gracefully that varies from individual to individual. One woman may like her hair to be salt and pepper gray and find her smile lines to be a testimony to her character. Yet another may feel more comfortable consulting a hairstylist and plastic surgeon, favoring her appearance to reflect how young she feels.

Join Lake Forest Hospital plastic surgeon Anthony Terrasse, M.D., for About Face: Innovations in Cosmetic Surgery. This program, a part of Lake Forest Hospital's AWARE Women's Health Series, will be held on Wednesday, April 26, at 7 p.m. in the conference center. During this educational program, Dr. Terrasse will detail the latest advances in facial plastic surgery. He will also discuss laser treatment of veins and wrinkles; minimal incision cosmetic surgery and alpha hydroxy acid chemical peels, a simple and effective way to minimize lines and revitalize skin tone that may even appeal to those who opt for the natural approach.

Enrollment is limited. To register, call 234-6112.

Victory hosts managing Medicare Maze

"Managing the Medicare Maze" is a free professional education seminar from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Wednesday, April 16, hosted by Victory Lakes Continuing Care Center, 1055 E. Grand Ave., Lindenhurst. Discharge planners, social workers, Medicare coordinators, home health professionals and other social service and continuing care professionals are invited to attend.

To register for the seminar, call Valerie Conn at 356-5900.

Condell starts construction on office buildings

Condell Medical Center will be expanding its health care services to northern Lake County from its main campus in Libertyville this spring. The health care system will begin construction on two physician office buildings in April; one in Grayslake and another in Gurnee.

"The characteristics of the two sites are very different," explained Jay Justice, vice president of operations. "The Gurnee site is a 2.7-acre corner parcel, with high visibility in a heavily trafficked commercial corridor. Purchased by Condell in 1992, the property is situated on the northeast corner of Hunt Club Road and Rte. 132 (Grand Avenue). Access to the site is from the Mall Drive on the northeast corner of the property."

Justice continued, "The Grayslake site is less visible and more serene with mature dense trees and a deeper setback. The purchase of the Strawbarn property, a 5.8-acre parcel on Rte. 120 between Rtes. 45 and 83, was completed in January. Site access is direct from Rte. 120, a significant east-west artery in northern Lake County."

Legat Medical Architects have been commissioned to design and coordinate the construction of both buildings. The 15,240 square foot office complexes are scheduled for completion in October, 1995 at a projected cost of $2 million each, which includes site improvements and the build-out of professional office suites.

"The designs of the medical office buildings are consistent in program and function, although they portray individual images and scales appropriate to their context. Consistencies exist in suite layout, interior circulation and easy access to the main entry. Differences appear in the site approach, site circulation and building image." Justice explained further that one suite will be designed to accommodate various outpatient procedures including laboratory, mammography and general radiological services.

Condell Medical Center is a 187-bed acute care hospital located on a 60-acre campus in Libertyville. In the past several years, Condell and its affiliate organizations have initiated a program of health and fitness for its employees and area residents that includes Centre Club, a 72,000 square foot health club on medical center grounds; The Medical Center Health Institute, dedicated to fitness and wellness; a network of Acute Care Centers located throughout the service area; an expanding accredited Home Health Services division; and the innovative Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care.

Foundation offers grant program

With increasing cuts in social program funding, the cost of developing new programs can be prohibitive and there is less room than ever for reinventing the wheel. With that in mind, The Retirement Research Foundation's ENCORE Seed Grants provide opportunities for community-based organizations to receive up to $30,000 over three years to replicate existing, award-winning programs. The application deadline is May 26.

In 1988, the Foundation created ENCORE (ENCoring COMmunity Response to the Elderly) as a two-phase competitive award and grant program to promote community-based services for the elderly and increase the availability and effectiveness of these programs. Each year up to four $25,000 unrestricted awards and as many as six $5,000 commendation awards are given to recognize exemplary programs that enhance the quality of life for older adults. Unlike traditional foundation grants, they are not intended to fund new programs or underwrite general operating budgets, but are unrestricted.

In the second phase of the ENCORE program, outstanding award winning programs are used as models for new programs. Non-profit organizations located in Cook, Lake and DuPage Counties are eligible to apply for seed grants to develop and implement models in their own communities.

Applications will be accepted until May 26. Beginning in June, all applications will be reviewed and evaluated. Finalists will be scheduled for site visits and further assessment. All applications will be notified of final results by the Foundation in September.

Ways to fight kidney disease

One of the serious long-term complications of diabetes is kidney disease. According to the Diabetes Mellitus report in the "Johns Hopkins White Papers," diabetics have four major strategies open to them in fighting kidney disease.

Tight control of blood sugar is most important in preventing or delaying any of the long-term complications of diabetes, according to the report.

Monitoring of blood pressure and prompt treatment of hypertension is also essential. High blood pressure can damage the kidneys and this damage can cause blood pressure to rise even higher.

ACE inhibitors, which are used to treat high blood pressure, have also been found effective in slowing the progress of kidney disease. This has been found to be true even in diabetic patients who do not have high blood pressure.

Finally, restricting the intake of sodium and protein can ease the load on the kidneys, particularly for persons who have already developed kidney problems.

"Because diabetes can be so damaging to the body," says Luanna Shelton, R.N., certified diabetic instructor at Victory Memorial Hospital, "it is important that people have routine screenings for the disease. If you suspect you may have diabetes, see your doctor right away."

For information call the free Physician Referral Line at 360-4101, Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Fitness consultant offers custom fitness program

Louise Domerchie, M.A., a local fitness expert offers customized at-home or worksite fitness programs. Designed to accommodate the person too busy to fit in sessions at the health club, this program allows you to kill two birds with one stone and accomplish both an aerobic and a strength training session at the same time.

Customized workouts involve a small group of employees at work, a husband and wife team at home, or an individual. Participants learn how to work out aerobically using dumbbells and a weight bench or step.

For those recovering from surgery, the chronically stiff, "in pain" individual, or those relearning to use a joint or a limb, this program fills in the gaps often felt after physical therapy has ended.

Domerchie currently offers these classes for Lake County, City of Waukegan, and downtown Waukegan workers. Classes are held in the old Durkin and Durkin building at 11-13 North Genesee Street upstairs Aurora University from 12:05 to 12:55 on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays. She also teaches a Master's Age Level class on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3:45 to 4:30 in St. Therese Medical Center Auditorium.

Domerchie, a certified high school teacher and weight training and aerobics instructor is a member of the Gurnee Women's Business Association and has been involved in fitness since 1967. Her masters degree in special education and extensive experience teaching fitness classes provide both technical and emotional components. Call Louise Domerchie, 249-3033 to learn more about the programs.

DETECTING COLORECTAL CANCER EARLY COULD SAVE YOUR LIFE.

If you're over 40, many physicians recommend both men and women to be tested for colorectal cancer.

It's the second most common form of cancer, but can be treated and cured if detected early.

A simple home test can help detect colorectal cancer. You will be able to tell within minutes whether your test is positive. If it is, additional tests are recommended to determine why the test was positive. It could be another health problem you may not be aware of.

For a free colorectal cancer home test, please call us today at 708/872-4558.

Hospital produces baby-care video

"Baby's First Months—What Do We Do Now?" is the title of a new video created by Highland Park Hospital to help guide new parents through the first few months of their baby's daily care as well as care of the new mother. The video is sent home free of charge with parents whose babies are delivered at the hospital's Family Birthing Center.

The 48-minute video was developed by 12 pediatric specialists and members of the Highland Park Hospital nursing staff. It covers the nuts and bolts of baby care, including holding the baby, burping, cord care, diapering, bathing, breast and bottle feeding, doctor's visits, crying and colic, most commonly asked questions and more. It is believed to be the only video of its kind produced by a Chicago-area hospital for its patients.

"With hospital stays at one day for a vaginal birth and three days for a Cesarean birth, parents may not have the time or the energy to learn what they need to know while they're here," said Nancy Sarlo, RN, director of women's services. "The video is our way of sending new parents home with instructions and demonstrations that they can view as many times as necessary."

"For members of the community who did not deliver here, the video is available for viewing or rental (no charge) at our Women's and Family Resource Library," Sarlo notes. "The library also offers books and videos on child care and parenting and is open to men and women of all ages. A library card can be issued upon checkout."

The Women's and Family Resource Library is located on the first floor of Highland Park Hospital at 718 Glenview Ave.; 480-2727.

Kids fair receives national award

The Kids 1st Health Fair received the prestigious U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services Award for its program designed to meet the back-to-school health needs for the medically underserved. The health fair, established in 1993 by the Lake County Health Dept. and the Lake County League of Women Voters, has served more than 2,500 low income children the past two summers, providing physical examinations, dental screenings, immunizations, developmental screenings, speech and language evaluations and school supplies.

The awards are based on community need, coordinated efforts between public and private entities, well-conceived and effective objectives and strategies, creativity and potential for replication. The Kids 1st program was one of only three Illinois projects to receive the award for outstanding program in community health promotion.

The fair will again be held this summer at Waukegan High School. More than 2,000 children are expected to attend the event on Aug. 2 from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Last year, more than 600 volunteers helped, including medical providers from St. Therese Hospital, Finch University of Health Sciences Chicago Medical School, Victory Hospital, Midwestern Regional, Condell Medical Center, and Good Shepherd and Highland Park Hospitals.

Anxiety disorders screening held

You're walking down a familiar street. Suddenly, for no apparent reason, your heart starts to pound and you feel dizzy, out of control, and terribly frightened.

You have an overwhelming sense of panic and unrelenting feeling that the only safe place is your home.

Or, maybe you find yourself constantly redoing the same task to be certain you did it right, endlessly checking and rechecking to make sure the door is locked, the stove is off, or the windows are closed.

Symptoms such as these may be signs of anxiety disorders, the nation's most common mental health problem. Anxiety disorders affect more than 28 million Americans each year.

They are mental illnesses characterized by fear and anxiety that appear for no apparent reason, inexplicably reaching overwhelming levels and dramatically reducing or eliminating the ability of a person to function.

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Medicine at the Finch University of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School will offer free screenings for anxiety on National Anxiety Disorders Screening Day, May 3, 1995, during National Mental Health Month.

The free program will be held from 9 a.m. to noon in the Faculty Lounge at the University, which is located at 3333 Green Bay Rd., North Chicago, just south of the intersection of Buckley and Green Bay Roads.

Describing the screening process, Dr. Phil Lebovitz, Anxiety Disorders Screening Day Project Director, said, "Individuals will view a video depicting the symptoms of the different anxiety disorders, fill out a written self-test for these symptoms, have the opportunity to discuss the results with a mental health professional and receive a referral if appropriate. All screenings are free and confidential.

Mental health professionals treat anxiety disorders with a combination of medicine and behavior therapy.

Treatment is individualized for each patient and depends on the severity of the symptoms and the level of function.

Common medications for anxiety disorders include selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors (SSRIs), tricyclic antidepressants, benzodiazepines, or monoamine oxidase inhibitors.

To reserve a place at the Anxiety Disorders Screening Day, RSVP to the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at 578-3330.

Fluff courses

My husband and I were really upset when we got Dist. 95 summer courses in the mail. These are fluff courses and $45 cannot possibly cover the cost of keeping the school open, paying for teachers, having buses come through our subdivision for one or two children. I think this is a waste of taxpayer's money. Parents should call and complain. Here we are on the bottom third of school rankings and we're worried about summer programs!

Proper word usage

In response to Robert J. Long's Letter to the Editor in the March 31 issue, I'm very proud that my personal attorney can use the word "gerrymander" appropriately in a sentence. I am most impressed!

Be better parent

In reading the part that says 'Guns for Everyone', it brought to mind quite a few things that are of real concern for people in all our communities of Lake County. Where evil exists, good men stand by, the note said. Maybe it's time for these citizens in all communities to do something. Maybe get involved in the school district, youth activities programs, but more importantly, being a better parent and ensuring that your children are not the type to be recruited by a gang. Maybe in some ways it also may mean that the community needs to stand tighter and stand together, that people have to do something.

Loud non-voters

Have you ever noticed the ones that cry the loudest about their candidate losing are the ones that did not vote in the April 4 election. Makes you wonder, doesn't it?

Come back, Mary

I'm from Spring Grove and I'm speaking to the Round Lake person of the minor population that wants Mary Davis. The majority of your population doesn't. I want to let Mary Davis know that the superintendent's position is open in Dist. 11 and 157. We'd love to have her back. Please, Mary, come back!

Love ya, pop

To George, the greatest pops in the world who always reads these crazy things. I just want to say thanks for all you've done for me. I'm the luckiest girl in the world for having you as a dad. No matter what happens, I'll always be your little girl. I love you!

Don't blame seniors

To the people who called in under the title 'We all pay' and 'No fair.' Why don't you get your facts straight and look into things properly? It isn't because of the seniors that your social security funds are being drained. For years and years, Congress has drained all the interest off your social security and put it towards the national debt.

Another thing, I don't take any trips or cruises on my social security and as far as the increase we get every year, it's a joke. It wouldn't even begin to cover my increases and expenses. And get your facts straight with the schools. They're the ones that have so much corruption in them that they can't stay within a budget. Why should we seniors continue to pay the astronomical raises in property tax that result from it?

Who's greedy?

To the two whiners who bashed the elderly and the rewards earned through a lifetime of hard work and sacrifices, try it, you might like it! Then consider that without the World War II generation's contribution to this great country, you would be speaking Japanese and goose-stepping your way to a work camp. Accusations of greed in others is almost laughable coming from the generations who created the welfare queens and the billion-dollar food stamp fraud.

Equal time

To Mr. Schroeder, we all hope that within your senior bashing tax increase agenda that you will give equal time to the elderly who are being unjustly persecuted.

Shame, shame

I'm calling from Wauconda. Shame on you, Mayor Eschenbach. Shame on you for using taxpayers money to circulate information which slings your own praises on how good a job you think you're doing.

Why not printed?

You didn't print my comment about the good conservative Republicans of Wauconda who hate the federal government and taxes gladly accepting $75,000 in grant money from the federal government. I'm curious why it wasn't printed. Is it because Bill Schroeder can't stand if someone says something negative about his good conservative right-wing pals?

Cut government

Ask yourself how many companies have had cutbacks and layoffs over the last 10-15 years. How many people in the private sector have lost their jobs or taken pay-cuts? Now ask yourself how many federal, state, or local government agencies have cut back or laid off tax supported employees to be more efficient? The answer is none! We need smaller government to match the more efficient business world. I suggest we cut back 15-percent of the public work force at the federal, state, and local levels.

Pass the baton

This is for Kazner, one of the Village Trustees of Round Lake Heights. Congratulations, you have succeeded in losing another election. Now don't you think it's time that you pack up your little chair that you've sat in for so many years and get off the board and leave it to someone that can improve the village instead of keeping it down in the gutters. I would appreciate it if you did, and so would a lot of other people!

Keep Mary

This is to 'Check the facts.' I think you'd better practice what you preach because I did check my facts. I talked to lots of residents during and after the strike and 90-percent of those I talked to would not want Davis back if she was the only choice for superintendent. Whoever you are, do a Davis poll not just with her friends and relatives. You'd be surprised!

Other solutions

Well, the votes are in and they speak for themselves! We don't want a new Warren Township High School or any increase in our property taxes. Now, before you start trying to work on all of us for another vote probably in November, why don't you look for other alternatives? Expansion on the current site, modules, year-round school, shifts, and get rid of the children who are See LIPSERVICE page B14 paying taxes who belong to Waukegan. We have people who live in apartments on Delaney Road going to Gurnee schools and they are Waukegan. Midlane residents are Waukegan, and the subdivision off of Yorkhouse Road are all Waukegan. Maybe if they were made to go to the proper schools, we'd have a little more room in our current building.

We'll see you!

After several attempts of trying to make an appointment with the superintendent of Woodland schools, my husband and I have been refused repeatedly. We followed their rules, working our way up the chain of command to his office, only to be told that our specific concerns about safety are not his problem, they are his assistant's problem, and we should talk to him first. One more link in the chain! He doesn't have time to listen to the needs of the parents of the school district he works for because he's too busy interviewing new assistant principals. Even though many of the questions can only be answered by him, we are still refused an appointment. My husband and I are completely dumbfounded that the person who is in charge of our children's entire day, five days a week, for nine months, can't or won't make the time to meet with us. Isn't that part of his job, too? We are on the fifth chain and working our way up. See you soon, Dr. Conill

Unsafe practice

I'm calling as a concerned parent of a 7-year-old in Woodview School. I got caught in traffic coming home from work and was 10 minutes late and found that my daughter was left unattended and let off the bus with no car in the driveway. No one checked to make sure I was home when they let her off. I called the school and the principal said I need to have an alternate home where she can be dropped off. Do they check to make sure someone's home at the alternate home? What if I had been in an accident? What do they do with the child, drop them off not knowing if anyone is there? This concerns me as it not being a safe practice for children going to Woodview School. Why aren't these children taken back to the school and parents notified? The principal said they can't be driving all around for everybody. This is an unsafe practice!

Let there be light

Mayor, we need your help! Our streets are getting darker and darker in Countryside Hills. Diamond's light pole removed on the 76093 corner of Normandy Lane and Countryside Lane hasn't been replaced and the wires are sticking out above ground where the pole was. Streets lights have burned out two months ago and are still out. We're still waiting for our lights to go on. Help, mayor!

Change is good

I would like to address a previous article entitled "Concerned parents in Spring Grove." First of all, this group says issues about too little or too many challenges were addressed in the beginning of the school year. Obviously, they must be teachers, because who else was in on this discussion? Certainly not parents. Or if they were parents, it's obvious that parents aren't satisfied. Why should it take a full year to see our children learn? Secondly, these people must not like change. Why is change such a bad thing? This isn't your little country school anymore. Wake up. It's about time for changes and new, fresh, high-energy ideas.

Slipping through

Attention, Dist. 41 parents: how satisfied are you with our children's education? I'm very disappointed as I'm sure other parents are. I have an eighth-grader at Intermediate School who was an honors student up until sixth grade. Now my child barely passes. They've learned sewing, wood shop, how not to do their homework, and how to lie. Have the teachers taken the time to update us on our children's progress? As a parent, we find out after the fact or when it's too late. How can we work with the teachers to ensure that our children don't slip through the cracks? What is my child learning watching movies at least once a week, what type of grade will he get by movie-watching or going on field trips? Let's get back to the books!

Be responsible

I read in a recent article in Lakeland Newspapers about a woman who was angry because she was late coming home and her daughter was left unattended when she was dropped off by the school bus. I can't believe this woman has the gall to actually want to make the school responsible for her responsibilities as a mother. It's impossible to get somewhere at the same time all the time. Knowing this fact, this woman should have alternate plans for her daughter if she is not there to pick her up. This cannot and should not be the school's responsibility. Did she expect the bus driver to leave his seat, knock on the door to make sure mom was home, and if not, take the child back to school? What if they did this for every child on the bus? Wake up and smell your responsibilities. Have an alternate plan and let the schools do what our taxes pay for - education, not babysitting!

Gun nuts

This is for all the gun nuts out there who say that it's their "Constitutional right" to own firearms. I wish you would re-read the Constitution. It specifically states that we have the right to "bear arms to form a regulated militia." This means army, and for fighting in a war. In no way does it state that every human being on earth has the right to conceal a weapon for protection. Because of this narrow-minded, macho, "I'll let go of my gun when you take it from my cold, dead hands" kind of thinking, this country is in the mess it's in now. Because of this thinking, teenagers and young children can buy handguns like penny candy and toddlers will continue to discover loaded handguns "hidden" in closets and drawers, guaranteeing tragedy. Come on people, wake up. If we don't make tougher gun laws, people will continue to kill each other needlessly. Don't let the NRA run the country. Write your local Congressman and use your political voice - it does make a difference!

A positive note

Each week when I read Lipservice, there are infinitely more negative comments than positive ones. I thought I would contribute a positive note and say thank you to my husband for being a real man by all definitions of the word. He is kind, supportive, caring, sensitive, strong, intelligent, funny, and responsible. What more could I ask for? You're the greatest, sweetheart! Happy one year anniversary!

Help with squeak

I'm calling from Wauconda. Is there anyone out there that knows about cars that can tell me how to get rid of squeaking brakes? The car was brought in for service and the rotors were replaced, but we were told by the dealer that because of new parts, the brakes will squeak indefinitely. This is driving me nuts. Is there anyone who knows a secret that can solve this for me? Please call in and let me know soon!

Community action group seeks input on family issues

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

A town meeting will be held in Waukegan next week to seek input into needs of the family.

The 7:30 p.m. April 25 meeting at Clearview School will be part of Lake County's Year of the Family effort.

A planning committee is working to come up with the best ways to distribute Federal funds made available through 1993 legislation.

"Families come in all types of structures and many families are at-risk," Barbara Gordon, of Community Action Project, said.

"Families today are a hot topic. People have a lot of strong feelings about the role parents should play in raising the children," Diane Peterson of Central Baptist, said.

The Year of the Family has been declared by Robert Depke, Lake County Board chairman. The Lake County Community Action Project is co-sponsor along with several community groups.

A kickoff rally was held at Waukegan High School.

The project's purpose: to galvanize public attention and action to the issues of youth, parenting and family; position children and family as the center of our culture; bring about a collaborative effort to meet the needs of the youth and families of Lake County and to unify efforts that will have a positive impact on the community.

The Federal funds are administered through the Local Area Networks, which have planning committees and Central Baptist, located in Waukegan, is part of that effort. Some $125,000 could be spent this year, $300,000 over five years.

"There is no certainty for the on-going funds," Peterson told Gurnee Rotary Club members.

"The professions do not always know what is best. That is why there is town meetings and over half of the planning committees will be parents," Peterson said.

Through surveys and interviews, child care, safety, violence in schools and health care appear to be the leading concerns. Areas which appear to be the targeted for resources are North Chicago, Zion and Round Lake.

Pat Atherton, a Chicago State University professor, on leave to work with HeadStart, said the goals of that program are to help parents become self sufficient. A staff of three case management system workers visit the homes of families monthly to discuss goal, housing needs of social services and more.

Atherton admitted there are some persons who go from agency to agency seeking assistance.

"But then there was one guy with 10 kids and no job. He was on public aide for two and one-half years, but got a job and a new house. We were so excited for him. He is now feeling good about himself," she said.

'Wall of Love' tells many tales

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

Many people who walk into The Lambs' Country Inn Restaurant in Libertyville may notice the wide array of colorful tiles covering several interior walls. What may look like a hodge-podge assortment from far away turns into something far different upon closer inspection, with each tile having its own motif, and its own meaning.

The ceramic tiles are made by the many men and woman who are developmentally disabled and participate in Lambs Farm programs.

The tiles — all 1,271 of them — make up what is called the "Wall of Love."

"In a way, it does represent love for the people who are here," said Vicki King, Lambs spokeswoman.

Each of the tiles is made by one of the 252 persons serviced at Lambs, 152 who live on the premises at Route 176 and I-294.

The tiles are part of a fund raiser run by the Lambs Farm Women's Board now dating back 10 years. For a donation of $100, a contributor can choose a saying, name or pictures to be hand-painted on the 4.5-square-inch mosaic tiles.

All of the revenue goes towards supporting the many different programs at the center, including vocational and residential training and social support services. The idea to sell the tiles came from the original "Wall of Love" which started in 1972, King said.

At that time the restaurant had been in an old barn, and tiles were sold to raise funds to build a new restaurant. Tiles were sold for a couple of years before the project was temporarily stopped.

The Country Inn was opened in 1980 with the benefit of other funds. Lambs stored the tiles until they could be incorporated into the restaurant on its back wall in the banquet room, said Judy Close, restaurant manager.

Each of the tiles are individual and personal. No two look alike. Special orders are sent to the

Although there are around 10 participants in the class at a time, everyone at Lambs Farm has had a hand in making tiles at one time or another, said Tazioli, of Wildwood. She has taught at the Farm for the past four years, and said she gets as much enjoyment out of it as they do.

Even though the adults are taking a class, they know and work like they are part of a bigger operation.

"They are doing something that they not only enjoy, but good that's for the Farm, for everybody," Tazioli said.

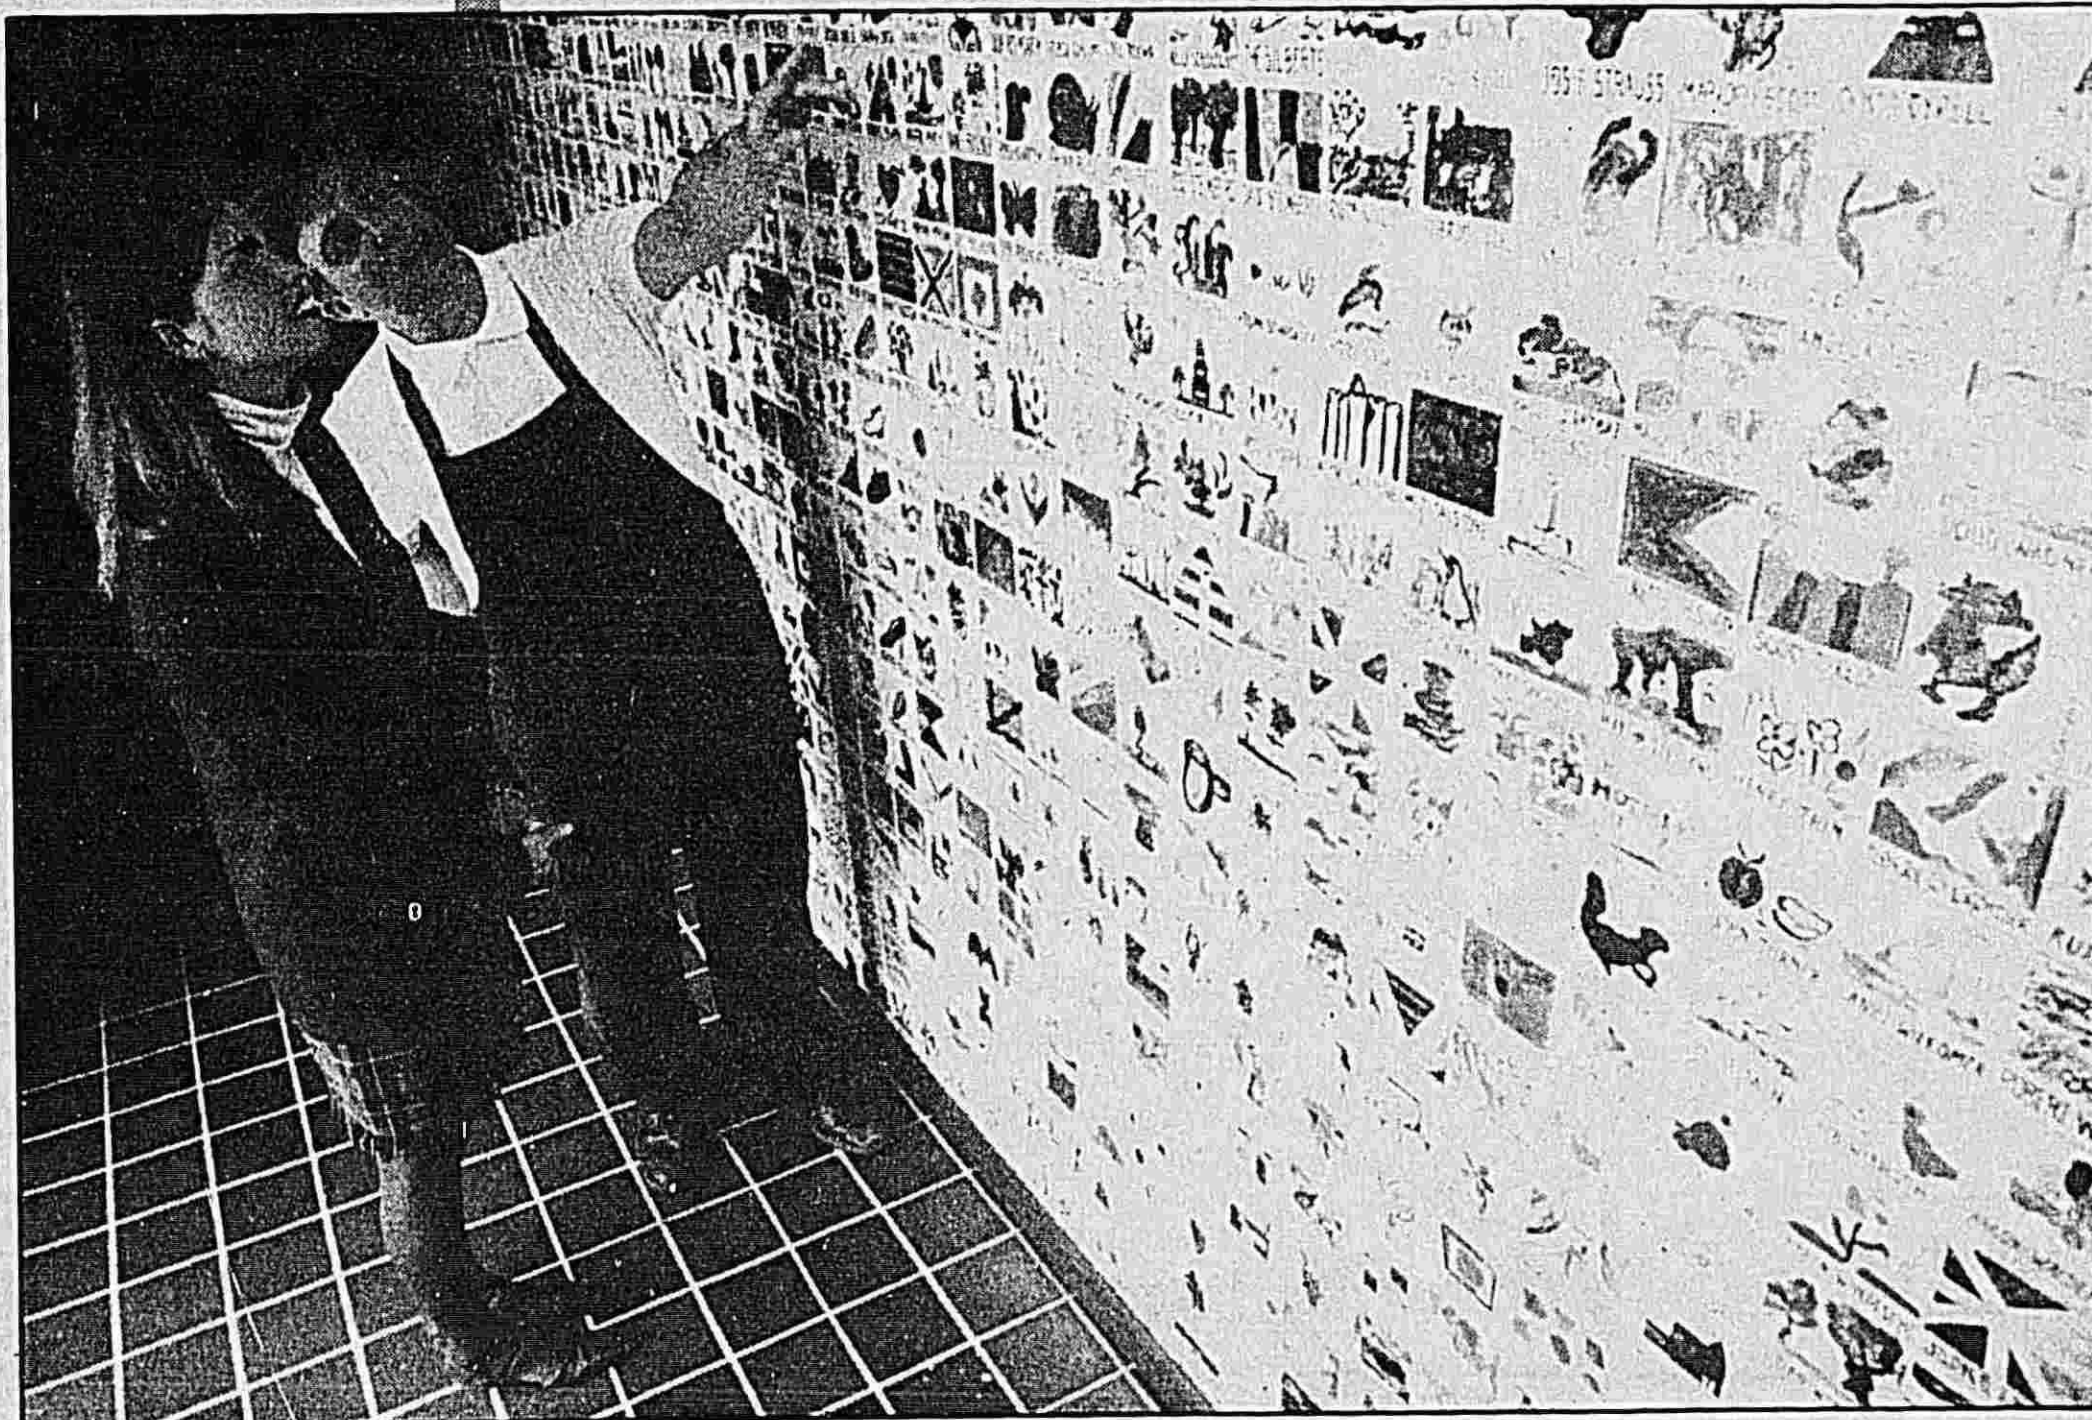

Some of the tiles are purchased in memory of a loved one or favorite pet purchased at the Farm. Others are for anniversaries and even in remembrance of a wedding reception that took place there.

Many of the more unusual or unique tiles are arranged in a series with a continuing theme. Tazioli said they just finished an order for one woman who ordered 13 tiles, all with a barnyard theme. One has a horse, another has a chicken, a hog, rooster, sheep, duck, mule, cow, and others.

A lot of people at Lambs Farm are involved in Special Olympics, which is well represented on the Wall in swimming and track and field. In each, a person is starting a race on one tile, in the middle of a stride on a second and crossing the finish line on the third, Tazioli said.

Another series of two tiles has the front half of a cow on one and the back half on the other.

The Country Inn even has its See WALL page B18

Kids FARE

Stage Two presents musical theatre for kids

Stage Two will present "Emperor Toad," a musical comedy for children, April 22 at 10 a.m., 1:30 and 7 p.m.

"Emperor Toad" was written by Charles Pascoe, the same author of last spring's Foxtales.

The play tells the story of a group of forest animals, each with human personalities and characteristics. It follows the foibles of Toad, who has always been frustrated at being shorter than his fellow forest creatures. His adventures lead him to discover happiness just being who he is. Along the way, the lively songs celebrate the return of spring, the joy of being granted a wish and the drama of Toad's painful fate on his way to discovering self-esteem.

Tickets are $3 and reservations can be made by calling 662-76088. There are also school-day performances for groups held (by special arrangements) through April 28. The show will also be available to tour. Study guides are provided free of charge to educators or group leaders bringing groups of 10 or more.

'Reduce, Reuse, Recycle'

"Me recycle? Bah, Humbug!" At least that's what Ebesleezer Sludge says before he meets up with Reduce, Reuse and Recycle—three spirits who teach him the importance of being Earth-friendly.

The Power House will present "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle," an interactive play that gives kids the opportunity to join Mr. Sludge in learning recycling tips and other ways they can help protect the Earth, April 22 at 11 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The performances will include paper recycling demonstrations and chances to win prizes.

The Power House is Commonwealth Edison's hands-on energy education enter in Zion. It is located on the shores of Lake Michigan a few miles north of Illinois Beach State Park. It is fully accessible to disabled visitors and is open to the public, free of charge, Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information, call the Power House at 746-7080.

Children's Folk Concert

Children of all ages are invited to join California singer and songwriter "ROBBO" for a fun-filled afternoon of music and song at the Lake County Forest Preserves' Lake County Museum on Sunday, April 23 at 3 p.m. "ROBBO" (Robb Zelony) will perform his unique blend of memorable melodies, whimsical musical story-telling and sing-and-dance along fun.

"ROBBO" has been entertaining children in Los Angeles area of over 16 years, turning old-fashioned talent and enthusiasm into an enjoyable 35-minute smorgasbord of musical treats for children.

The Lake County Museum is located in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Rte. 176 just west of Fairfield Road near Wauconda. For more information call 526-7878.

Kidtime at PM & L

Its Kidtime on the PM & L stage April 29 when the theatre group presents "Hansel and Gretel." Two performances are played at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tickets are $3 for all ages.

"Hansel and Gretel," the well-known fairy tale, has been adapted for the stage by Ken Smouse who will also play the narrator. Gigi Willding is the director of the show.

Jamie Seputis from Antioch will play Gretel and Jerod Howard from Lake Villa appears as Hansel. Ricky Apostol from Antioch is the Witch and Dwight Cosper from Island Lake is the father. The cast is rounded out by Pam Browning of Lake Villa playing the role of Fluffy The Cat.

Tickets are available at the door. PM & L is located at 877 Main Street in Antioch. For more information call 395-3055.

'Beauty and the Beast'

Beauty and the Beast, a musical for children, will be presented by the Marriott Lincolnshire Theatre for Young Audiences April 19 through May 19.

Performances are scheduled Wednesday through Friday at 10 a.m. and Saturdays at 11 a.m.

Fair housing seminar set

Lake County Center For Independent Living, Ser, Access Living and College of Lake County present the Fair Housing Amendments Act. April is fair housing month. These organizations cooperatively will discuss the numerous facets of fair housing. For example, landlord tenant issues will be discussed along with racial discrimination, discrimination against families and against people with disabilities (emotional or physical).

The discussions will begin with an overview of the various facets of fair housing followed by a few skits demonstrating different types of discrimination. If time permits there will be a brief sensitivity training portion; but most importantly, there will be a question and answer segment.

To register or for further questions, call Ed Green at the Lake County Center for Independent Living at 949-4440 V/TTY.

The seminar will be presented at the College of Lake County, Grayslake campus on April 26 from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. in room A258.

The celebration will conclude with a pow-wow from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on April 29. Tickets to the pow-wow are $3 for adults, and $1 for children 6 to 12 years old. The program is sponsored by CLC's Talent Search program and the student activities offices in cooperation with the Lake County Museum and the American Indian Center. For information, call 223-6601, ext. 2300 or 2755.

Museum hosts gallery program

Learn a variety of fascinating facts and trivia about Lake County history at gallery talks offered at the Lake County Forest Preserves' Lake County Museum. The history of Lake County schools will be the featured gallery talk for Sunday, April 23 at 2 p.m. All ages are invited. Admission at the door is $2 for adults, 75 cents for children and students ages 4 through 18. Children under 4 are free. Reservations are not required. The Lake County Museum is located in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Rte. 176 just west of Fairfield Road near Wauconda. For information call 526-7878.

Final parenting class set

In "Discovering Normal" participants will learn how to be a more effective parent while addressing the special challenges resulting from growing up with alcoholic or other dysfunctional parents. The final class will be held on Monday, April 23 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Gorton Community Center in Lake Forest. For further information call 662-4464.

Spring arts and craft show at fairgrounds

The Lake County spring arts and crafts show will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, April 22 and 23 at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Rtes. 45 and 120, Grayslake. For further details call 223-1433.

Plan to attend Chef's Showcase Brunch

Twenty-three restaurants, clubs and caterers from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin will be participating in the third annual Chef's Showcase Brunch. The brunch, held for the benefit of the Woodstock Mozart Festival, will be held Sunday, April 30 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at McHenry County College in the food service area. This delightful gourmet event will be available for $25 for adults and $12 for children 12 and under. Tickets will be available at the door or by calling 497-3269.

Youth entrepreneur symposium set

The Univ. of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service will be hosting the third annual Youth Entrepreneur Symposium in Chicago from April 27 to 30. Teens between age 13 to 19, professionals and volunteers from youth serving agencies, and people interested in youth entrepreneurial projects should attend this symposium. The agenda includes seminars, workshops, nationally recognized guest speakers, teen vendors, entertainers, and more. For registration fee, program, and accommodation information call Nickey Jefferson at (312)761-5099.

own tile, purchased by the restaurant staff, Close said.

Many of the orders come in around the holidays, Tazioli said. A donation of $100 allows someone to choose a specific design to be painted on a tile along with their name or the name of a person to be honored or memorialized. The Lambs participants will also make a design if one is not provided.

Approximately 75 tiles are made each year, with the restaurant now having one wall filled from floor-to-ceiling, another filled above a bench in the front lobby and a third wall just starting next to the lobby, Close said.

The tiles keep the participants motivated for new ideas and gives them a sense of accomplishment, as well as making both themselves and the purchasers proud, she said.

"I am just like the people who make them," Tazioli said. "I enjoy the fact that their work is appreciated by everyone who comes into the restaurant."

King said the tiles "represent a vote of confidence in the program," as well as "a lot of incentive for the people" who make them.

Besides making the restaurant unique throughout the country, Close said it is definitely a conversation piece, as well as letting people know Lambs Farm is a loving and hope filled place.

Help for fishing widows or... Something old, something new, something fishy

NOTE: To celebrate my one year anniversary with Lakeland Newspapers, the following is a special reprint of the first "Life's A Bear" column from 4/22/94. It may be new to many of you who didn't catch it the first time, and for those who did, I've added never-before-read paragraphs to help keep you awake. Besides, this one is my husband's favorite:

It's early morning, on a dewy Saturday in spring. My husband is watching The Weather Channel. The weather report says that today will be clear, sunny and 65 degrees. An audible sigh escapes my husband's lips and suddenly, he turns to me, his brown eyes burning into mine. He smiles. Hmmm, I think to myself, the kids are still in bed, we're all alone, maybe we could, you know.

I wait eagerly for his next move. Then, he takes my hand, stroking it tenderly, and whispers in my ear, "The ice is melted in the channel." Gee, I've never heard that line before. Must be a new one. I give him my best come-hither stare. There's a moment of silence before he coos "You wouldn't mind if I went fishing for a few hours would you?"

The cad! (or in his case, the cod!) I should have known! From the time the ice melts in the spring, until it freezes over again in the fall, my husband's mistress is the sea. And the lake, the river, the pond, and probably the bathtub if someone filled it up and threw in a couple of stripers. Oh, he tries to hide it, but the signs are there. Field and Stream hidden in a brown paper bag under the bed. 1-800-Bass-Pro on the phone bill. A calendar above his workbench in the garage with fish pictures on every page (each fish sports a different lure through her lip). The smell of fish on his collar, and a rubber worm in the pocket of his jacket. I wasn't born yesterday, you know.

Even something as simple as a trip to Wal-Mart becomes an exercise in intrigue. I turn to show him the new rose-print towels I'm thinking of purchasing, and find myself talking to have a wife with a useless credit card because the magnetic stripe is worn down. Or a husband who twitches his nose like a Labrador retriever at the sound of water that you'd like to join him, and then haul out your surprise. The look on his face will be all the thanks you'll ever need. And even if he doesn't really want particular plan is not for the squeamish.

If the sight of worms makes you gag, or if none of the tips I mentioned work, I have one final plan, guaranteed to get his attention. In fact, it works so well that you shouldn't try it unless you mean it. Here's how it goes: Make time to be alone together. If you have children, send them to a friend's house. Next, begin baiting your hook (that's just a fishy expression—it means set the mood, in this instance. It doesn't hurt to learn the lingo.) Light some candles, put on a tape of "nature music" (the one that sounds like waves slapping the shore), make him comfortable, pop in a videotape of "The Incredible Mr. Limpet" (wait—scratch that. Perhaps "Free Willy" might be a better choice), and tell him you'll return soon in something more "appropriate." Then leave the room and change into the "Little Mermaid" costume you got last year on sale after Halloween.

Finally, wiggle yourself back to the doorway of the room, lean against it and whisper seductively, "Try and catch me, fisherman."

Gets 'em every time.

some strange man, who was unlucky enough to be standing near me in the aisle. He mumbles something about towels being his "wife's department," and I hurry off feeling foolish. Flying up and down the aisles, my cart in 4th gear, avoiding a near collision with a woman who heard there were Power Rangers in Aisle 3, I'm thinking of calling security when finally I locate him, 15 minutes later, dazed and grinning, in the fishing equipment aisle. When I ask him what he's been doing, he gives me this guilty look and says, "Nothing. Just browsing." Uh, huh. I'll bet.

Of course, we never discussed this sort of thing when we were dating. Our conversations revolved around where we would live and how many children we would have, but never once did we discuss how many fish he would catch. Or try to catch. Or just look at. Or read about. It just never came up. Not that I was completely honest, either. I didn't warn him that if I saw the word "Sale" in a store window, I would feel compelled to slam on the brakes and find a parking spot. That never came up, either.

So, like most married couples, these things started to emerge gradually, similar to the way that green stuff grows on unidentifiable, aluminum-wrapped food leftovers in your refrigerator. One day it's spaghetti, and the next day, you have penicillin. Or you lapping against the shore.

Still, when I said I do, I meant it. Through good times and bad, through sickness and fishing season. But I'm not going to take this lying down. No, not me. I didn't get married to play second fiddle to a creature that's more cold-blooded than I am. I'm going to fight fin with fin. So, I thought long and hard about this problem, and then I asked myself—what is it he likes? The answer was easy—fish. So, after trying several different methods, I've put together a small collection of my favorite tips for getting your fisherman's attention (I know that somewhere there must be other wives in my situation):

1. Wiggle and act hungry whenever you see a gummy worm.
2. Have your lip pierced (preferably something with a spinner on it).
3. Hide in the bushes with your eyes fixed in a blank stare and your lips pursed in the shape of an "O."
4. Stop using that lotion to make your skin soft. It's obvious he likes scales.

Take that credit card to the nearest store that sells fishing equipment, and buy the best rod and reel you can find. Ask the salesman to help you choose the right lures, fishing line, etc. Then, the next time he says, "Gee, honey, what a beautiful day for fishing," agree with him. Tell him you to go, he'll say yes, because he is dying to try out that new rod and reel. Sure, it's a little devious, but you're up against a formidable opponent here, fish!

There is one drawback to this plan that I forgot to mention. You may actually have to touch worms. Wiggly, slimy dirty worms. I heard a rumor that they scream when you stick that nasty hook in them (I can't vouch for this fact, since I have yet to touch one.) Or you may have to remove the hook from a poor, helpless, cold, slimy fish if you actually catch one. I've heard a rumor that they scream, too, but again, I'm not a reliable source. Needless to say, this

What To Do With The Kids At Disney World

PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Disney World is the number one place to take the kids, but maybe mom and dad would like a day (or at least a couple hours) on their own. Disney's got that covered.

Kids up to the age of 12 can take part in a unique "learning while playing" developmental program at Disney's "KinderCare" while their parents do their own thing. It's open 6 a.m.-8 p.m. daily and includes lunch and two snacks. Space is limited so call for reservations (407-827-5437) well ahead of time.

Kinder Care also offers in-room baby-sitting to all Disney Resort guests. Call them at (407) 827-5444 with a 24 hr. notice.

Disney's got programs for the older kids.

The 10 to 15 years olds can take part in an unforgettable hands-on behind-the-scenes Disney experience at the "Wonders of Walt Disney World" school. The six hour classes include guide instruction and access to the Theme Parks and back-stage areas. Lunch is included. Reservations can be made by calling (407) 354-1855.

"Kidventure" offers the 8-14 years olds an introduction to ecology, plant adaptation and animal behavior at Disney's nature preserve, Discovery Island. It's offered 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Wednesday and Sunday during the summer and Wednesday only the rest of the year. Call (407) 824-3784 for reservations.

While the adults are off playing at night at Pleasure Island, the kids (4-12) can enjoy their own dinner show at "The Neverland Club" from 5 p.m. to midnight. The theme is, of course, Peter Pan, and includes a buffet of kids food along with the live show.

Other night-time kids activities include the Mousketeer Clubhouse, where, for $4.00 per hour (max 4 hours), the 4-12 year olds can play all kinds of games (video as well as the old fashion kind). It's offered at the Contemporary Resort (824-1000) and the Grand Floridian (824-2985).

Disney's Yacht and Beach Club has a similar program called the "Sandcastle Club". They can be reached at (407) 934-8000 ext. 6290.

Sure these programs sound great for kids, but Disney has not forgotten the adults.

"Disney's Learning Adventures" offers adults programs giving insight into the horticultural themes and cultures of Epcot. Call (407) 824-4321 for information and reservations.

Andres Steak House & Banquets has it all

Andres Steak House and Banquets combines fine dining in a casual atmosphere and is celebrating 31 years in business. And, it has a little something for everyone.

If off-track wagering is your game, Andres has it seven days a week. Enjoy lunch, dinner, or cocktails while cheering on your favorite horse or jockey. With racing daily starting at 1 p.m., you just can't lose. Afternoons feature thoroughbred racing; harness racing will make for an exciting evening.

The food at Andres is delicious. Andres is noted for its steaks and chops, daily pasta, and fresh seafood selections nightly. Among the specials are prime rib on Monday, all-you-can-eat chicken and ribs on Wednesday, home-style cook night on Thursday, and crab and lobster fest combo on Friday.

Every meal is sure to fill an appetite, with a relish tray, cheddar cheese ball, crackers and rolls, butter, a choice of three salads: spinach, tossed or Caesar or juice, and either a baked potato, hash browns or French fries served with the entree.

Afterwards, choose from among the many delicious desert selections, including a hot apple dumpling served with a spicy cinnamon sauce and ice cream that has been an Andres favorite for many years.

If theater is your fancy, Andres has it too. Andres live weekend performances include "The Good Doctor" starting November 4th. "Hello Dolly" begins May 31st. Call one week in advance for reservations, please. Great trips to Marriott Lincolnshire, Motorcoach ticket, and lunch all for $31.

The restaurant serves lunch Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and dinner immediately following until 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and until 11 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Sundays offer a special treat.

Bring your bunch to brunch at Andres. Sunday brings an all-you-can-eat champagne brunch from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Diners can choose from among 40 different entrees all for $9.95 which also includes a fresh fruit bar and a dessert table. Dinner service follows until 9 p.m.

Andres cocktail lounge is open seven days a week from 11:00 a.m. to close and offers a short appetizer and sandwich menu.

Planning a party or a wedding? Andres has something special for you. Hold your party or wedding reception in one of Andres two banquet halls with seating for 25 to 750 people. Packages are available. A brand new Days Inn is located right next door for out-of-town guests.

Visit Andres, one-half mile north of Route 173 on Route 12 in Richmond. Call 815-678-2671 for reservations or more information.

Hogan's at Antioch Golf Club is ready for a busy spring

Hogan's Restaurant at the Antioch Golf Course is now under the management of Don Helmig, of Catering Enterprises, who has successfully been in the restaurant business since 1959.

Don notes that the Friday Fish Fry, Saturday Prime Rib Buffet and Sunday Brunch are sure to become popular with patrons, along with dishes such as BBQ Ribs, prime rib, and all-you-can-eat buffets, featuring specials that change weekly. At Antioch Golf Club, seniors get a 10-percent discount on their food bill during restaurant hours on Friday and Saturday and also during Sunday Brunch.

Planning a wedding, conference, meeting, luncheon, shower, golf outing, or other special event? Come out and check out the newly remodeled banquet facilities. Antioch Golf Club has banquet facilities with a party package just for you.

Antioch Golf Club has three beautiful rooms to choose from, starting at $19.95 per person, which includes dinner and cocktails. But the choices don't end there. Antioch Golf Club offers a delightful dining experience with a variety of fine menu selections to suit anyone's taste.

Packages are available for parties from 10 to 300 people. Antioch Golf Club has a full catering service and can accommodate outdoor ceremonies. Now is the time to start making your reservations. For more information regarding the banquet facilities, call 395-4800.

On Saturdays, our All-You-Care-To-Eat Prime Rib Buffet is sure to become a success. Every Saturday, Prime Rib is on the buffet along with entree specials such as Italian, Greek, Southwest, and Cajun. Served from 4 to 10 p.m. at the very low price of $11.95.

On Sundays, the Champagne Brunch is out-of-this-world. Served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., this veritable feast is only $8.95 for adults and $4.95 for children under 10.

Antioch Golf Club is also offering a Great Dining and Golf Special. For only $24.95, you receive our Hogan Preferred Customer Card which entitles you to five green fees, five cart rentals, five dinner entrees, and five Sunday Brunches when one of equal value is purchased.

Hello, Dolly, goodbye boredom

No one who goes in a bad mood to see "Hello, Dolly!" Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre's latest musical production is going to leave the show feeling that way. It's just too much fun.

Though Alene Robertson's reprisal of lead Dolly Levi is much played up in press materials, that is only one of many outstanding features of this musical, directed by Dominic Missimi.

Set in New York in the 1890s, "...Dolly" is the story of a shrewd matchmaker out to capture the most-eligible client for herself. The musical is based on the English farce "A Day Well Spent," which was originally adapted by Thornton Wilder as a non-musical for the American stage.

Robertson's acting and musical efforts were flawless - what else would you expect from a five-time Joseph Jefferson award-winner? One of the funniest performances, however, was turned in by Rachel Rockwell, in the part of ditzy, oft-hysterical Ermengarde, niece of Dolly's own target, grumpy feed-store owner Horace Vandergelder (Joel Hatch). In addition, Susan Moniz as Irene Molloy turned in superbly sweet singing, showcased best in the tune "Ribbons Down My Back."

The men weren't slouches, either. Todd Peterson uses almost Jim Carrey-like facial features in his wonderfully comedic interpretation of store clerk Cornelius Hackl, with a perfect foil in Marriott newcomer Jeff Dumas as sidekick Barnaby Tucker. Veteran "I-can-play-any-part-well" actor Don Forston is completely believable in restaurateurs Rudolph.

Only Joel Hatch as Vandergelder failed to convince this reviewer that he was completely into his part. His singing was not particularly great, and his character never seemed well-defined.

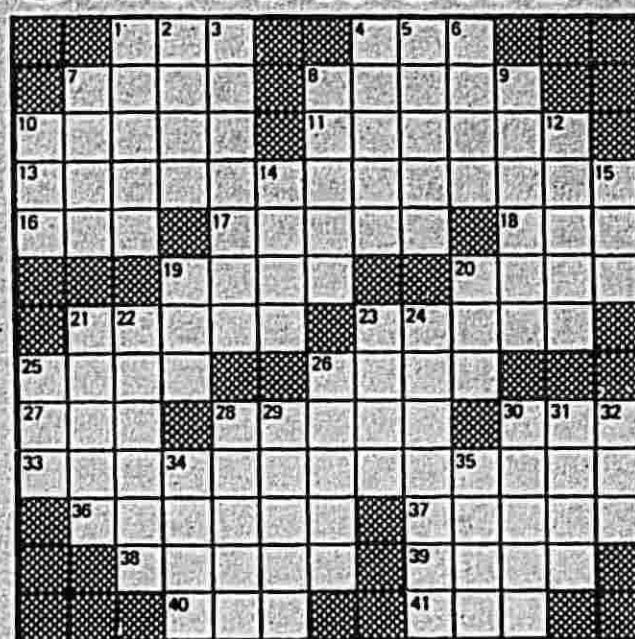

That minor issue was easy to overlook among all the great acting, music, singing, dancing, and staging. Marriott's hydraulic stage effects took a rest for this show - but you won't miss them. Scene changes in most shows are carried out in semi-darkness to sustain the suspension of disbelief. In "Hello, Dolly!" they are instead worked into the show with surgical precision and at machine-gun speed. The tactic was creative enough to work very well.

And speaking of precision - the show-stealing number had to be the "Waiter's Gallop" in the second act. Plates, tables, chairs, glasses, and trays fly everywhere; in about 10 seconds, presto! You're in the Harmonia Gardens Restaurant. Choreographer Karen Azenberg has a lot to be proud of in this show, which gets 4.5 out of 5 stars. The show runs through June 11. —by JEFFREY P. BROWN

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Unexpected career developments could cause a revision of a plan. Try to accept this gracefully. You feel that a partner is out of tune with your feelings. A good heart-to-heart chat will bring you closer.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Plans involving travel are subject to change. Distractions and a wandering mind could slow you down a bit at work this week. A talk with higher-ups is productive and leads to a variety of new responsibilities.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You could change your mind about an investment you've been contemplating. In romance, you're on shaky ground and uncertain of your feelings. It probably is time for a sincere talk. Creativity is a plus.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Those involved in an academic situation could have second thoughts about the pursuit of a certain course of study. Guests will probably be an inconvenience, but you'll be making important domestic plans this week.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) There could be changes in your work schedule early in the week and someone is slow in answering your correspondence. However, it's still a good week for reaching agreements with others. Talks with loved ones are productive.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This week isn't a good one for financial risk-taking or gambling. Shoppers need to be wary of defective items. Work goes smoothly and offers new changes for advancement and financial gain. However, pay attention to detail.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You could be uncertain on how to best handle a sticky domestic situation. You find yourself in the middle, being pulled in two directions. At work, you need to guard against a tendency to daydream and slack off.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You could have mixed feelings about socializing this week and are uncertain about which invitations to accept. Undercurrents are affecting your relationship with a close tie. Don't allow others to interfere.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're tempted to make an expensive, impulsive purchase of something for your home early in the week. However, it's best to try to avoid this. You'll be sorry when the bill comes due. It's not a good week for entertaining.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) It's best not to present new ideas to others until you have your thoughts better organized this week. However, once you've developed your plans, feel free to consult with those who can be of the most help to you now.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could be wrestling with an ethical problem within yourself early in the week. However, your high sense of moral values comes to your rescue and you make the right decision. Later in the week, you revise travel plans.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A friend is somewhat confused and that's why he or she seems unpredictable at present. If possible, try to talk to this person to find out what's really going on. Don't involve yourself in risky financial schemes.

Ameritech gets long distance

LAKE COUNTY—A decision by the Illinois Commerce Commission (ICC) brings Ameritech a step closer to being able to offer both local and long-distance services to customers in the Chicago metropolitan area, and potentially other portions of Illinois. The ICC cleared Ameritech to proceed with using the company's Customers' First plan as a blueprint for opening the local communications market to competitors. U.S. Atty. Gen. Janet Reno said that the U.S. Dept. of Justice will recommend that a U.S. Dist. Court allow Ameritech to offer long-distance service in the Chicago Metropolitan area and in portions of Michigan as part of a trial of a fully competitive marketplace plan. Ameritech has been barred from offering long-distance service since the 1984 Bell system break up.

Antioch duo brings fitness back to Fox Lake

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

Editor In Chief

An Antioch-duo is putting Fox Lake back on the mats with the birth of The Fitness Works, Inc., a full-service health club facility designed to meet the needs of the entire family.

Fitness Works, Inc. is located at 600 S. Rte. 59 in Ingleside. The facility has been completely remodeled to exclusively offer Reflex equipment, the standard found in most university athletic centers.

"This is a completely new facility," said co-owner Dan Jones. "We want to teach people how to work-out to meet their individual fitness goals." Bob Altman is the also a co-owner.

The Fitness Works will offer personal training, nutrition counseling, aerobics, racquetball courts, baby-sitting, tanning beds and more.

With a resume in fitness that includes: Mr. 'Natural' USA (meaning the use of steroids is prohibited), Mr. Illinois and Mr. Chicago, Jones will serve clientele as a personal trainer.

"I don't want people to just come in here and go nuts on the equipment, I want them to learn how to use it properly," said Jones. "The customer comes first."

Among the equipment available are free weights, circuit training, treadmills and steppers. Jones says the equipment is user friendly and provides the best in cardio vascular work-outs.

"This has always been a dream of ours," said Jones. "I was tired of having to travel so far for a decent health club."

Following their grand opening bash set for April 22 and 23, Altman says members will be surveyed to find out what they desire in a health club.

"We want to find out what people are most interested in and offer those services," said See FITNESS page C2

Chamber says new area code a costly decision

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

According to the president of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce, Bellcore's decision to heap yet another area code on Lake County could cost the 700 Chamber members up to $20 million dollars. Bellcore is a New Jersey consulting firm which acts as an intergovernmental agency determining area codes between the United States, Mexico and Canada.

Charles Isely III took a Chamber survey just five years ago after the suburbs split with Chicago by acquiring the 708 area code. In lost business, productivity, paperwork changes and other miscellaneous costs, the members then estimated the area code change cost them roughly $12 million. With inflation, the growth of the county and the dramatic increase in the number of phone lines Isely's new estimate is accurate for direct costs of the area code change.

"In taking advantage of technology, you will be able to get your own permanent phone number forever," he said, suggesting an option that would reduce all phone number changes and the costs associated with them.

Isely was referring to old analog switching technology, which required all people in the same geographic region to have the same area code. With new digital technology, this restriction is no longer a requirement, since a change in one's phone number is accommodated by a few programming keystrokes.

To use the new digital technology, Isely was proposing an overlay system where every new phone number in Lake County would get the new 847 area code, with the existing accounts retaining the 708 area code. With the overlay there would be no switching costs incurred by the business community, or confusion by private citizens.

The Illinois Commerce Commission granted the three way split, which also changes the far western suburbs' area code to 630 by 1998. One of the arguments considered by the northwest municipal league, comprised of 140 municipalities, was the convenience of having area codes follow a geographic map. Another issue for convenience was the argument that people would not like the overlay method because it would require people to dial 11 digits to call their neighbors. Isely contends there will still be plenty of 11-digit dialing with the three-way split so that argument does not hold water.

And now for the bad news. Due to the proliferation of pagers, cellular phones and computer data lines, Ameritech has already stated there will probably be a need for another split in nine years. Isely says this gives his suggestion even more ammunition.

"The dollar cost impacts everyone who has a telephone," he said.

The area code switch will take effect in the next several months on new mobile communication numbers, then on existing accounts by the first of next year.

Capital gains legislation will spur economic growth

Proposals now before the U.S. Congress to lower the capital gains tax rate will encourage real estate investment and boost the nation's overall economic growth, according to the Lake County Assn. of Realtors.

More favorable treatment of capital gains is part of the Republican Party's "Contract With America." The tax measures included in the plan will soon be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee. "Tax laws that trigger residential and commercial investment benefit the entire economy," said Thomas R. Cavalier, president of the Lake County Assn. of Realtors. "Everything that touches real estate is tied to other industries."

Specifically, the capital gains provision would create a 50-percent exclusion for capital gains. A capital gain is an increase in the value of an asset between the time it is bought and the time it is sold. For example, if a property were purchased for $100,000 and sold for $150,000, the capital gain would total $50,000. Under the proposal, half that amount, $25,000 would be excluded from taxation. The remaining $25,000 would be taxed at the owner's ordinary income tax rate.

Anecdotal evidence suggests that many long-time property owners are continuing to hold their properties, rather than sell them and pay taxes on the gain, explains Cavalier. "Lowering the capital gains tax rate would provide a key incentive to invest in long-term assets, such as real estate," he said. "It could keep healthy markets thriving and help revive weaker areas."

Additionally, the tax legislation before Congress responds to the problems caused by inflation, Cavalier notes. It includes a provision to index the basis of capital assets to eliminate taxation of inflationary gains. Through indexation, the taxable gain would be less than under current law, because the amount of any gain would be adjusted downward to reflect the inflation rate. Capital gains would become a true investment incentive, because the gain would be indexed to neutralize inflation, and only half of the adjusted gain would be taxed.

Another key real estate proposal before Congress would assist first-time buyers in the purchase of a home. This provision would offer incentives for individuals to save for a down payment on a home. Coming up with down payment funds is an overwhelming obstacle for many entry-level home buyers," Cavalier said. "A national plan to encourage saving for a home is a step toward building economic and social stability in our communities."

The Lake County Assn. of Realtors is one of more than 1,800 local boards and associations of Realtors nationwide that comprise the National Assn. of Realtors. As the nation's largest trade association, NAR is "The Voice for Real Estate," representing nearly 750,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Porterfield named regional director, Century 21 North Central/Metropolitan Tony Porterfield has been named regional director of Century 21 North Central, Inc./Metropolitan Region, as announced by Lowell I. Stahl, president and general manager of Century 21 North Central, Inc. Porterfield replaces Roger Peake, who has retired from the Century 21® system following 20 years of service, 10 of which were spent as regional director.

"We are so honored to have Tony as a member of our Century 21 team," said Stahl. "Not only does Tony have exceptional, in-depth knowledge of the real estate industry, but of the entire Chicago market."

In his new position, Porterfield will oversee the Century 21 franchises throughout Chicagoland, including Cook, Lake, Will, DuPage, Kane and McHenry counties. The Metropolitan Regional Office, located in Des Plaines, provides hands-on field support services for more than 200 franchises, including start-up, training, business and sales performance consulting and service programs.

Porterfield, a licensed realtor since 1975, began his career in real estate with Realty World Midwest, where he was franchise sales director until 1982. He then joined Coldwell Banker, holding several positions within the company, including that of regional director.

A Chicagoan for most of the last 35 years, he and his wife, Christina, have two children and reside in Hinsdale.

Century 21 Metropolitan Region, a part of the North Central Division of Century 21

Real Estate Corp., is a wholly owned subsidiary of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Altman. "Our motto will be to put the customer first, we have many ideas and want customer input to make them successful."

Among initial plans are programs for seniors and youth to get them into regular fitness habits.

"There is a large conference room for group meetings and offices to provide individual counseling for fitness and weight training," said Altman.

The partners want to set the record straight about the previous facility on site. "We have no association with the previous owner," Altman said. "We are a new facility from the floor to the ceilings." Equipment used by the previous owner was donated by Fitness Works to the Fox Lake Police and Fire Departments and Round Lake High School.

The facility has been completely remodeled including new locker rooms, rubber flooring and a bright new color scheme.

"We are committed to providing a clean and comfortable environment to make your fitness experience enjoyable," Altman said.

Bartering—the secret of the trade —MURPHY ON REAL ESTATE—

The trade...it's really gotten sophisticated. An ingenious twist to an old concept has taken the place of credit, checks and even cash. The buzz word is now "barter" and, for members of the Illinois Trade Assn., barter is business as usual, in a most unusual way.

With over 3,000 active members nationwide, the Illinois Trade Assn. is one of the country's largest barter exchanges. Serving as a professional "go-between," the association has turned what may seem complicated into incredible organization. Buyers and sellers are brought together through a state-of-the-art computer system and the efforts of a creative and dedicated staff. Over 35 brokers, media managers and support personnel work full time for the association. As this successful barter exchange nears its 12 year anniversary, its popularity speaks for itself. Trade values have increased steadily for each year to a record-breaking $30 million worth of trades in 1994.

A barter deposit is as good as money in the bank. Only there is no money and there is no bank. A member sells goods or services to accumulate credit. This credit can then be used to purchase goods or services from any other exchange member. There are advantages to bartering that cannot be duplicated anywhere else in the business world. This buy and sell "formula" takes advantage of a business' excess time, resources and expertise without tapping into its actual cash flow.

Down time for a printer can be traded for building repairs. Empty restaurant seats can be exchanged for radio or print advertising. A painter may sell his services for legal advice. Dennis Lerner, owner of E-Z Car Credit in Grayslake, has bartered his used cars for car washes, clothing, and even a juke box. Ned Miller of Business Video Solutions in Libertyville barter his video production service for things like accounting and attorney services, office rent, his company logo, and even drinking water, messenger service and car repairs. Dr. James Doherty, the owner of Accu-Vision Center in Lindenhurst, trades his optical services for everything from his accountant and attorney to restaurant meals with his employees. Honey Leavitt of Lake Zurich's Rich's Home Improvements gets her manicures and pedicures with barter dollars.

The Illinois Trade Assn. has taken the art of "the deal" to a new level. With increasing popularity, bartering serves as the most economical way for many companies to do business and stay in business. Quite simply, they've proved that there's more than one way to get things done. The ITA can be reached at 390-6000.

How to face foreclosure

It is a natural behavior to avoid what we aren't comfortable with or understand. In the case of foreclosure proceedings, many people seem to ignore a situation that could be rectified with a little insight and homework. By not addressing the inevitable, the foreclosure proceedings compound both monetary obligations and aggravation and can in many cases be avoided.

When it becomes apparent that you can no longer meet the monthly mortgage requirements, this is a time to take action and decrease the problems that accompany the foreclosure process. Here a few steps to consider when determining the best plan of action for your personal situation:

Step 1: Meet with the lender and discuss the circumstances with the bank officer to learn your rights and opportunities with the bank officer to learn your rights and opportunities per your mortgage and note. It best to employ an attorney that specializes in foreclosure to get the best legal advice to try and minimize impact on your credit and finances.

Step 2: You will need to determine the market value of your home currently in the market place. There are two ways to do so. You may contact a real estate agent and get a current comparative market analysis. This will give you a general idea of how much equity you may have in the property.

By trying to market the property early enough in the foreclosure process, you are more likely to recover some of your initial investment or at least break even upon the sale of the property. By waiting too long, the interest and foreclosure costs will compound and it will be too difficult to recover anything the longer the foreclosure progresses, and loss of credit standing. The agent can help you determine approximately what your closing costs will be. Be sure to check with the lender to include all the costs to a certain point. Selling the home under the amount needed to meet the payoff will require you, as the seller, to bring money to the closing table.

Step 3: Keep the property maintained. A home that shows like it is cared for is more likely to sell than one that looks abandoned. In the case of divorces, approach both attorneys for a reasonable list of duties for both parties to ensure getting the best price possible for the property.

There are many times that a lender will work with the seller to help work through delinquent mortgage payments. There are always challenges in life, and many times they can be resolved with a little ingenuity, flexibility and foresight. If you have enjoyed good credit with your lender for a period of time, your chances of working out a new payment plan may be happily considered. In some cases, an interest-only portion can be paid for a limited period of time until the cash flow becomes more normal. In any case, the lender is there to lend money, and will be more conducive to working out an arrangement if they see a spirit of cooperation on the part of the borrower.

Time Warner sells Six Flags

Theme park and Gurnee officials are expecting little to change when Six Flags Great America opens for the 1995 season.

The six theme parks in the group have been sold to Boston Ventures by owner Time Warner at a reported price of $1 billion.

"It will be business as usual at Six Flags," Connie Costello, park spokeswoman, said.

"The parks were sold, we are told, to reduce Time Warner's debt," Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said.

The Village of Gurnee receives 40 cents amusement tax for each person who attends the park. It drew $2.9 million last year. "They had an excellent year last year," Welton said.

Previous owners have been Marriott, Inc. and Bally, Inc. Time Warner started its own television network, WB, earlier this year.

Griefnotes

How can I prevent difficulties from grief?

Many who confront grief for the first time are surprised at the intensity of their feelings. Grief is most often associated with the death of a loved one but it can also result from divorce, loss of bodily function, moving or from a child growing up and leaving home. Because grief is poorly understood, those who have not experienced it personally can be poor helpers. By learning about grief ahead of time we can more capably assist friends in their time of need and can more readily understand the intensity of feelings when death affects our families. Take time to read and inquire about grief and learn ways to assist those in need of support.

PUBLIC NOTICE RESOLUTION CREATING THE GRANT TOWNSHIP PLAN COMMISSION

WHEREAS, 60 ILCS 1/105-35 authorizes the Township Board of Trustees to create a Township Plan Commission in townships with a population in excess of 500 in counties with a population of less than 600,000; and

WHEREAS, Grant Township has a population of more than 500 and is located in Lake County, a county with a population of less than 600,000; and

WHEREAS, the Township Board of Trustees believes it is in the best interests of the residents of Grant Township to create a Township Plan Commission.

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby resolved by the Board of Trustees to Grant Township, Lake County, Illinois:

1. Establishment. The Grant Township Plan Commission is hereby created, such Commission to consist of five (5) members.

2. Members. Members of the Plan Commission shall be appointed by the Township Supervisor with the advice and consent of the Township Board of Trustees.

A. The terms of the initial members of the Plan Commission shall be as follows: two (2) members shall be appointed for a term of one (1) year; two (2) members shall be appointed for a term of two (2) years; one (1) member shall be appointed for a term of three (3) years.

B. The initial terms shall expire on the first Monday of May in the year in question. Appointments made thereafter to the Plan Commission shall be for a term of three (3) years. New terms shall start on the first Monday of May.

C. Vacancies in the Plan Commission shall also be filled by the Township Supervisor with the advice and consent of the Township Board of Trustees.

D. Members of the Plan Commission must at all times reside in the unincorporated area of Grant Township. Ceasing to reside in the unincorporated area shall be conclusively deemed to be a resignation by such member from the Plan Commission, creating a vacancy as of the date such member no longer resides in the unincorporated area.

3. Officers; Staff.
A. The Township Supervisor shall designate one (1) of the members of the Plan Commission as Chairman. The Chairman shall serve for a term of one (1) year, and his/her successor(s) shall likewise be designated solely by the Township Supervisor.

B. The Plan Commission may appoint such other officers as it deems necessary and appropriate.
C. The Plan Commission may employ such staff as it believes necessary, subject, however, to the express prior approval and budgetary authorization by the Township Board of Trustees.

4. Powers. The Plan Commission shall have such duties and powers as are now or as may hereafter be authorized by law, including but not necessarily limited to:

A. The Commission may prepare and recommend to the Township Board a comprehensive plan for the present and future development or redevelopment of the unincorporated areas of the Township.

B. The Commission may from time to time recommend changes in the official comprehensive plan.

C. The Commission may from time to time prepare and recommend to the Township authorities plans for specific improvements in pursuance of the official comprehensive plan.

D. The Commission may give aid to the officials charged with the direction of projects for improvements embraced within the official plan to further the making of these projects and, generally, may promote the realization of the official comprehensive plan.

E. The Commission may exercise other powers germane to the powers granted by this section that are conferred by the Township Board.

5. Compensation. Members shall serve without compensation but, subject to the express prior approval and budgeting authorization by the Township Board of Trustees, may be reimbursed for actual expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

6. Effective Date. This Resolution shall be effective upon adoption and publication in a newspaper of general circulation in Grant Township, Lake County, Illinois.

Adopted this 18th day of April, 1995.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

9: Dear...Search: I am recently employed with a company full time. While this has been great for the past five months and my 10- and 12-year-olds are at school all day, I am thinking of cutting down my hours for the summer so I can spend time with them. My problem is I don't know how to approach my boss about it. I work for a large corporation, and I love my job and the benefits that go with it, but I am afraid that if I ask for my hours to be cut down, that I will lose my job. I know that I am not the only parent that has asked you to help with this dilemma. Can you give me some ideas of how I can handle it? T.H. - Lindenhurst

A: Dear T.H. First you must put your priorities in order. How much you love your kids is apparent but not necessarily an issue...kids are resilient. How important is your job? Keep in mind that perhaps the company hired you for a full-time position because the position warranted a full time person, not a part-timer. Be prepared in the event that the company decides to replace you. You mentioned you love the company benefits...yet failed to mention whether or not you are the sole provider for your family. If the answer is yes, make that a big focal point. Having family medical benefits is so important and can be quite costly if you are not on a group program. This in itself is security for your family. Think about the loss of income. Can your budget handle the decrease in the event that you are able to cut down your hours. Consider being unemployed altogether should that happen. Can you handle a total loss of income? Further consider your approach to your boss. Think about the idea that if every parent in the company went to their bosses and requested reduced summer hours, would the company be able to function effectively? Probably not. While it is true that there are companies that have "summer hours", they are not of the caliber that you are considering. Some companies have half days of Fridays (June-August) in exchange for working an additional hour Monday through Thursday. Some have every other Friday off in exchange for the same. Some companies have a buddy system where you are able to job share with a co-worker for the time off. In your case I would first find out if your company has a summer hour program and what it is. It may not be what you're looking for, but it may provide you the quality time with the kids that you are looking for, yet allow for the security of a job you love. Think of the kids and how you may be able to enhance their summer with a local park district camp, sport camp, or extended school program offering all types of activities for a reasonable price. There is a lot to consider, I know, but be sure to weight all sides...Let me hear from you...Good luck!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

Placement of shade trees, ornamentals essential to landscape plan

The proper placement of shade trees and ornamentals on your property should be thought about before the planting process begins. You may want to ask yourself a few questions, such as what is the purpose of planting a tree in a particular site on your property? Will it serve a functional purpose? Will it be for aesthetics only? What is the mature size? Do certain trees grow better in wet or dry conditions? Should I test my soil before planting?

This may seem like a lot to think about. However, matching the proper tree or trees to your particular site is important and will enable the tree to grow at a healthy rate.

The mighty shade trees are magnificent in form throughout the winter, fun to view as the tiny leaves emerge in the spring and grow to maturity in the summer. It's soothing to hear the wind move through the treetops in a summer rain and delightful to see the fall colorings of some trees.

The ornamentals, such as the flowering crabs, burst open their buds to show us red, pink and white flowers in the spring. A specimen crab has a form unmatched in the summer, while the fall and winter show us berries for interest. These plants add to your gardens and bring years of enjoyment; however, they also can function well in a landscape. Some examples are: They help to anchor your home to the ground and give your home a feeling of belonging. They provide shade for your decks and patios, and as they mature, for your home itself.

Ornamentals, especially clump forms, can provide you with great privacy hedges from uninviting views. Trees can outline your property and make the middle of your property, if left open, to feel like a small park. Smaller, delicate ornamentals like the Serviceberry and Dwarf Magnolia seem to welcome friends and neighbors to your home, while adding fragrance.

As trees and ornamentals grow larger they provide an overhead plane that seems to soothe the senses and give one a feeling of being in the garden.

Knowing the mature size of the tree or ornamental selected is also important. Some general guidelines for ornamentals such as your flowering Crabs, Redbud, Serviceberry and Pears is a mature height of 20 to 30 feet with a 20 foot spread. Some varieties of the Pear will get a bit larger. Your shade trees start at 40 feet high and will grow larger with a 35 to 40 foot spread on some varieties.

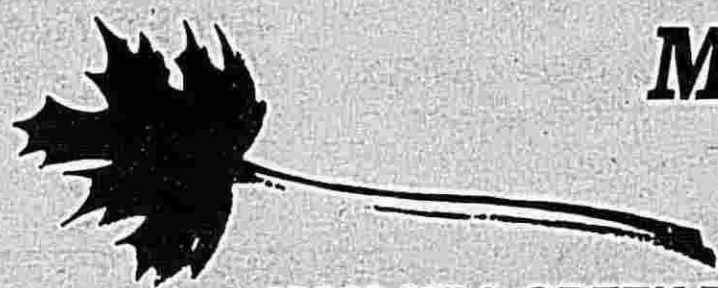

If you give your plants room, they will reward you by growing to their potential. If you would like to crowd your plantings and create a forested look or an instant privacy hedge, this will require plants to be closer to one another, and will work with proper planning and future maintenance considerations.

Some ornamentals and trees for wet situations are the "Whitespire" and "Riverside" Birch, Black Alder, Larch, Red Maple, Swamp White Oak, White Oak, American Linden, Shadblow Serviceberry; and of course the Willows.

Some selections for dry locations are the Amur Maple, Norway Maple, Hackberry, Green Ash varieties, Honeylocust, Littleleaf Linden and Poplar. There are other selections; however, at this time we hope your particular site is fertile, well drained and can offer you many more selections than mentioned.

Most trees like a soil pH of 5.5 to 7.0 and will perform well. Most soils in our area are at these levels and if shows as you look around and view the many varieties of trees and ornamentals flourishing in our landscapes.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect/owner, Mill Creek Nursery, Wadsworth

Several tips in getting gardens off to good start

Although you may be enthusiastic about getting your spring garden underway, take time to observe a few rules of thumb about starting and keeping a healthy garden:

- Don't plant such tender crops as tomatoes, peppers, petunias, impatiens and begonias until all danger of frost has ended. Planting too early is the major cause of loss of bedding plants.

- In buying such popular bedding plants as tomatoes, marigolds, salvias and petunias, choose a healthy, dark green color. Avoid plants with yellow, wilted or shriveled leaves.

- If you buy seedlings in peat pots, gently remove the bottom of the pot and release the roots. While roots will penetrate the peat, which will eventually decompose, a dry period could keep roots pot-bound and hinder good development. Be careful not to tear the plant roots.

- Short, compact, bushy plants with some side shoots already formed are better than tall, thin, scraggly items that have had to stretch to reach light or are spindly because of over crowded roots.

- Some animal and insect problems can be averted with pesticides and other similar products. Be sure to carefully follow label directions. Getting your garden off to a good start is important. Take the time to do it right!

Brooks gains first win, CLC splits conference tests

Even then most loyal College of Lake County baseball follower would probably be hard-pressed to give details about pitcher Rob Brooks.

Before Sunday, only the Lancers insiders knew of Brooks, who gained the start in a non-conference doubleheader with Truman. He also gained the win, as he struckout 3 and gave up 5 hits in an 11-5 CLC victory. CLC dropped the second game 8-6 as a comeback fell short.

"Brooks looked very good. He has nothing overpowering; he moves the ball around he did a nice job. He changes speeds well," CLC Coach Gene Hanson said.

Brooks, who graduated high school in Hancock, Mich., is a sophomore academically but in his first baseball season. He did not play high school ball. He played last summer, and that warranted another look by the CLC mentor.

Truman scored 4 runs in the fourth to tie it at 4-4, but CLC answered with a 6-run fifth inning while Brooks held the Falcons to one run the remainder.

Matt Pulaski led the offense with 3 singles and 2 RBIs. Eric Blaha had a pair of hits as did Curt Salata and Casey O'Connell.

"Pulaski had been in a real slump. What he is doing now is he is hitting more ground balls, hitting on top of the ball. You have to hit on the top half of the ball; earlier on, he was hitting on the bottom half," Hanson said of the former Warren High standout.

Contributing singles were: Bob Olson who also scored a run, Bret Bowles, Tony Junkel and Scott Ellenwood.

CLC (21-12 overall) split with Elgin in non-conference play but swept McHenry in a key Skyway Conference twinbill.

CLC battles Oakton away in a league doubleheader April 22 and hosts Blackhawk April 23 in Grayslake.

Scott Cartier was the winning pitcher in a 9-2 victory over Elgin. He had 7 strikeouts and surrendered just 3 hits.

"That was critical, because that was conference," Hanson said.

Junkel powered the offense with a 3-run home run. Pulaski was 2-of-4 with an RBI and Blaha had 2 RBI singles.

Josh Williamson suffered his first loss of the year in four decisions in a 5-1 defeat. "He pitched well, but we had 5 errors and all but one contributed to runs," Hanson said.

Bowles improved to 4-2 overall with a 1-0 win in the first game against McHenry. Pulaski drew the key walk on a 3-2 pitch after an out at home plate. Steve Taylor and Rick Branamen singled, but pinch runner Tony Anselm was thrown out at home. Ellenwood then singled, Olson was intentionally walked and second batter Pulaski walked.

"Both pitchers did a great job," Hanson said.

Schupp, a Grayslake product, scattered 9 hits in the second game. "He only had one strikeout, but he really was in charge," Hanson said.

Blaha, of Antioch, had a 2-run double, Taylor a 2-run single and Bowles had 2 RBIs.

CLC spotted Truman a 5-run lead after one and could not fully recover the second game played on Easter.

Lake County Races take off April 30

Get your running shoes out and be part of the "Best Race of the Year"—the 1995 Lake County Races.

More than 5,000 people are anticipated to take part in the races.

The main events are scheduled for April 30. Nearly 1,000 volunteers are needed for the 15th annual event.

The 26.2-mile marathon is planned to run along Sheridan Road beginning on 25th Street in Zion and conclude at the Ravinia in Highland Park. The marathon will begin at 8:15 a.m.

In addition to the marathon, there will be a number of other running and walking events of various distances including the half marathon (13.1 miles), the 10K run (6.2 miles) and a 3.5-mile fun run and walk. The fun run and walk will begin at 8:45 a.m. at the Ravinia.

Costs are $31.20 for the marathon, $27 for the half marathon, $22 for the 10K, $17 for the fun run and walk, and $100 for the five-person team relay. Proceeds benefit the Glenkirk and Northeastern Illinois Special Olympics.

The Lake County Races Sports Expo will be held April 29 from 3 to 8 p.m. and April 30 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Sheraton North Shore Inn in Northbrook.

Pool shark seeks title in wheelchair tourney

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Irv Czosek has been somewhat of a pool shark since his high school days.

"The YMCA was on the way home from high school, so homework came a little later," recalled the 62-year-old Libertyville resident.

Czosek now has his eyes set on winning one of the top three medals in a national pool tournament. What makes Czosek's play unusual is that he sizes up his shots from table height, for Czosek has been playing pool from a wheelchair for the last three years. He was diagnosed with Muscular Dystrophy in 1980 and has since learned to play pool from a wheelchair.

Nowadays, he can be found at Slate Street Billiards in Vernon Hills practicing for the National Wheelchair Competition in Atlanta, Ga., from June 8 to June 15. Last year, Czosek took home a silver medal, beating out players from across the country, Canada and Puerto Rico.

Slate Street Billiards, an upscale entertainment center, has accommodated Czosek during his practice rounds and will be holding a fund-raiser to help offset some of Czosek's travel costs.

"We try to make this place as accessible to the handicap player as we could," said Manager Steve Sanders.

"He's a good customer. We're excited to see him compete," Sanders said as Czosek broke a rack of balls.

Likewise, Czosek appreciates their hospitality. "They've been good to me," said Czosek, who has become a weekly regular at Slate Streets.

He noted, however, that he may be practicing too much as indicated by the wear and tear on his wheelchair tires.

"By the time I go in June, I'll need new tires because these are wearing down," he quipped.

Although Czosek admits that "there's a lot of shots I can't reach," he has his eight-ball strategy down. For example, tournament rules set a 10-minute rule for games played, so Czosek does not fret over those balls that don't sink and lie on the edge of the cup.

"If you leave the balls on the corners, that can be good because at the end of 10 minutes, you get your last shot," he pointed out. Not to mention, it blocks the pocket from his opponent.

"I work on the long shots and the bank shots because sooner or later you have to make those," Czosek added as he connected on a two-rail shot.

His sons David, Gary and Paul try to accompany Czosek during practice as much as possible. His sons live in Libertyville, Mundelein and Vernon Hills and keep busy playing and coaching baseball.

In addition to playing pool, Czosek will also be competing in table tennis. In the future, he hopes to participate in archery and rifle shooting at the national competition.

"It's a lot of fun because you see the same guys every year, which is nice," Czosek said. "Some of these guys from around the country you can tell they play everyday."

If his pool table at home wasn't located in a downstairs recreation room, Czosek could play every day, too.

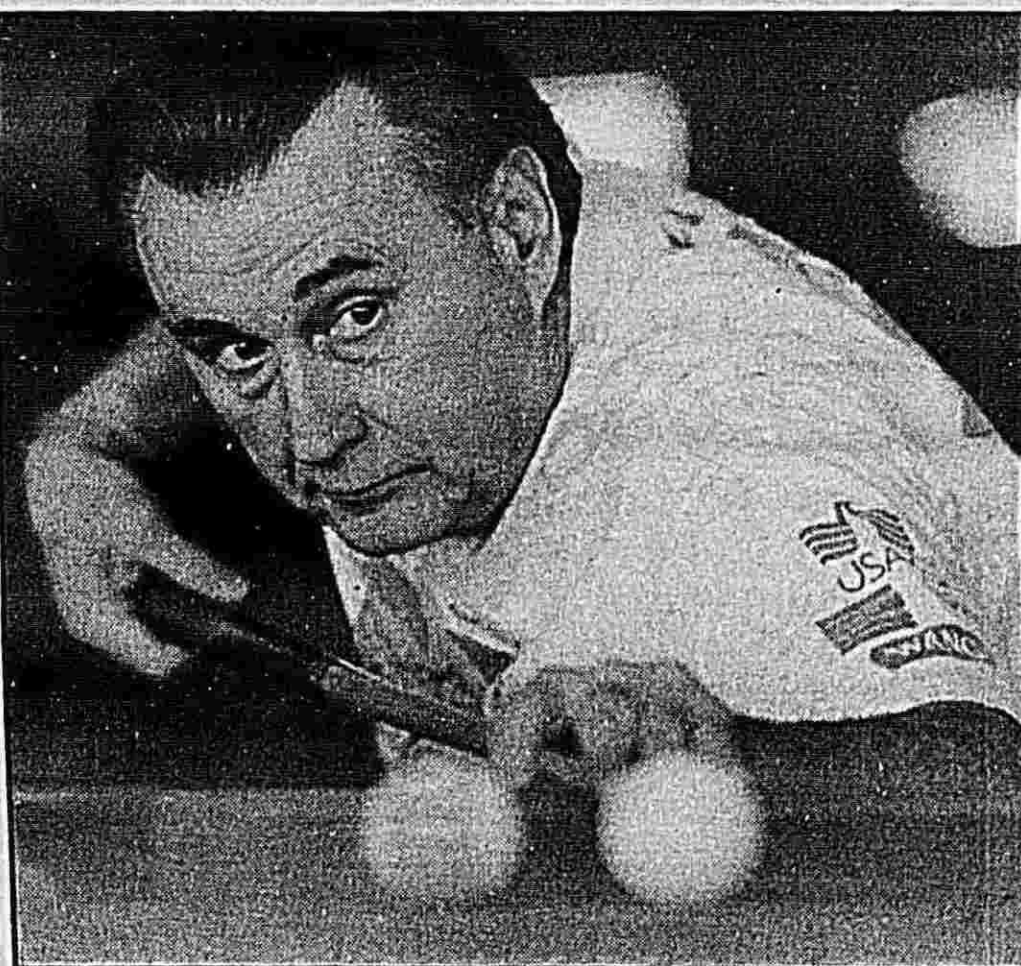

"I asked my wife if I could bring it up into the living room, but she doesn't buy that idea," he said with a smile.

Hence, Czosek's weekly trips to Slate Streets, where he intends to practice up until the tournament. He has high hopes, but at the same time, he is realistic.

"There will be at least 40 guys in my bracket. You just keep playing until you lose," Czosek said.

"Honestly, if I can finish in the top three, that'll be fine," he added as he knocked in the final ball on the table.

Carmel's challenges to state champs fall short

Two one-run losses to the defending state champs have Carmel High's baseball team feeling strong about future goals.

"They are the state champs and I feel we are right on their heels," Carmel Coach Chuck Gandolfi said.

After losing a hard-fought 5-4 game in game one, the Corsairs took the Hilltoppers to overtime before losing in eight innings, 4-3 Saturday.

Late-inning wildness and a bounce here or there proved costly for Carmel. The game-winning runs were scored by 5 walks in the final 3 innings, 4 in the eighth sending the Hilltoppers home happy and still unbeaten.

Carmel tied the game in the seventh inning after Joliet Catholic took a 2-1 lead in the sixth on back-to-back triples by the Capista cousins - Aaron and Tony.

Pat Glynn opened the seventh with a single and was pinch-run for by Eric Ames moved to second on a passed ball and to third as well. He scored on one of Carmel's tried and true methods - a wild pitch.

Scott Scripture walked and designated hitter Kevin Russell singled, but Carmel could not score either one.

Visitors for the second game, Carmel took the lead in the eighth. Mike Burens doubled for his only hit of the game, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on a wild pitch for a 3-2 lead.

The proverbial roof caved in what would turn out to be the final inning. Starting pitcher Glynn began the inning, but quickly ran into trouble. He walked ninth batter Brian Bouchard and he advanced on a sacrifice.

"He just ran out of gas," Gandolfi said of Glynn.

Gandolfi said the first two games of the East Suburban Catholic Conference season was a good time to catch the state-ranked Hilltoppers. CHS, at Marist April 22, slipped to 5-4 with the defeats.

Andy Mikrut, who had pitched at the end of the first game, was called upon with a 2 ball, no strike count on Aaron Capista. He drew the walk and after another walk to Joe O'Brien to tie the game at 3-3, Brad Salata surrendered the final walk, to Scott Siebert for the JC win.

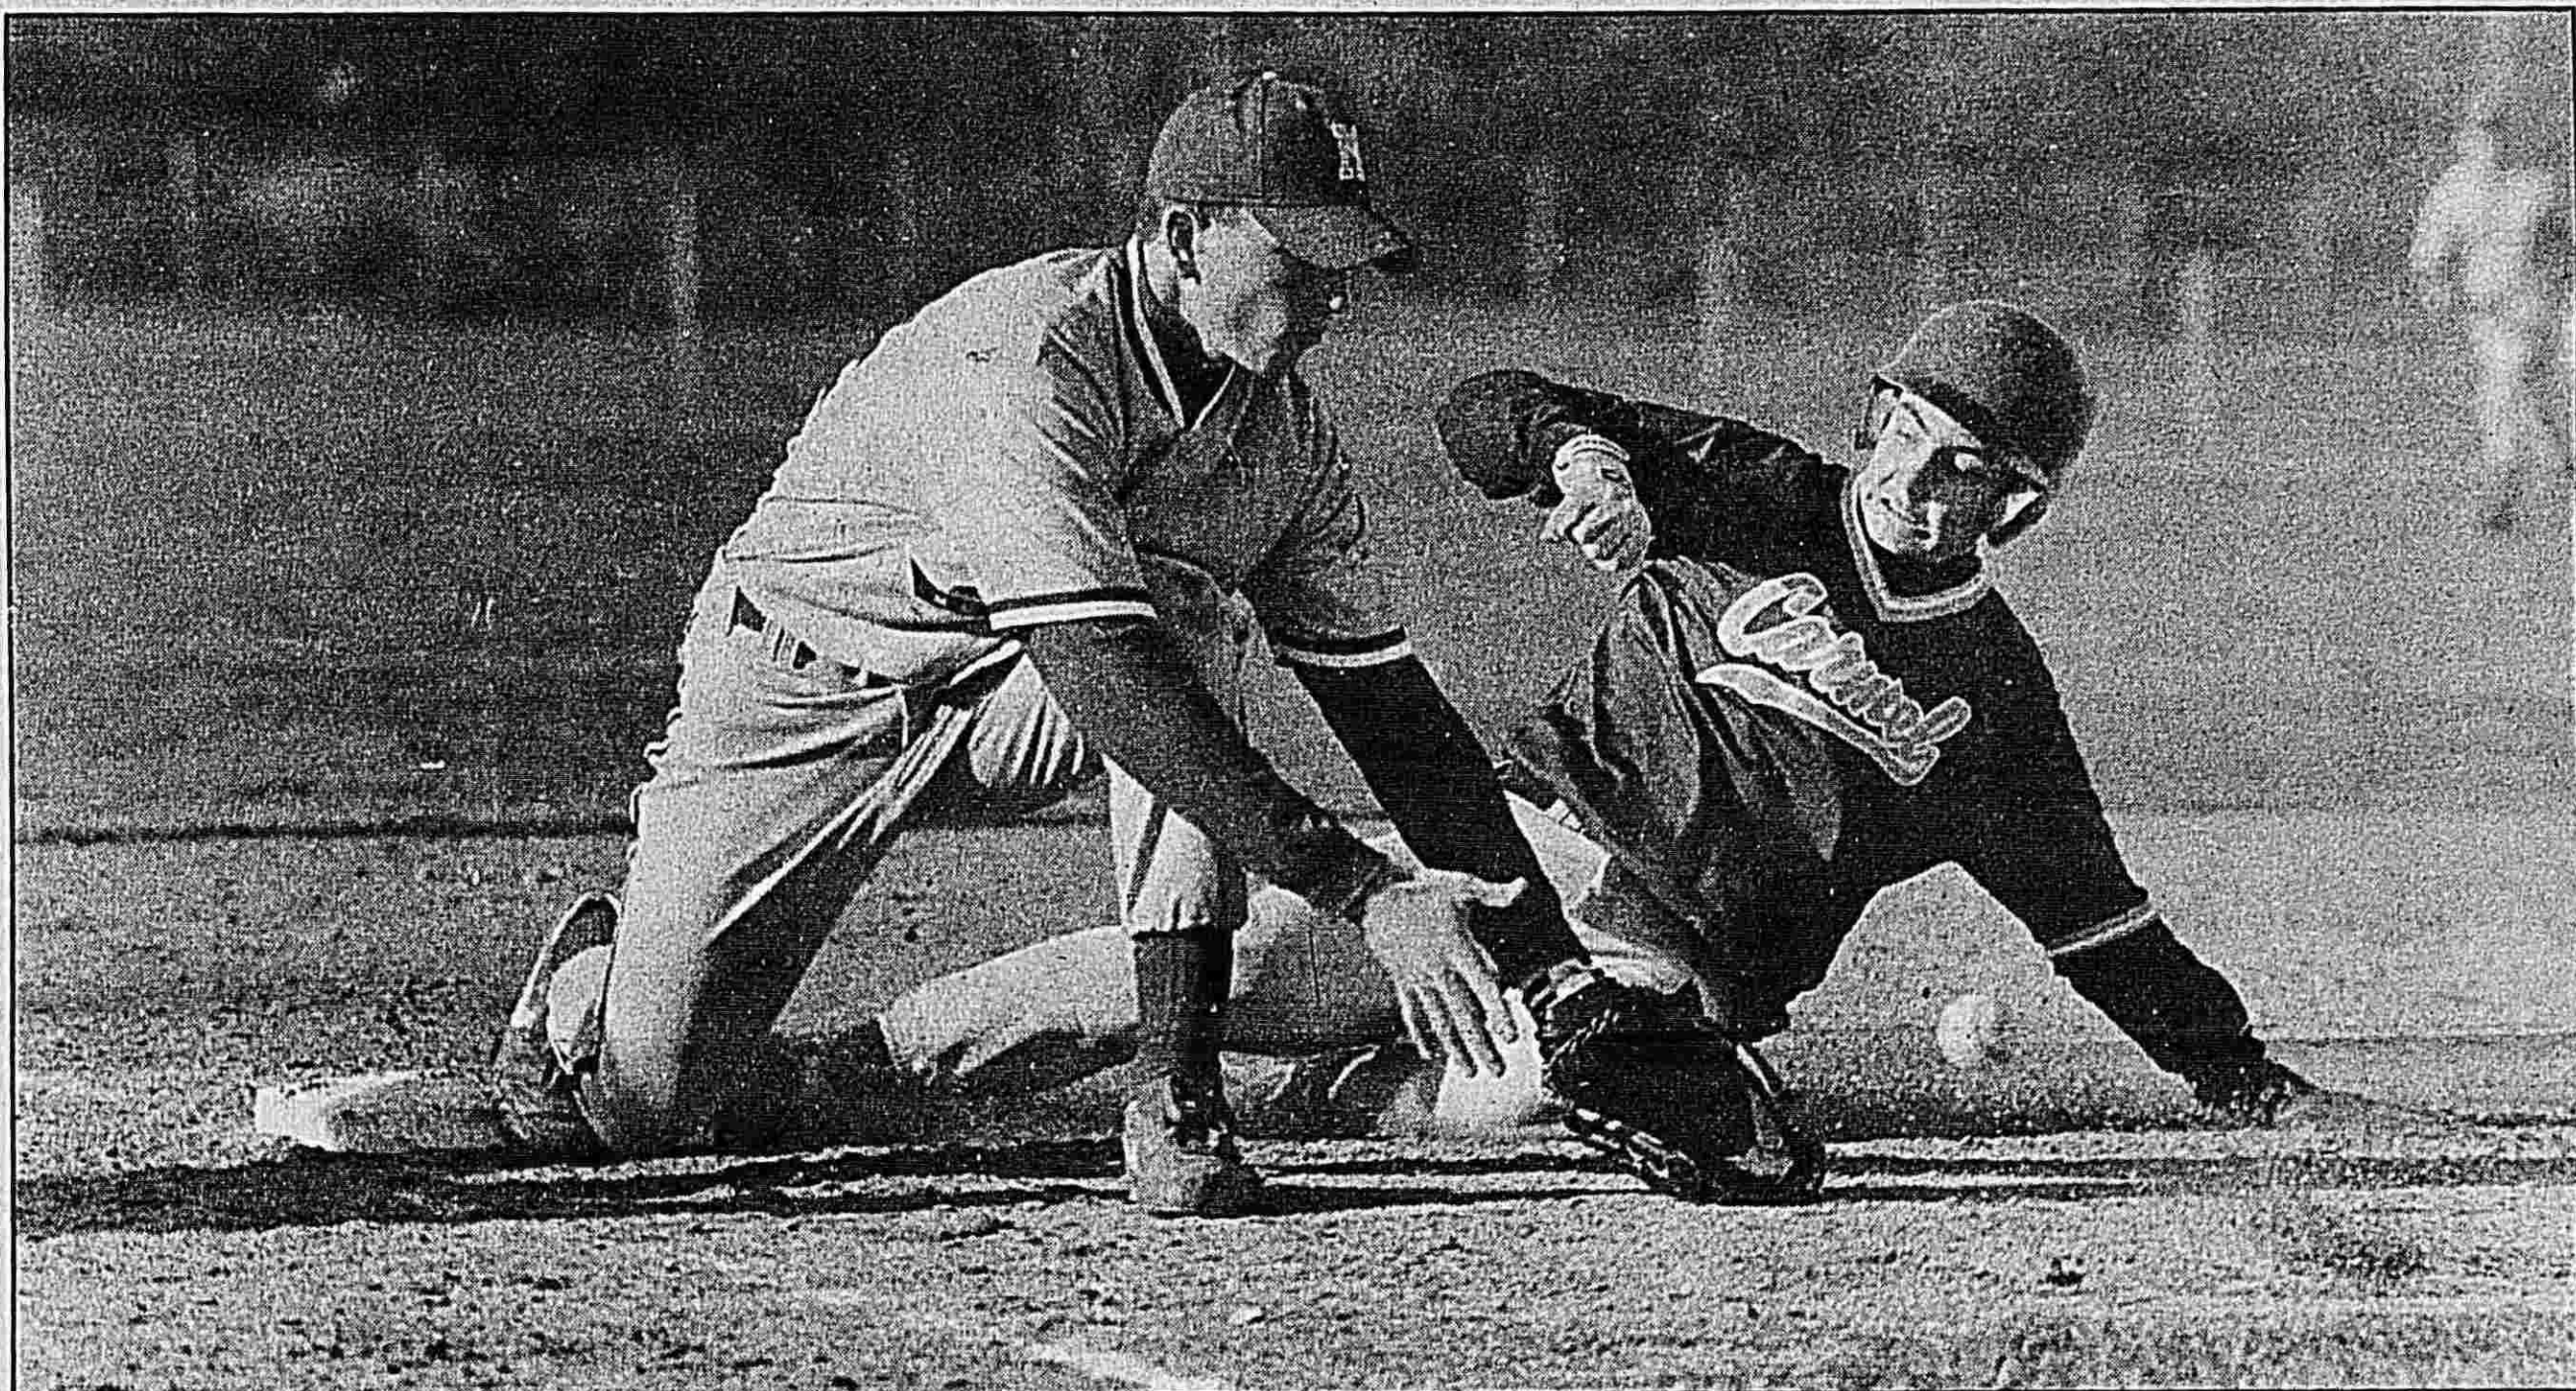

"It is tough for us to come up here and play a doubleheader. This is the first time in my five years we have swept. Carmel is a good team and should win in the conference," JC Coach Joe Rodgehero said. "Tony Capista has been a solid player for three years for us."

Carmel's highlights in game one included a 3-run homer by Ryan Dahm. But a last-inning rally fell short in the 5-4 loss. Dahm, Carmel's left-fielder, also had a double in the second game. "He is a line-drive type hitter who hits the ball hard," Gandolfi said of Dahm.

All but one of Joliet Catholic's runs were unearned in the opener.

Carmel's other first-game run scored when Steve Golebiowski reached on an error and scored on a ground out.

"I think we could have defeated them in both games. We have a good shot at winning conference," Carmel's Burens said.

Carmel's Steve Golebiowski slides safely into third base during a 9-4 victory over cross-town rival Mundelein. The Corsairs lost two close games (5-4 and 4-3) to last year's state champs Joliet Catholic. Carmel travels to Marist Saturday for a conference twinbill. —Photo by Todd Helsler CLC cut the lead to 5-3 in the second as Olson had a 2-RBI single.

Truman extended the lead to Kroakers sign top Butler prospect

The Kenosha Kroakers announced the signing of Jeremy Guler from Butler University.

Guler, a 19-year-old native of Frankfort, is currently a freshman and seeing spot pitching duty in the fourth spot and long relief for the Bulldogs.

The 6-2, 175 pound Guler who throws left has a lively fastball and an above average breaking pitch to go with his change-up. Guler was All-state as a senior and led the state of Illinois with an ERA of 1.03.

"Coach Farley is very high on Jeremy and thinks he will be a fine major league prospect," said general manager Todd Van Order. "As well as being an excellent young arm, Jeremy is a fine young man and will represent the city of Kenosha very well."

Jeff Randall singled and scored in the sixth inning and CLC had the winning run on base in the seventh.

Branaman walked, Olson doubled and a run scored on Pulaski's infield single. Olson scored on a sacrifice fly but a pop-up out ended the game.

"Our pitching is doing well and our defense is good at .950 fielding percentage, but what concerns me is our left on bases. We are averaging eight for a seven-inning game. We have got to take advantage of runners on base," Hanson said.

'Cats gymnasts take county crown

Paced by multiple championships from Mike Mirabelli, Libertyville won its second title in as many weeks as it captured the Lake County boys gymnastics meet crown.

The Wildcats finished with 150.25 points, ahead of Mundelein's 140.0. Highland Park topped Barrington 130.15 to 115.5 for third place.

"Winning the meet was nice because this was the first time there had been a county meet. Mike was excellent on the floor exercise and pommel horse and had a super day," Libertyville Coach Paul Blasko said.

Mirabelli, a senior, on the all-around with an 8.88. Scott Hagel and PJ Roche of Mundelein were second and third and LHS's Dave Barron and Mike Jones rounded out the top five.

Mirabelli won the pommel horse with a 9.5, the still rings with an 8.5, the high bar with a 9.3.

LHS freshman Mike Jones won the vault in 8.85.

Shane Betlinski contributed a second-place in the high bar in 8.5 and was fourth in the still rings.

Libertyville and Mundelein clashed again at a dual meet April 20. The two will be at separate regionals, as top-seed Mundelein hosts its own meet May 3 while Libertyville is No. 1 at Hersey. Both sectionals feed to Hersey on May 6.

"This time of year, you compete against yourself and make sure the routines are right and clean," Blasko said.

"The meet was a lot of fun," Mundelein Coach Doug Foerch said of the Lake County meet at LHS.

Kyle Marsh gained a second on the pommel horse for MHS with an 8.8. "That is exactly where he should be. He had a solid meet all the way around. He had an 8.05 average in the all-around," Foerch said.

Scott Stiffler led the strong MHS effort in the parallel bars, winning in 9.0. Scott Hagel was second at 8.9 and Roche was third at 8.7.

"Parallel bars continues to be a strong event for us," Foerch said.

Hagel earned a second place in the still rings with an 8.2 as well as the vault with an 8.8 and made the top five in the high bar.

CLC softball squad closes in on .500

College of Lake County women's softball team has hit its stride with four non-conference victories to bring the overall record close to .500 mark.

"Starting with the McHenry game, I changed the starting lineup with a new leadoff hitter and some other changes and everything else is following suit," CLC Coach Sue Garcia said.

The Lancers improved to 9-11 overall after sweeping Kishwaukee 5-3 and 11-3 and Milwaukee Tech 13-1, 13-0.

"Since we have been back from Arizona, we are 8-2," Garcia said.

Terri Petricig is the new leadoff hitter for the Lancers and since McHenry, she is hitting at a .389 clip.

Beth Smith and Tina Cocoran gained wins for CLC at Kishwaukee Saturday. Vicky Wyatt homered in the opener and had a double and triple in the second game.

"When she is up, she expects a hit. She keeps the ball in play," Garcia said of Wyatt.

Smith gained her fifth win of the year as she fanned 9 batters in a 13-1 win. "She changes speeds well and has a straight curve and works around the corners," Garcia said.

Erin Klein led the offense with a 4-of-6 day and Jen Pitcher had a 3-of-5 doubleheader.

CLC hosts Moraine Valley at 12 p.m. April 22 before competing in the tourney April 22.

Angelopolus tests top foes in CLC tennis

The top two favorites for the Skyway Conference men's tennis title were on the agenda for College of Lake County's team.

The Lancers learned why in two shutout 8-0 losses. CLC hopes home court advantage plus some foes more to its talent level will bring better results this week. The Lancers hosted Skyway foe Waubesa April 20 and Joliet April 21 at Warren Township Center in Gurnee.

"Elgin is the team to beat in the Skyway - they have the No. 1 player in the state, Scott Johnson. Oakton was 12th in the nation last year. There is no way we can beat Elgin as a team, but I was pleased with the individuals effort against Oakton," CLC Coach Lance Lavery said.

Johnson downed Tony Coletta of CLC 6-0, 6-2 at No. 1 singles. Jeremy Papa of ECC downed George Angelopolus of CLC 6-1, 6-1; Shane Christensen downed Mike Virre 6-1, 6-2; Matt Christen dominated Greg Jarr 6-1, 6-2 and Greg Friebe of ECC downed Tony Pacionne 6-0, 6-4.

The top two singles players fared better against Oakton. Angelopolus won the first set at second singles 7-5, lost 7-6 and 6-4.

"It was a three-hour long match. George is over 40 years old, but ran cross country the last two years and is in good shape. He keeps the ball in play and the kid was hobbling. He (the Oakton player) could not play in doubles," Lavery said.

"Coletta is really serious, consistent and gives 110 percent," Lavery said. Coletta, a Warren High grad, lost 7-5, 7-6.

Week of the Young Child

April 23-29, 1995

Celebration begins April 23 at Gurnee Mills

Lake County's celebration of the Week of the Young Child begins Sunday, April 23, with three hours of free family entertainment, beginning at 12:30 p.m. in the showcourt area of Gurnee Mills Mall.

This is an afternoon for active family participation. Together, parents and children are watching live performances and making hats, pictures and jewelry with the help of teachers from local preschools and day care centers. Mothers and fathers are bringing home information on children's issues from a large table covered with resource materials on parenting.

Parents can also register to vote, so they can use the power of the ballot to influence policymakers on behalf of children.

In keeping with the theme of this year's Week of the Young Child—

PEACEing the Puzzle together—children who bring toy weapons from home are turning them in for prizes distributed by Kathy Prendergast, a member of the Veteran's Administration security force.

Another special feature is an exhibit of 12 winning "Peace Posters" by Lake County school children ranging in age from preschoolers through third graders. Also on display is art from local preschool children and doll cutouts, each representing a Lake County child who needs quality early childhood care and education. State representatives have been receiving the doll cutouts to remind them that investing in children ensures a bright future.

The Child Care Coalition of Lake County, sponsor of the Gurnee Mills Mall event, has designated Sunday, April 23, as "TV Tune-Out Day." Families are encouraged to attend the celebration and to try other activities ranging from baking cookies to learning a new card game. Information on media and violence is among parenting resource materials.—By Carol Brusslan, teacher, Family Network.

What is the Child Care Coalition?

The Week of the Young Child and this special section of Lakeland Newspapers are sponsored by the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, a not-for-profit organization of agencies and individuals in partnership for advocacy and action to meet the needs of children and their families through quality programs and services.

The Coalition advocates through support of public policy that promotes quality in the care and education of children; educates by planning and implementing programs for families, businesses and the general public concerning what quality means and how to achieve it, and communicates through partnerships with Lake County news media, business, civic and public policy leaders and social service agencies.

If you live, work, or provide business or civic leadership in a Lake County community, you stand to benefit from the work of the Coalition. The coalition works to coordinate, rather than duplicate, the efforts of the many groups in Lake County working to enhance the quality of life for all our children and families.

For further information on the Child Care Coalition call (708)360-6885.—By Patricia Goodman, president of Child Care Coalition of Lake County.

The Week of the Young Child

The Week of the Young Child is an annual campaign that draws attention to our country's greatest national resource—our children. The Child Care Coalition of Lake county is taking part in the advocacy campaign sponsored by the National Association for the Education of Young Children and supported by its Chicago Metro group. The aim of these early childhood educators is to mobilize the community to positive action on behalf of the rights and needs of young children.

In conjunction with the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, we are proud to publish this very special section to help raise the consciousness of the adult community regarding quality child care and to participate in the celebration of the "Week of the Young Child."

Lakeland Newspapers is committed to providing comprehensive information on quality child care to parents, providers and businesses alike. We welcome your support and invite your comments.

Week of the Young Child

PEACEing THE PUZZLE TOGETHER
April 23-29, 1995

Parents urged to find alternatives to TV violence

As we celebrate the Week of the Young Child in Lake County, a thought provoking challenge is posed to all of us—parents, the community at large and educators working with those children.

Can we successfully "peace together" this puzzle, with the violence of children turning against one another and committing horrendous acts?

The news reported in 1994 was filled with acts of violence. In a peaceful town in Trondheim, Norway, three little boys ages 5 and 6 years brutally kicked and left a 5 year old girl to freeze to death in the snow. Was it a coincidence that these children were fans of cartoon shows such as "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles" and also viewed "Mighty Morphin Power Rangers"?

Preschool classroom teachers are reporting that 2 and 3 year olds in day care centers are acting out with karate chops and kicking actions. Elementary teachers observe children using more physical actions to solve problems than ever before.

According to the Nielsen TV ratings statistics, "the average 5 year old will spend 5,000 hours in front of the TV before entering Kindergarten, more time than he or she will spend in conversation with his or her parents for the rest of their lives, or longer than it will take to earn a college degree!"

What can the family, the community and the schools do?

Parents can begin to monitor what their children are watching. They may join the children and discuss what is happening. For the preschool child between the ages of 2 and 6, distinguishing between fantasy and reality is not yet a developed perception. Parents can set appropriate limits on how much and what their children watch. Psychologists suggest you watch some of the aggressive type shows with your children and talk about what is going on, and about how problem solving should be effectively used.

Parents are urged to take time to find alternatives to TV viewing. Suggest games and creative activities. Make some playdough (three cups of flour, two cups of table salt, one cup of water and some food coloring added).

Allow your child to assist at meal-times, do some cooking activities together. Go to the library or purchase some good books to be read at home. Have a nightly book reading time together. Go on family outings to the park, zoo, take walks, visit the Kohl Children's Museum. Write to the National Assn. for the Education of Young Children, 1509 W. 16th St. N.W., Washington, DC 20036-1426 and request a copy of "Media Violence and Children, A Guide for Parents." Send a self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for the pamphlet.

As a member of your community, realize that you have a voice to be heard. If you disapprove of children's TV programming, contact your legislators and urge them to seek intervention and regulation of violent programs. Communities may form groups to study the effects of violence and suggest solutions.

Write to your legislators, urge the Federal Communications Commission to regulate violence on children's television and in the movies.

Finally, the prohibition of toy weapons must be supported. Guns, swords and knives in the form of children's toys should be rejected by parents. Let your toy stores know you disapprove of such toys.

Working together as parents, communities and educators to give children a safe place in which to live and grow is imperative.—By Charlene R. Ackerman, M.Ed., Executive Director Kennedy Child Care Center, VA North Chicago

Week of the Young Child

PEACEing THE PUZZLE TOGETHER
April 23-29, 1995

Take action in teaching children about peace

Pretend play gives children a chance to care for each other.—Photo by Carol Brussian at Family Network.

1. Teach positive self-esteem.

Children must first learn who they are and how they fit into their family structure. They must feel loved and cared for. They must feel they can make a valuable contribution to their family and social world. They must feel capable and competent.

2. Teach resisting stereotypes, accepting differences and conflict resolution.

Children must learn that they live in a community of people who may look, think and act differently but who have equal rights to love, attention and being cared for. They must feel they can show love and give care to others. They must learn to listen to what others want and need. They must learn to settle differences so everyone can win.

3. Teach cooperative learning, environmental and human protection.

Children must learn that inappropriate behavior has consequences but everyone makes mistakes and can learn from them. They must be given opportunity to assume responsibility for making decisions. They must be given responsibility for caring for themselves, for others and for the world around them.

4. Teach two important rules:

Don't hurt anybody; use words to settle problems. Teaching peace is based on the rights and responsibilities of living together in society.

5. Teach "You are safe here—in this home, in this school, in this community."

Provide a peaceful setting to respond to fears children have today from hearing about frightening things that happen to other children, from children being killed on the streets to being left home alone. Reassure children that they are safe.—Adapted from Chicago Metro AEYC Planning Guide

DEAR MARILYN

Dear Marilyn:

My two young sons are always squabbling and teasing each other. Our family never seems to have any peace. What would you suggest I do?

Sibling rivalry is both normal and inevitable. Just as inevitable, however, is parent frustration and concern. Take heart. Even constant bickering and teasing can help children not only learn about themselves, but about each other as well. Learning to live with one another in a family is one of the most important learning experiences that a child can have.

This is not an easy situation in a household. Because you have children of different ages and temperaments, they have different needs and personalities. They want you involved. If you permit yourself to become involved, it will become a triangle with each child trying to manipulate your input. Try not to take sides. It's okay to admit you don't know who is right or wrong. Tell them they will just have to work it out themselves and leave the room.

If siblings tease each other endlessly, separate them for a while, or take a time out. Remember you can't treat each child the same. Treating children alike is unfair. They each need a different approach. Explain to them that they are different—that you love them both. Finally, if they are really nasty to one another, tell them that although you don't agree, you recognize their anger with each other. However they are family and belong to one another.

Generally, when sibling rivalry heats up, it's a shortage of some form of attention. They may have a need for more affection, praise, time alone with a parent, or other forms of attention. Why not plan a special time with each child? Take a walk together, read a story, plan a shopping trip or special project. If there is a new baby, let the older child help you with the new infant, push the buggy, feed and hold the baby, fetch the diapers or help choose the baby's clothes.

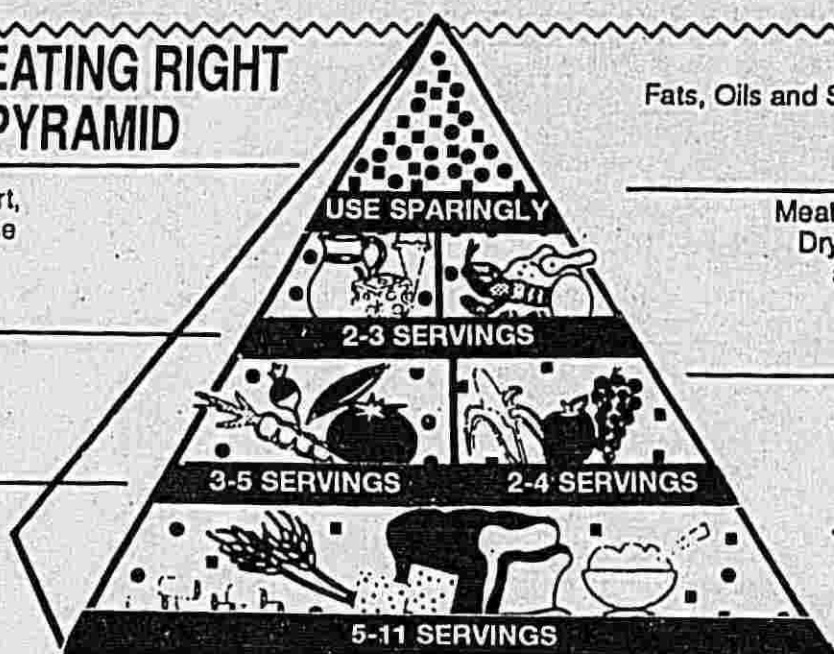

Consider the wonderment you have given each of your children. They are part of a family! When we continue to remind children that they belong to us and each other, it gives them a strong sense of security. Can brotherly love be far behind?

Join the Dolls Project of Child Care Campaign '95!

What is the Child Care Campaign '95?

The child care Campaign '95 is a grass-roots advocacy effort by child care advocates to educate Congress about the importance of child care and to ensure that early childhood funding is not cut in 1995. The upcoming Congress is scheduled to reauthorize the Child Care and Development Block Grant (CCDBG) and the Title IV-A "At-Risk" Child Care Program. In addition, welfare reform will include many provisions that will greatly impact the need for child care services. Given the large number of new members of Congress and the significant cutbacks in social programs that are being proposed, intensive advocacy is critical in order to maintain the current federal investment in child care.

What is the Dolls Project?

The Dolls Project is an effort by local providers and advocates across the country to send paper dolls to all members of Congress to encourage their support of child care. We need to help members of Congress understand the real lives of children and families who need good child care—families who would be helped by increased child care investments and families who will suffer if federal child care funds are cut. We want to flood the halls of Congress with as many dolls as possible, each bearing the message, "Help More Families Afford Good Child Care" and telling the story of an individual child or family in your state.

We need as many dolls as possible to reach all members of Congress. Everyone should mail a large pack of dolls to the offices of their senators and representatives in Washington, D.C., during the Week of the Young Child.

For information on making your own life-size dolls for the Child Care Campaign '95, call Barbara O'Brien at the Colorado Children's Coalition at (303)839-1580.

For more information about the Child Care Campaign '95, contact NAEYC's Public Affairs Division at (202)328-2605 or 1-800-424-2460 or Helen Blank (202/662-3544) or Nicole Poersch (202/662-3670) at CDF.

Spending time with children

The next time you write out your "to do" list for the week, include an activity that you and your child or children can enjoy together. The rewards include positive attention leading to positive behavior, more communication which builds trust in the parenting relationship, and letting your child know that you're willing to share your precious and limited time.

Here are eight activities that demonstrate how simple and varied the time you spend together can be:

- Write a short story or poem about something beautiful each child has done in the past week.
- Have a pajama party with your children. Together, plan a game or special treat.

- Go outside for a nature walk. Find unusual sticks or rocks or look for animals or leaves.
- Go outdoors and play a game, such as throwing a ball or hide and seek.
- Set aside two hours, and let your child choose what to do with you—anything from shopping, to a movie, to taking a walk.
- Give each child a back or foot rub.
- Tell your child "I love you because you are..."

If Your Child Has Problems Learning At School, A Free Screening May Find The Cause

YOUR CHILD may have 20/20 eyesight but 0/0 Vision—the difference is critical.

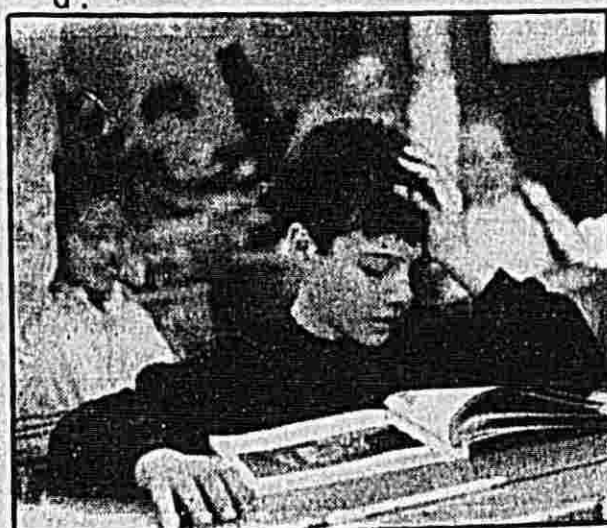

Eyesight is merely the basic ability to see; vision is the ability to identify, interpret, comprehend, and act on what is seen.

Routine vision tests performed by school personnel or by most eye care professionals measure eyesight. They do not include the kinds of testing that can find visually-related learning problems.

COULD YOUR CHILD BE AT RISK?

Our VIP (Vision Improvement Program) can diagnose and successfully treat vision problems that are often reflected in the following behaviors:

1. Unable to sit still; cannot stay on task for any length of time.
2. Very clumsy; poor eye-hand coordination.
3. Does written work very slowly; often fails to complete a task.
4. Has difficulty copying visual material; constantly looks up and down.
5. Moves entire head instead of eyes when reading.
6. Reversals—for example: confusing the words "was" and "saw" or letters "b" and "d".

7. Is disorganized and frustrated when studying visual information.
8. Makes frequent, "careless" errors.

If your son or daughter, age six to 16, has one or more of these behaviors, call 708-362-9900 today to schedule a free screening for vision-related learning problems. It could be the most important phone call you will make during his or her school years.

THE FREE SCREENING INCLUDES AN EVALUATION OF:

VISUAL MEMORY: The ability to store and retrieve visual information.

CONCENTRATION: The ability to maintain a visual task without distractions.

REVERSAL FREQUENCY: Confusing letters (b, d, p, q, j).

VISUAL INTEGRATION: The ability to combine visual input with other sensory or past inputs.

MOTOR SPEED AND PRECISION: Eye-hand coordination.

ACUITY DEFECTS: Near-sightedness, far-sightedness, astigmatism.

EYE TEAMING/FOCUSING SKILLS: The ability to maintain clear and single vision at distance and near for prolonged periods of time without discomfort or abnormal effort.

VISUALIZATION: Ability to develop a mental picture—closely related to comprehension.

VISUAL STYLE: The evaluation of how a person performs a visual task in terms of accuracy, speed and energy used.

SCREENING CONSISTS OF 18 DIFFERENT TESTS AND TAKES APPROXIMATELY ONE HOUR.

Forty-one percent of students in the lower third of a normal class and 68% of students in special education programs have vision problems that can be corrected. Could your child be among them? It costs nothing to find out. Call us at 708-362-9900 for a FREE SCREENING!

WHAT IS THE VIP STRATEGY?

First, we test and diagnose a child's visually-related learning problems. If a visual handicap exists, a vision therapy program will be developed to meet the child's special needs. Once enrolled in our intensive Vision Improvement Program, a child will work on specific goals. A professional vision therapist will conduct carefully sequenced activities to strengthen weak areas in order to bring the "vision system" up to par. The time span for therapy is designed to allow each child to achieve maximum results.

WILL INSURANCE COVER THE COSTS?

THE TIME TO ACT IS NOW!

If your child is between the ages of six and 16, call us today at 708-362-9900 to set up an appointment for a free screening. Any unexplained learning problem is a potential vision-related learning problem. When diagnosed early, VIP can significantly improve and often alleviate the problem entirely.

The comprehensive screening is free. Can you afford to pass up this possible explanation for your child's baffling lack of success in school? Call 708-362-9900.

WHAT PARENTS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT THE VIP VISION THERAPY PROGRAM...

"I can highly recommend anyone with any question about their child's performance, after going through the program successfully with two of my children."

E. Tennesen

"Personality has changed in that Melissa seems to be much more forward in her relationships with other people. Her school work has also improved significantly."

Parental limits can reassure young children

Why do children require discipline? Between the ages of 12 and 18 months, babies become toddlers. This new found mobility is a source of tremendous excitement for them, but with this come many opportunities to get into trouble. The world, after all, can be a dangerous place for a toddler.

With neither self-control nor good judgment, toddlers require protection and safety. We provide these things by baby proofing the house, limiting behavior, distraction, giving simple explanations, encouraging safe exploration and by thanking them for cooperating. Thus marks the true beginning of discipline.

At about 18 months, toddlers begin to assert themselves with greater determination. Symbolized by "No," this reflects their need to express a unique self, separate from mom and dad. This is a major milestone in their development.

Toddlers also begin to push up against or test limits at this time. In doing this, they learn that they are different and separate from other people, and they learn to differentiate right from wrong. Toddlers actually behave in a way that will elicit controls from adults. Our limits reassure them that they will not get out of control and that we are in charge. Remember, this "negative" behavior and our firm response to it are important building blocks in the toddler's psychological development.

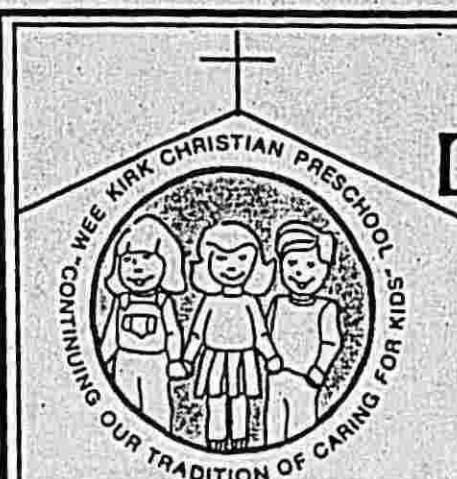

Three- to 5-year olds gradually gain control over their impulses. As they begin to see themselves as part of a larger constellation (not just mommy and I or daddy and I, but mommy, daddy and I) they develop a range of intense feelings: Love, hate, jealousy, rivalry and a rich and vivid fantasy life. Since the boundary between fantasy and reality is still not firm, preschoolers easily become frightened by their wishes.

They need our limits to tame their fantasies. For example, when big brother says he wants to hit his new baby sister, he is greatly reassured when mom and dad remind him that even though he may not like his sister right now, they won't let him hurt her.

When parents respond with limits, preschoolers are reassured and can go about the business of play without worry.

Just as children are faced with the developmental task of establishing controls, parents are faced with a parallel task: Defining what kind of authority they wish to be. This process takes time, but is well worth the effort. The outcome means greater confidence, firmness and sensitivity in you as a parent.—By Ruth Blitner, social work consultant, Family Network

Teaching cooperation—developing a skill for life

Mel Mine! I want to be first! Young children are naturally self-centered. While it is not "bad" for children to express these "me first" feelings, it is important to help children understand that other people have rights and needs that need to be respected. Respect for the feelings and needs of others is fundamental to cooperation. Learning cooperation is as important to healthy development as learning to read, write and talk.

How do we help children develop cooperation skills? Here are some examples of activities that work successfully in early childhood programs and can work for parents at home:

Shared cleanup - children at play often create a "mess" of materials taken out and not put away. When children share a play area, it is often not practical to enforce the rule to "put away one thing before taking out another." Shared cleanup is the practice of everyone working together to clean up and put things away. Supervising adults need to be sure that one child does not take advantage of shared cleanup. Cleanup can be done to music or a timer and everyone can congratulate themselves on a job well done because of cooperation.

Shared projects - these are activities that are too much work for one child, but provide much fun when children work together. Planning for a lemonade stand is one example of a successful group activity. Two children prepare signs advertising the lemonade sale; two children make money tokens to distribute so lemonade can be purchased; two children set up the stand; and two children make the lemonade. This can be a successful family project as well, and everyone can congratulate themselves on a cooperative effort.

Star of the week - everyone needs to feel special, and everyone needs practice in helping others feel special. Star of the Week can be a child in a group care setting or a family member. It is the responsibility of other members of the group to write or draw something that tells the Star what is special about him or her. Through the practice of examining the positive qualities about another person, future cooperation is fostered.

Helping hands - everyone needs practice in doing something for the common good. Setting the table, sorting laundry, putting away groceries, feeding the dog and helping other family members zip coats and tie shoes are all ways of making family life run more smoothly.

Remember, acquiring lifetime skills takes a long time and much patience. Cooperation requires this kind of skill building, but it is time and energy that pays great dividends.—By Dolores Hermann, Director, Dearhaven Child Care and Learning Center.

Employers' family-friendly attitudes help everyone

The assistance employees want most in solving their child care problems is remarkably inexpensive: Attitudes and policies that are "family friendly."

Employers should recognize that families and their needs are important, and may occasionally take precedence over work. Parents want to be treated as adults who recognize—and minimize—those times. And they are willing to reward family-friendly employers with their loyalty and productivity.

How do such policies and attitudes work? Imagine two mothers who get calls at 4 p.m. on Monday, saying that their sons are throwing up and feverish.

Employer F (family-friendly) says, "Of course you can leave to pick him up. Do you have someone to care for him if he's still sick tomorrow?" Perhaps he even adds, "If not, you can work from home."

Mother F rushes out, appreciative of the consideration, and looks for someone to care for her son the next day. If she is unsuccessful, she either works from home that day or takes a day of her sick leave.

Employer U (unfriendly) says, "Everyone else manages to stay until 5 p.m. All right, go, but remember you can't take sick leave for someone else's illness."

Mother U rushes out, angry as well as worried. If she can't get someone to care for her son on Tuesday she has no choice but to lie, saying that she, too, is sick. She feels guilty, but can't leave a sick child home alone.

By Tuesday afternoon the sons are better. The doctor is too busy today to pronounce them ready to go back to child care, but will see them at 8 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Mother F calls her boss, explains the situation, and says she'll come in as soon as possible.

Mother U can't do that, because she has said that she, herself, is sick. So she calls in sick again, and then stages a sudden recovery or stays out all day. Again she feels guilty and angry about being put in this position.

What has been the cost of these two approaches? Both have cost an hour of productivity on Monday and some time on Wednesday, but Employer U has also lost good will.

If Mother F worked at home on Tuesday, she probably produced a full day's output. If other employees needed to talk to her they could call. She sees herself as a valued, respected member of a team.

Mother U was unavailable for work or consultation while on sick leave, and returns with a chip on her shoulder. If another job with a more understanding employer comes along, she'll grab it, leaving Employer U with the costs of finding and training her replacement.

Employers who enhance employees' ability to deal with crises through family-friendly policies and attitudes will find that increased productivity and loyalty also enhances their bottom line.—By Donna Loundy, Child Care Coalition of Lake County

Teachers need to be aware of their influence on children

Rainbow House, a shelter in Chicago for battered women and children, has produced a helpful handbook for teachers and parents of young children called "Choosing Non-Violence."

Teaching non-violence in preschool or any educational setting begins when teachers look at their own personal lives. The adults in any environment set the tone. Choosing non-violence must begin with the adults. Their behavior is what children pick up on. What adults do does have an impact on children. The voice tone and body language are models of behavior for children.

In order to change the status of violence in our lives, we must first examine our own lives. Violence happens when people are so angry, frustrated or afraid that they become out of control. Dealing with strong feelings is a big part of learning that we have power over our feelings. People have choices on how to deal with feelings. As adults, the ability to recognize our own feelings is a model for children we teach.

First of all, identify what is causing your anger. Quite often, anger is taken out on someone or something else. Second, talk about your feelings. It is especially helpful to talk to the person with whom you are angry. Finally, if you feel out of control, remove yourself from the situation. Some physical exercise and a change of scenery can help reduce the stress of the moment. But do not just try to forget it, discuss it.

The Rainbow House Handbook suggests several ways in which teachers can model positive relationships and behavior toward others.

- A sense of humor can help ease negative feelings.

- A teacher needs to be aware of her own limits. Take a break when things are too intense.

- Stop and think before acting. Counting to ten is a great idea.

- Don't make a big fuss over what are really mistakes or accidents rather than mischief.

- Be flexible.

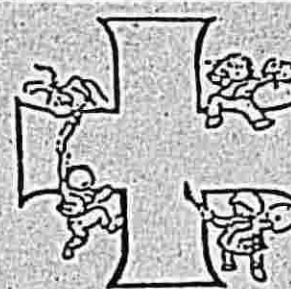

- Do activities you enjoy doing with your class.

In addition to the teacher's attitude and approach, the environment has an effect as well. Is the room comfortable, clean and inviting? Are there enough materials for children to use without fighting over them? Do children have an opportunity for active play as well as quiet time? Is there an opportunity for the children to share their ideas, feelings and desires?

Children need to have your respect. Treat children the way you would want to be treated. When teachers admit to making a mistake and use "I" messages to share feelings. It helps children learn ways to express their own feelings. Tell children you care about them and show it.

It is also important for teachers to acknowledge and reward good behavior. Positive reinforcement means saying "Thank you" and "I like it when you..." to children who are behaving in positive ways.—By Diane Philipp, Director, Early Childhood Learning Center, Redeemer Lutheran Church.

Peace as part of good health

Recent surveys in Lake County suggest that citizens are aware of an increase in the disease called violence. Signs and symptoms are present in our language, culture and everyday life. Our society has become infatuated with this learned behavior.

Our challenge is to develop communities where learning can happen. We must create communities that have economic and physical resources and a system of education and human services that support children and their families in their efforts to succeed. We can think of our system of vioposed of the following pieces: teachers, students, families, counselors, principals, businesses, media, police/juvenile justice, government officials and health care providers.

We have to be willing to work together to change structures and policies that frame the way we live. If we approach violence as a health problem, addressing early symptoms and prevention, we can facilitate a systematic integration of community, private and public entities. We will have PEACED together the puzzle.—By Barbara Haley, Director, Division of Health Facilities, Lake County Health
